

Linesmen prepare to cast off and put their ship to sea

Being a sea cadet isn't all plain sailing. Even a ship that isn't really at sea needs to be Bristol fashion, so cadets have to swab

a few decks. From left, Pat Ellis, Phil Stow, Jim Ellis and Arthur Stevenson put elbow-grease to work for the bosun.

May 1966