

Russell Review

JUNE 4, 1975

VOL. 1 NO. 2

S O R R Y T O K E E P Y O U W A I T I N G !

We're back, and this time in our new format! We hope you like it. The color will shock a few, and please a few, but nobody will ignore it. Many promised features have been included, and more are to come. We counted on community support and got it in full measure.

There remain a few wrinkles, and we know you'll bear with us as we iron them out. The Review will be worth the growing pains.

G E T T O K N O W U S !

You're probably wondering just what the Review is all about. Let me try to explain it. About a month ago, at an R.A. meeting, somebody suggested a community newspaper. Ideas became plans, plans became actions and actions became the Review. It all happened so fast we're still picking up loose ends. From the first, however, we've had some pretty clear ideas about several things.

First, we intend to produce the best quality paper we can. Russell has never been noted for half-hearted efforts, and we don't plan to be out of step. Second, we intend to get into every mail box, and we are going to do it at no cost to the reader. The merchants of Russell have backed us generously in our venture, and we hope they'll find their advertising worthwhile. Third, we want to serve all community groups in our "Bulletin Board" section, our News, and our Special Features. Religion and politics? Well, they seem to be pretty much part of the community, so we'll treat them, in all due respect, as any other group. Just don't expect us to play favorites. Fourth, we will depend heavily on contributions of articles, news items, bulletins and so on from the community. We want you to note, though, that we reserve the right to edit. We won't do it much, but occasionally, to make a big article fit a not-so-big space, somebody has to pare it down a bit. Of course, anything written by a "poison pen" just won't
