

Remembrance Day at Harold Cenotaph

By L.J. Jackson

Harold - The day was cold as the Stirling Legion and a small crowd gathered at the cenotaph at Harold. As the bugler sounded the "Last Post", the sounds of gunfire in the distance roused emotions.

Traffic was stopped both ways on Highway 14 from the time of the marching of the colours until the last moment of prayer and thoughts of each individual. It was in Remembrance of those who laid down their lives that the crowd joined in two minutes of silence.

At each laying of the wreath, from each name called out, to each salute, great respect was paid for those who had lived and died.

As the CFB Trenton 8 Winged Division marched up Highway 14, the highway became closed to moving traffic until the Remembrance Day Service had ended.

The colour parade paying respect at the Harold Cenotaph.

The reading of those forever Remembered were read.

The laying of the wreaths signalled the respect for each individual who gave their lives for the freedom of their family, friends and country.

Per 547-1

Photos by L.J. Jackson. More Photos on page 6