young.

I tried this the other day in one of the offices I frequent. Three young men were sitting around a table eating lunch and chatting. At an appropriate time I said 'I'm going to preface my next statement by saying When I was your age' Without blinking they replied 'Yes we know you walked to school with snow up to your waist.'

It's a relief to know they haven't lost their sense of humor – goodness knows what they will say to young people when they get old – maybe 'when I was your age I could only be driven to day camp in the summer instead of going around the world!!!'
