THE GIRL GUIDES

The First Russell Girl Guides had another adventurous weekend. On October 3, 1975, six girl guides were packed and ready to begin a camp trip. At six o'clock Tena Weatherall, Karen Butler, Rosemary Wigcheren, Pamela Smit, Joan Boersma and Janice Saunders all met at Mrs. Nancy Scarth's farm in Osgoode.

The tents, lats, and grease pits were all put up first; then a huge campfire was built and hot cocoa was made.

Then we settled into our tents for the night. One of the tents was entertained by one of the guides doing some sleep-talking.

The next day was also full of surprises. One of the guides got a surprise birthday cake at seven o'clock Saturday morning.

A hike was held at 2 o'clock down the Mighty Castor River. To top off the hike one of the guides fell into the river. After that there was a great amount of splashing, pushing and soaking each other. To end the day off, a blazing campfire, bid each one a good night.

The next morning a great amount of frost surrounded us. The day went quite quickly with a small church service by a babbling brook. Before we knew it, it was time to go. We took down the tents, packed knapsacks and cleaned the campsites up. We then left and all admitted "it was a great weekend". The three girls receiving badges are Karen Butler, Camp Leader; Pamela Smit, Camp Leader; and Tena Weatherall, Campfire Leader.

Mark Twain met a friend at the races one day in England. This friend came up to him and said, "I'm broke, I wish you would buy me a ticket back to London." "Well," Mark said, "I'm nearly broke myself, but I will tell you what I'll do. You can hide under my seat and I'll hide you with my legs."

The friend agreed to this. Then Mark Twain went down to the ticket office and bought two tickets. When the train pulled out his friend was safely under the seat. The inspector came around for the tickets and Mark gave him two. The inspector said, "Where is the other one?" Tapping his head the humorist said in a loud voice, "That is my friend's ticket! He is a little eccentric and likes to ride under the seat."
