Given the overall tone of the Parliamentary Debate and in Committee hearings where we can see repeated attempts to link contraband tobacco with organized crime, drugs and weapons, it is likely that judicial authorizations to search (warrants) that are sought by police will likely be for search by dynamic entry

(i.e. no-knock raids by SWAT-type police forces with access to automatic weapons, flash-bang explosive devices, etc) and allow for nighttime execution to allow for the element of surprise.

It appears from Committee testimony that the police intend to set up more interagency investigations groups and task forces like what is done in Cornwall with RCMP, CBSA, OPP, Ontario Ministry of Finance, and the Cornwall and Akwesasne Mohawk Police.

Further, more vehicle stops and checkpoints and interdiction choke points will likely be set up to further restrict movement of contraband tobacco, especially along the 401 Corridor and outside of reserve territories.

Given the tone of the Committee hearings, the Bill is likely to be passed unanimously by Parliament. To quote Conservative MP Blaine Clakins, Wetaskiwin, AB on December 5, 2013, "Now we have Criminal Code provisions that we hope are going to be adopted unanimously by Parliament. I would be interested in seeing anybody who would vote against this.

The content of this article was put together from the Legislative Summary of Bill C-10: An Act to amend the Criminal Code (trafficking in contraband tobacco) and the testimony of witnesses at the Parliamentary Committee hearings.
