Bernard Keogh, Raymond McIntosh and Clifford Walker. These awards are given for service to the fair and to the community in general, and what could one say, but that they were well deserved. If there is any complaint about the award, it is that the medal awarded is an American motif, complete with eagle and stars and stripes. There must be a medal with a Canadian motif that would reflect our country rather than that of our neighbour.

Everything was well attended, from the fair itself to the canoe races, the dog and cat shows, the various contests and bingo. The children's rides and games were a real high-light for the kids and gave their parents a chance to look around or visit, while still keeping a weather eye on the youngsters. Perhaps the exhibits were down a bit, but if each of us were to plan to put in two more entries next year, that would make all the difference. But let it be said, the quality of the exhibits was excellent. Speaking of which, exhibits that is, I suppose that the Baby Show would be the exception to everyone trying to put in two more entries next year, although it is an idea that has some merit.

Attendance at the evening show was up from other years. Perhaps the increase in both seating and comfort had something to do with it. Whatever it was, coupled with the excellence of the show, word of mouth should make the evening show and even greater drawing card next year. We have some pretty talented people in our community including some young ones. This show gives them a chance to gain some exposure to performing, and help them become accustomed to being in front of an audience, thus another plus for the show.

Great Fair! Great Fun! See you next year.

Add the dressing to fruit and toss gently.
Refrigerate until time to serve.

*There once was a man named Blair,
Who went out hunting for bear.
He wanted a fur coat,
but went down the bear's throat,
So he got his fur coat, then and there.*

Helpful Hint:

To soften hardened paint brushes, soak them in hot vinegar and wash them in warm, soapy water.

Don't Forget

Dress the little ghost or goblin to glow in the dark on Hallowe'en Night. We don't want our little pumpkins squashed.

Why not roll up those pennies lying around the house and give them to UNICEF. It helps kids in other countries and it gets these coins back into circulation, saving the tax payers the cost of making new ones.

And kids, instead of wasting all that energy on tricks, why not give someone who needs it a couple of hours of window washing. Put the soap to good use. You'll make a friend and make yourself a hero. Go for it!

Friendship Circle Ladies

We are still lacking a few ME pages and quilt blocks. Please bring them to our Oct. 14th meeting so we can get moving on our booklet and autograph quilt.
