BIG DEMAND FOR MINING CLAIMS IN PAS DISTRICT

News of Hollinger Interest in Elbow Lake Creates Much Activity.

In the last issue of The Pas Herald there is the following article under the heading, "Big Demand for Mining Claims at Elbow Lake. Sudden Activity Creates Strong Market for Them."

"Supplies for the Murray property at Elbow lake were taken up on Wednesday. A gang of 25 men was also taken along by Engineer Rutherford, and they will be put to work erecting camps, of which some dozen may be put up. The Hollinger interests behind this are evidently planning to explore the Murray claims thoroughly. Large development cannot be undertaken until milder weather sets in, towards March, and it is expected that some small amount of progress can be made along the exposures.

The announcement that the Hollinger mine of Porcupine holds the option on the Murray claims was followed by increased interest in Elbow lake, and many successful sales of claims have been made. The demand seems to be very active in The Pas for properties in that section. W. Barbutt got $5,000 for his holdings at the north end of Elbow, about seven miles from Murray. Charlie Staback and a local banker nicked off $3,000 between them, and Austin McVey sold to North Battleford interests for an unstated sum. Several parties have gone up for snow staking on location only, and the situation is that the whole district surrounding the lake is liable to be completely blanketed by spring. Nearly every prospector in the country is heading for the new Eldorado, Gus Rosen, Dob Hassett, Jack Owens, Jack and Charlie Staback and Pete the Dane are forming one solid-group to leave for Elbow in a few days to stake up some favorable ground which they had prospected over in the late summer.

The Herald has never seen such strong tone to mining in The Pas district as at present. The reason for this is that people are buying gold claims at Elbow lake on the strength of the Murray discoveries and the fact that the Hollinger is interested in there. Real money is changing hands, and a well located claim commands between $1,000 and $2,500, with ready buyers."

FALLS INTERMEDIATES TO PLAY HERE NEXT WEDNESDAY

The next Intermediate game to be played in Timmins will be here next Wednesday evening, Jan. 18th, when the local Intermediates will try another battle with the Iroquois Falls Intermediates. The local Intermediates, who are in the game for all the sport they can get out of it, are hopeful of trimming the Falls, but in any case they intend to make the Paper Town boys travel some when they come here. There is great interest here in these Intermediate games, and the game with the Falls next Wednesday evening will be a particularly interesting event.

PAINKILLER LAKE MINES NOW IN AMALGAMATION

Two Painkiller Lake properties, the La Santa Lucia and the Cartwright Goldfields, have been amalgamated. The two properties are not far away from the famous Croesus. The Cartwright has six claims on the south side of Painkiller Lake and the La Santa Lucia owns an adjoining claim. The amalgamation is to be known as the Blue Quartz Gold Mines Limited. The capitalization is three million shares of a par value of one dollar each. It is understood that the Blue Quartz Gold Mines have raised enough money among English and Toronto capitalists to conduct an extensive programme of development. This extensive programme has already been planned and it is expected that work on an aggressive scale will be under way at an early date. There is a shaft down 110 feet on the Cartwright and this will be carried to a depth of 400 feet. Drifting and cross-cutting will also be undertaken, chiefly, it is understood, at the 400-foot level, to prove up the continuation of rich veins uncovered near the surface. Work already done on the properties suggests very encouraging prospects. Mr. H. C. Crow, of Toronto, is the president, and Mr. C. H. Taylor, the vice-president of the Blue Quartz Gold Mines.

TIME TO GET READY FOR THE PORCUPINE DOG RACE

Out at the Pas, Manitoba, everything has been in full swing in preparation for the Dog Derby there this year. By getting preparations under way months before the event and by giving the time and attention to the race, the Pas people have made their annual dog team race a matter of literally world-wide fame. All the big daily newspapers "cover" the Pas Dog Race now and the event is also "in the movies" as a regular news feature, more than one film-making firm having representatives on the ground last year to take pictures of the race. It has proven great advertising for the Pas, Man. In addition of the Dog Race the Pas people have all sorts of winter sports and special features, making three or four days of pleasure each year in connection with their dog team race.

One of the chief troubles with the Porcupine Dog Team Race is that preparations each year are left off until just before it is time for the event. The result is that everything has to be rushed at the last minute. The Porcupine Dog-Team Race has been a success each year. Indeed, each year proves just a little more successful than the year before. But a still greater success would no doubt be achieved if there were proper time taken for full preparations. Every year there is a determination expressed that "next year" the work of getting ready for the Dog Race will be taken up at an early date and extra special features introduced. But each succeeding year the matter drifts along and nothing special is done until the last minute. Of course the Race is a success each year, but not so noteworthy an advertisement of the Camp as it might otherwise be.

Up to the present nothing has been done for the 1922 Dog Race, though The Advance has referred to the matter on several occasions. For the Race this year arrangements should be taken up energetically at a very early date. And for "next year" it would be a good idea if organization for the 1923 Race were effected as soon as the 1922 Race is over. That is about the system followed in the Pas, and you have to hand it to the Pas for knowing how to stage a Dog Race and Winter Sports to give the people the greatest possible sport and enjoyment and the district a maximum of first-class advertisement.
