Milford Web Site Examined

When I discovered the web site called "milford.on.ca/" I expected that the owners' names would be posted. It appears that one cannot discover the profile of this private web site until after registration. Do you know who they are? I ask this because everything important usually becomes political. I think that it would be a shame if the community became divided when several people had their own web site and wanted to be known as THE Milford web site. I have no right to make any suggestions to a private site, but I would probably be interested in registering if most of the links were non-commercial and dedicated to:

-- community organizing.

-- free self help topics.

-- A directory of local email and web page addresses to enable the infrastructure for personal communications in an increasingly impersonal world.

I am pleased to see that someone has started a local web site for the community. I am sure that visitors will not realize and give the credit which is deserved. I have little doubt that it will be a thankless chore to maintain. If you know the site owner's name, so that I can decide whether I wish to register, please reply.

Thank you,
...John Gilbert

Editor's Note:

Peter Allen is the sole registered owner of the milford.on.ca web site. His expressed intention is to provide a medium for communication in the area. At his suggestion the on-line version of the South Marysburgh Mirror was added to the content. Participation in expanding the features and constructive uses of the site by any parties living in or involved with the area would be welcomed.
