

NEW CREDIT NEWS

The school TV. fund has now reached $75.00 and it begins to look like the finance company won't be coming after our TV. However just to make sure the school children are now selling 50¢ chocolate bars. They hope to finish off the TV payments with this project and if any money is left over, they will use it for a school trip next June.

Eskimo Visitors

The New Credit factory which makes burlap & wire contours for auto seats was visited by an Eskimo group on Friday. The New Credit ladies also held a Valentine's day bake sale on Friday.

New Credit Council Visits McMaster University

The New Credit councillors visited McMaster University on February 12 as guests of the group presently doing research on the reserve. They were shown some interesting Ojibway (Chippewa) pottery from long ago which had been dug up in other parts of Ontario. They also learned a little bit of their history such as the fact that the Ojibways came south from the Georgian Bay area long ago. The Ojibway group called Mississaugas owned much of what is now Toronto. Contrary to what many Six Nations believe, the Mississaugas bought the land where they now live for about $500,000. They got the money from lands sold near Toronto.

If you think today's councillors are slow you should have seen the old-timers at work. Records at the Indian agency office in Brantford show that it took 50 years for the council to decide to sell the Mississaugas the land. Compared with that, the present council works with blinding speed.

Autumn Leaves

I like autumn leaves because they are very pretty and nice. I like to jump in them and play around with them, thats why I like them.

In lighter vein

A Sunday school teacher told her class, "All who want to go to heaven, raise your hands."

One little boy did not respond.

The youngster next to him nudged him and said sharply, " Raise your hand, she doesn't mean right now."

When a certain Indian man celebrated his 100th birthday, he was visited by newspaper reporters and they asked him if he had any advice to give to the young people of this country.

"yes" he said, "I think you should be more careful of your immigration laws than we were."
