TEKAWENNAKE

SIX NATIONS REPORTER

September 3 - 10

Thirty-Sixth Edition

Since our last edition, of July 27 - Aug. 2, a great change has taken place in the life of Tekawennake. Our energetic leader, Rev. Stephen Shantz, who started us off with Tekawennake on the right foot, has moved away and now we're on our own hook.

That's right, folks, we're our own bosses and we hope for as much success in the future as we've had in the past, and with all our eager supporters we're bound for success. Many thanks to you all, and many thanks to Rev. Shantz for providing inspired leadership.

There is the industry on the New Credit Reserve, making car seat accessories, also sparked by Mr. Shantz. Now more space is required to enlarge the industry. They're in business and well on their way to a desirable economy.

We believe this is the vigorous leadership needed on all Reserves. One who can get the Indians started in industry and the Indians can continue from there.

Tekawennake will not dispense with the religious section. ALL churches will be invited to produce a weekly devotional for the readers and this invitation includes the Longhouse for they possess some very beautiful invocations which have come down from antiquity.

Six Nations News

You recall the financial statement of the last issue, instead of being down, we were up all of $18.77. Well, August was not a holiday. With the production of the Historical Edition at 50¢ per copy and sales of the same at the Pageant and local stores, we were able to pay 1/3 down on a Gestetner duplicating machine and we've borrowed the other 2/3 from our local Credit Union, which means of course that it must be paid back.

It has been found necessary to raise the subscription price to $5.00 annually and $2.50 semi-annually, beginning Sept. 1st. and as the subscriptions fall due. The 10¢ single rate at stores will continue for the present.

If any of our supporters would like to donate any extra change to the Gestetner fund we'd be very grateful. It's a very fine machine and will do a good printing job. We simply could not continue being a borrower and taking advantage of good friends any longer; without a Gestetner we couldn't carry on.

The sale of the Historical Numbers was very successful both to Indians and non-Indians alike. It was amazing the number of non-Indians who are interested in our history. Ed.

What a summer!! The first real one we've had in years. Plenty of heat and rain with excitement aplenty - what with Mohawk Girls Ball team both winning and near-winning, then to watch the fabulous success of the Warriors Lacrosse team.

The days and evenings begin to cool and we might as well admit that summer is gone. We've had it! The wood-thrushes left for the sunny south in mid-August and the robins followed suit. The saucy Blue Jays will remain until the chill drives them south. The shy brilliant Cardinals stay all winter to decorate and cheer the bleak wintry landscape. It's time to search out the rubbers and galoshes for come Sept. 1st the weather-man never fails to provide rain.

One consolation, autumn is one of the most pleasant interludes of the year, and dreamy, hazy Indian Summer we can always rely on for additional warm weather. For today we turn the calendar page to Sept. 2nd. Labour Day and it did rain. Ed.

Six Nations News (cont'd)Dr. Sally M. Weaver

Dr. Sally Weaver is a cultural anthropologist and has been engaged in cultural research on the Six Nations Reserve during the summers from 1963-1968. This research is subsidized by the National Museum of Canada and the Canada Council. There is no direct salary, the Canada Council merely pays research expenses. Dr. Weaver establishes temporary residence on the Reserve during the summer months by kind permission of the band council and is well qualified for the task.

Dr. Weaver was born at Fort Erie, Ont. in 1940. She received her M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Toronto in 1964 and 1967 respectively.

Dr. Weaver is at present assistant professor of the Department of Sociology and Anthropology at the University of Waterloo. In spite of her extensive learning, Dr. Weaver is one of the most likeable personalities we've ever met. Her treatise on the History of the Medical Affairs of the Six Nations 1850-1967 was thorough and complete. A resume of this article appeared in the Historical Edition of Tekawennake.

The research takes the form of a historic study of community participation in voluntary associations on the Six Nations Reserve covering the period from 1850-1967. Data will be obtained from two primary sources, archival material in Ottawa, Toronto and in the Indian Agency in Brantford and from scheduled interviewing and participant observation in the Reserve community.

Ferry Service

The new ferry at Chiefswood is scheduled to be launched on Thursday, Sept. 5th. It is of steel construction and built entirely by local workmen. The ferry will be a considerable boost for travel to Chiefswood. It is recalled that E. Pauline Johnson wrote a poem alluding to the old ferry.

Waterworks

Also the waterworks program in Ohsweken is progressing according to schedule.

