

New Nesting Home for Barn Swallows at Prince Edward Point

(Continued from page 1)

and held in place with small scraps of wood. They are scattered throughout the structure at several levels.

Canadian Wildlife Service is to be commended on the speedy construction of the Barn Swallow nesting structure – and on the care taken to preserve and instal the old nesting material in the new structure.

During February, members of SSJI, PEPtBO and PECFN met with CWS personnel and wrote letters to the Steven Guilbeault, Minister of Environment and Climate Change; Jean-Francois Tremblay, Deputy Minister; Ryan Williams MP, Bay of Quinte; Tara Shannon, Assistant Deputy Minister Environment and Climate Change; and several CWS officials.

We raised alarm through social media and local and regional print, online, radio and television media. We were heartened by the support for the Barn Swallows from every corner. The Canadian Wildlife Service promised they would erect an alternate structure before the Swallows returned and they have kept the promise.

Barn Swallows are expected to begin arriving at Prince Edward Point in April. Their new home is waiting, and we all hope they find it to their liking.

Prince Edward Bird Observatory Hosts Launch of Steve Burrows' New Birder Murder Mystery, May 18

(Continued from page 2) from guests. Refreshments in the Church Hall follow the program, when Steve will be on hand to sign copies of the book, available for purchase on site. Tickets for Steve's County fans go on sale at PEPtBO.ca on April 10 at $20. Seating is limited. You also can check out events during the Spring Birding Festival, May 10-12, 2024, on that PEPtBO site.

Looking for a path toward a happier, healthier you?

Be the person you always wanted to be!
I can help you, your children and family.

- Find inner joy
- Increase sense of well being
- Overcome negative emotions
- Live a happier and healthier life
- Improve relationships with your children, family and friends

I am a certified Life Coach with 30 years of practice; finalist for Canadian Coach of the Year. An award-winning creator and leader of coaching programs and products. A Soul-Healing teacher and practitioner.

Susan Howson, MA, CPCC, PCC, CHBC

kidscoachingconnection.com

magnificentcreations.com

susan@magnificentcreations.com

416-708-6232