

per 547-2

6 | Friday, November 19, 2004

STIRLING NEWS ARGUS

Remembrance Day at Harold Cenotaph

continued from page 5

The keening mournful lament of the bugle drifted eerily over the cenotaph, sounds seemingly echoing from the very gates of war as in the distance three gun shots sounded.

It was a golden silence as the laying of wreaths brought memories of individuals who laid down their lives.

Respect and undying memories lay down beside the canon and memorial at the Harold Cenotaph.