Successful Arts Course on Six Nations Reserve

Some 60 children on the Six Nations Reserve attended the first summer art course sponsored by the Six Nations Arts Council.

The instructor was Miss Sharon VanEvery. She was assisted by Miss Lorraine Hill, a student at B.C.I.

The main purpose of the month-long course was to enable the Indian children to become more aware of their heritage. The classes were held at four Reserve schools. The art work of the pupils was on display at No. 8 school on the weekend of August 14th. and attracted parents and interested friends.

Grand River United Church Congregational Picnic

An old-fashioned farmers' picnic held by the Grand River Church on Aug. 24th at Woodland Park proved an unqualified success. The weather co-operated beautifully, and although on the hot side, there was plenty of shade for comfort.

Prizes were awarded to children who competed in the various races and balloon and blueberry pie-eating contests. The elders engaged in horseshoe throwing, log sawing and thread the needle competitions. In a final contest young and old alike entered the massive tug-of-war pull. They nearly broke the hay-fork rope.

With appetites whetted by an afternoon of keen action, all sat in a circle to partake of a bountiful picnic supper served by the U.C.W. ladies. Fun for all!

Wedding Bells

Delaware United Church was the scene of a pretty wedding last Saturday afternoon when Miss Geraldine Buck, daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Robert Buck, Delaware, was united in marriage to Mr. David Seth, 6th line. Rev. Kenneth Welch performed the ceremony.

Miss Nancy Davis was bridesmaid and Mr. Wilbur Seth supported the groom. Miss Roseanne Wilson presided at the organ. The wedding reception was held in the basement dining room of the church. The young couple received many lovely gifts.

MAGAZINE SECTIONDEVOTIONAL by Rev. Ken Welch

In many of our travels around the country, we are bound to run upon some road that is under construction. The warning signs alert us and the reconstruction confronts us.

SQUEEZE LEFT: In order to proceed we must shift lanes. The main highway is being reconstructed and widened to carry the heavy volume of traffic for a new day. In the church the Christian highway is being reconstructed and broadened to meet the complexities of this new day. Complexity of structure, consequent costs, and a natural reluctance of the church to change has caused construction to go slow. So within the church some have moved from the centre lane into the improvised lane.

MERGING TRAFFIC: In this age of fast moving traffic, numerous lanes of traffic can be funnelled in to one large thoroughfare without causing too much delay. In the Church people are realizing that they can work together, they can share in responsibilities, and they can have a common concern for man's wellbeing. I'm sure that if we get stopped for a routine check up, the main questions will not be of a denominational nature, but how well we can cope and share with our fellows who travel the same roads. The rules of the road as well as the rules of our faith apply to all travellers not to just a few.

BRIDGE UNDER CONSTRUCTION: A few years ago without the use of the bridge, travel was limited. However bridges span the chasms and we are free to travel. Since the meetings of Vatican II we are discovering a common ground with our Catholic brethren. We are able to sit down and find out what we have in common in both faiths, and then work toward the construction of a suitable bridge. In a few communities the same structure is serving both the Catholic and Protestant faiths.

CONSTRUCTION ENDS - RESUME SPEED: Although found on the highway this sign cannot apply to the church. In search for changing structures, renewed emphasis, and re-interpretation must go on. Man's needs will continue to change and the church can not remain inactive. Experimentation must be a mark of the church to-day. We ought not to be surprised then if some lanes lead to a dead end. Other lanes may point to a sharp turn, into new lanes as yet unrealized. At one time the church acted as a rudder having almost complete control of the destiny of society. Later it became a stabilizer. But to-day the Church is more like an icebreaker with all its risks and strains which this role entails. Thus one must constantly look and be aware of the movement of Christ and his way in our daily life.

"The gate is wide that leads to perdition, there is plenty of room on the road, and many go that way; but the gate that leads to life is small and the road is narrow, and those who find it are few."

OLD DICE

(by Carl Froman)

We sat together, old man, and me.
We both remembered, how it used to be.

The open fire, gave a comfort flame,
To this fine old man, and to me, the same.

We smoked in peace, just him and me,
Few words were spoken, they need not be.

Old Dice is different, his religion too.
Cayuga Longhouse, his religious view.

He was kind to me, when I was a boy,
So I try now, to give him joy.

Many years have passed; but it's still the same,
When we smoke together, and watch the flame.

