bear scared Rudy so much that it gained dramatically in size and ferociousness. Maybe that's it.

Today, the latest thing in preservation is freeze drying. This arcane art began with the freeze drying of pets. An advertisement quotes a satisfied user, "We received Snuffy back today and are thrilled at how wonderful he looks." That is only the beginning. Have you caught a magnificent fish? It can be freeze dried. Turtles, snakes, lizards, anything as long as it's not too big, like a horse or (ahem) a bear like Rudy's. There's no stopping progress, and it looks like all the people who struggled to graduate from the Northwestern School of Taxidermy may well find themselves like wagon makers, skilled at what they do, but there is little demand. I'm happy that I flunked out.
