

Full and by, starboard tack, in a "moderate gale". Then the orders "Helm alee!"
... "Let go and haul!". The helm is put down, lines are cast off as the crew rush to their stations. Muscles strain, sails crack like thunder, sheets and blocks lash about.