much attention, alerted her to her winnings, which she cashed in and subsequently purchased an unusual painting of a horse that hangs in our living room. To me that was "luck", and in Valerie's view, any money won by luck should be spent immediately on something that you probably would not have normally bought.

This I suppose is good advice, since keeping this "easy" money around might lead one to engage in more "chance" items. This sometimes isn't true. Let me recount a little episode with my eldest grandson Zachary. During his visit a couple of weeks ago I took him and grandma to the Rotary Club luncheon. As is the usual practise I purchased a few tickets on the 50/50 draw which runs each week until an appropriate, predetermined card is drawn. Again you've guessed it. I had given Zach all the tickets I had purchased for the three of us and sure enough he won over $400. A lot of money for a 13 year old!

What a glow that gave to his visit and considerable personal joy to himself. One morning after his win he said to me "Guess what I did granpa". "What?" I asked. "Well I lay down on the bed and threw all the money up in the air" he said. I laughed with him, but I'm sure he will save his winnings for the future.

Soon after that Valerie won 3 beautiful hand blown glass garlic bulbs at the Garlic Festival. Is this luck? I think so and certainly a bringer of joy to the recipient. Who knows, perhaps the Lottery will round out the third incident of luck in our family.

All of this is fun to think about but when I look at my wife, family and friends I know that while I may not have been lucky in a Lottery, I sure have been lucky in my life.

The Milford Library has provisionally offered to hold Club meetings there. This would provide an excellent location with no onus on individual members to host meetings. If confirmed, meetings could be on afternoons or evenings when the library is closed.