His time draws near, we his people know,
When Manitou calls, Old Dice will go.

Tekawennake has had many favourable comments on the contributions of Carl Froman - most of them are - Who is Carl Froman? He's so good! We agree. Keep them coming Carl. Old Dice is Harlow Jamieson 90 years old, who has been a faithful worker at the Pageant ever since it started.

BEAUTIFUL BRITISH COLUMBIA - by Audrey Powless

The following article is written by Miss Audrey Powless, R. R. 6 Hagersville, who had the honour of being chosen a Young Voyageur to B. C. We think you'll agree that Audrey proved herself worthy of the honour.

Thank you, Audrey, for the interesting account of your voyage.

Beautiful British Columbia (cont'd)

On Wednesday, July third, we arrived at the C.N.R. station in New Westminster, after spending three days on the train. In that time we young voyageurs got acquainted with one another, our escorts and interesting people on the train.

We were met by a reception committee and then transported by bus to the Vancouver Golf Club. A reception lunch was held in our honour and at the closing we were greeted by our hosts and their families and were taken to our "new temporary homes."

The next day we assembled at the Centennial School for a bus tour of the Vancouver area. This tour included seeing the Simon Fraser University which works on a Tri-Semestrial system, also Stanley Park in which we saw quite a variety of animals, totem poles, games, crafts etc. We made a special stop at Pauline Johnson's monument to take pictures. That day, for most of us, we had our first swim in the Pacific Ocean. For another stimulation we had a Chinese Smorgasbord in "Chinatown". To finish the tour we spent the evening at the Pacific National Exhibition grounds and Playland.

Next day we Young Voyageurs assembled at C. Zellerback plant for a tour of Fraser Lumber Millers where we were privileged to see how plywood, etc, was made. That night the Department of Recreation arranged a dance in the New Centennial Centre in our honour.

Our free days were Saturday and Sunday and Tuesday. On these days our "new families" left it up to us which sights we were interested in seeing, such as Lynn Valley, Capillano Suspension Bridge, Squamish Reserve, Shannon Falls, Vancouver's hippie centre, Legislative Buildings etc.

The day before we came home, our hosts accompanied us on a trip to Vancouver Island and Victoria. We went via Tsawassen and returned via Horseshoe Bay by ferry. The tour of Victoria was well organized and this enabled us to see all we could in time allowed. We agreed that Victoria was the most beautiful and friendly city we visited. We saw the highest totem pole which towers 127 feet.

We also attended the Undersea Gardens which cover hundreds of square feet of natural sea bottom covered with a profusion of living and colorful anemonies, sea urchins, vividly tinted starfish and feathery sea plumes, plus octopuses and wolf eels and a great variety of fish.

On our way to Nanaimo we stopped to see the Glass Castle in Duncan on Vancouver Island. It is composed of over 180,000 bottles.

On Thursday, July 11, we departed at 10:30 p.m. and arrived home Sunday at 12:30 p.m. midnight.

This trip was educational in that it enabled us to meet and adapt ourselves to new people, new situations, and land conditions. The people we met made this trip more enjoyable.

We appreciated being a part of a large plan to further unite different parts of Canada.

NEW CREDIT NEWS

On Sunday September 1, ten young people of the Springvale Brethren Christ church took a bicycle excursion from Mr. John Hall's to the Indian Village sixth line. The trip proved most satisfactory and the village was a big hit with the young people. However only 3 completely finished the round trip to and from the village. Due to a few minor catastrophies a few of the young people were forced to be driven back to their destination.

New Credit Industry

A small group of Mississauga and Six Nations Indians have converted a small dance hall into a factory and are turning out reinforced burlap linings for the bottoms of car seats. The new factory is located on the New Credit Reserve.

The factory came about mainly through the efforts of New Credit Councillor Ward LaForme and the United Church minister Rev. Stephen Shantz.

When the factory in the United States, producing the linings, closed down Rev. Shantz persuaded his brother, an official of the Van Dresser Novelty Co. of Waterloo, Ont. to let his parishioners at New Credit fill the order. Mr. Ward LaForme then rounded up eight women trainees and obtained permission from the council to use the Rumpus Hall on a temporary basis. The Van Dresser Co. sent a truck load of raw material, an instructor and a dozen wire snips to New Credit and a new factory was in operation in less than a week.

There are now 10 housewives working a five day 40 hour week and the project is paying off handsomely.
