King of the road

Spinal meningitis hasn't stopped Morewood's John F.
King.

The disease has slowed him down a bit maybe, but he still gets around.

Mr. King, 52, was left blind in one eye and could no longer drive a car. But he can cycle, and that he does with a vengeance.

He bought a Raleigh racer about six years ago and in summer, it's his chief transportation. In winter, he walks.

The Raleigh has carried him several hundred miles and uses a set of tires per season, Mr.
King says.

He peddles as far afield as Cornwall, Iroquois,

Casselman, and Osgoode.
Each community is about 60 kilometers one-way from Morewood.

"I like the country and I like to see what's going on. A lot of the time I do it for pleasure, but if I need a can of paint or some screws, I'll take the bike to Chesterville."

Sometimes, he says, people he knows will pick him up on the road and he saves some muscle power. But he would just as soon get the fresh air and exercise.
