

Music at Port Milford, will make Music at Mount Tabor

Music at Port Milford, an international chamber music camp held at Port Milford each summer for the past five years, will be performing three concerts in the month of August. These concerts are to both raise awareness of the existence and purpose of the music camp, and to raise monies for its student scholarship fund. The camp provides an "intimate and happy environment in which" advanced young string students "may study and perform string quartets, along with providing supporting choral and orchestral experience." Although the majority of the young people attending the camp are from the United States, recruiting has been carried out vigorously in Canada, with auditions being held in Kingston and Toronto. From these auditions three Canadian students were selected, one of a full scholarship of $1,350, another with partial financial assistance, and the third young person won a $500. scholarship from the Brantford Symphony Orchestra that will help with his tuition. It will be through your support of these concerts, that these financial obligations will be met, as any fund raised in Canada go to assist Canadian students, so don't let these young people down.

Realizing that the general public as well as the students are having hard times, with the economy being what it is, this year's concerts are lower in price than they have been in previous years, with a charge of $5.00 and $3.00 for seniors and students. And there will be three concerts. The first two will be at the Picton Town Hall at 7:30 p.m. on August 13th, a concert of students performing choral, orchestra and chamber works and August 18th with the faculty performing chamber music. The third and final concert will be at Mount Tabor Playhouse in Milford on August 21st and will be a performance of works the students have mastered over the period of the camp.

These programmes are for the bargain hunter. For low price of $15. or if you are a senior or a student, as little as $9.00, you can enjoy three performances AND help a student, so come to all three.
