

Debonair Prince

A debonair Prince Philip strolls through crowds in London, Ont., this week. Umbrellas were carried by the Royal Party because of inclement weather.

WIND BLOWN RED CARPET . . . proves no obstacle

ROYAL SIGNATURE FOR GUEST BOOK . . . with city clerk Don Morris and Bob Andras

Presbyterians Had 1st Church

By INEZ McCUAIG

Schreiber's original churches were the Presbyterian built in 1887, Methodist built in 1892, Anglican in 1894 and Roman Catholic in 1889.

In the fall of 1921 the Methodists and Presbyterians united, selling the Methodist church and parsonage and using the enlarged former Presbyterian church. The name was changed to St. Andrew's United Church.

The Methodist church had an organ worked by a bellows in a back room of the church and several grandfathers of today recall being fired as organ blower, when they left their post to take part in a game of some sort during the service, leaving the organ without power for the closing hymn when they forgot to return.