Mr. and Mrs. Archie Brown, Mr. and Mrs. B. Bernard and Postmaster Charley Carr, together with the children and maids, picnicked last Tuesday around Frederickhouse Lake picking the luscious huckleberry.

Fred Lukes of Porcupine expects to leave for Winnipeg in a short time to take charge of the Western Canadian Flour Co. Mr. Lukes has had fifteen years experience in the flour business and is a most capable man in this line of work.

J. Gillette of the Church Camp Missionary Society will hold services in Porcupine next Sunday, filling the pulpit of Rev. Wakefield, who is on a vacation to England. Rev. Gillette will also hold missionary services every evening of the week at 8.30 at the Lyric.

The winning streak of the Porcupine ball players was broken last Monday to the tune of 17 to 7. The Timmins team did the work at their home grounds. Doctor Newell was not in the game for Porcupine, which makes a big difference in this team's play.

Some of the ratepayers in town are attaching ladders to the side of their building as a means of ready escape from fire. Also as a means of fighting fire occurring in adjoining property, which can be done from the roofs of ladder-equipped buildings. In this wooden town this ladder equipment is worthy of emulation.

George J. Miller, of Toledo, Ohio, Secretary of the Porcupine Miraele Mining Co., was in South Porcupine Saturday on his way to look over the work done on their property in Langmuir township. The company has eight claims in this township south of Nighthawk Lake and a force of men have been at work during the year trenching and developing the claims and at the present time sinking is being done to test values at depth.

Porcupine has set aside this Friday as a civic holiday, and the enthusiastic sportsmen of this town at the head of the lake are making thorough and creditable preparations to fittingly celebrate. There will be a baseball tournament and teams from Timmins, Dome, Porcupine and South Porcupine will compete for a $50 purse in gold. The first game will be called at 10.30 sharp in the morning. The first ball in the afternoon game will be pitched by N. W. Rowell.

In the Majestic Theatre the people of South Porcupine have a clean place of amusement. The pictures are good, the service is the best that can be had here and three changes are made each week. In addition to this a coupon is given with each ticket and the holder of the lucky number receives $5 every Saturday night.

George T. Smith of Haileybury, who possibly and most possibly is one of the most efficient, popular and courteous mining recorders in any country, barring none, was a visitor to the camp Monday of this week, and together with James Watt of Lanark and son, Mel Watt, of Edmonton, and Robert Gorman of Ottawa looked over some of the principal mines of the camp.

Mike Hackett was seen about town last week on his return from the Ungava district, where he has been prospecting for more than a year. Some day some one will ferret out diamonds, rubies and emeralds up in this unexplored region, to say nothing of gold and silver, coal and iron and oil. It is a great country we are stepping into.

1127 Wins at Nipissing Stores

Number 1127 has a lucky sound. Last week the Nipissing stores advertised that on Saturday night they would give a ticket with every fifty cent purchase and the holder of the lucky number would get one of their $25.00 bench tailored suits. Oscar Smith with number 1127 gets the suit.

Montreal Sleeper Will Discontinue

The C.P.R. sleeper which now operates from here to Montreal will be taken off this run. The last car leaving here will be on Friday, August 2nd. Hereafter this car will run from Cochrane to Montreal, effective August 3rd.

Without Prejudice

The canny Scot wandered into the pharmacy. "I'm wanting three-penn'orth o' laudanum," he announced. "What for?" asked the chemist suspiciously. "For twopence," responded the Scot at once. The Prisoner—"There goes my hat. Shall I run after it?" Policeman Casey—"Phwat? Run away and never come back again? You stand here and I'll run after your hat."

"I want somebody to show me where to unload this coal," said the grimy-looking man at the kitchen door. "You needn't ask me about that," retorted the young woman; "I don't have anything to do with unloading coal; I'm the kitchen lad," "I can't help that," he rejoined; "I'm the coal gentleman, and the father of three kitchen ladies, one laundry lady, and one chamber lady, and if you don't show me where to put this coal I'll call the woman of the house." "I'll show you, sir," she humbly replied, and led the way to the coal cellar.

A man, evidently from the rural districts, says the New York Telegraph, stepped up to the ticket seller in the Forty-second street subway station and asked: "Been in town long?" "Quite a while," replied the ticket seller. "Know a man named O'Connell?" "No." "Sure you don't know O'Connell?" "Say," said the ticket seller, impatiently, "there are 5,000,000 people in this city. Do you expect me to know everybody here?" "No," replied the ruralist, "but I thought you might have sense enough to know one."

Sir Thomas Lipton relates the following experience of his own: "When I was starting in business I was very poor and needed every penny I could earn to enlarge my little business. I had a lad of fourteen as assistant. One Monday morning the boy came in with a very mournful expression. I asked him what the trouble was, and he said: "I have no clothes fit to wear to church, sir. I can't get a new suit, because my father is dead and I have to help my mother pay the rent." "I thought it over and finally took enough money from my hard-earned savings to buy the lad a good warm suit of clothes, with which he was delighted. "The next day he did not come to work, nor the next; and when three days had gone by and I had heard nothing from him, I went to his home to find out what had become of him. "Well, you see, sir," said the mother of the boy, "Robert looks respectable in his new suit, than you, sir, that we thought he had better look around town and see if he couldn't get a better job."
