These are the days when any trouble in reading shows up very plainly. Dark, dull days where every effort has to be used for reading or close work, brings out the deficiency very quickly and brings home to us forcibly the fact that our eyes are not right. Thursday morning last the fire brigade had a call to 55 Third Avenue, Mr. D. Laprairie's fine new store and residence building. The Chief says that if it is correct to refer to stuff as "near beer," then this might be called a "near fire." The chimney of the building was a cement one and the form used in making it was left in. When a fire was started the wooden form took fire and the sparks and blaze from the chimney made some passersby believe there was a fire. As a consequence the firemen had a nice little run.
