THE GERMAN PEOPLE AND THE WAR

They are trusting in an empty hope who place faith in the belief that the German people will rebel against their present leaders in the same spirit that the Russian people revolted against their autoeracy. Not only have the German autoerats a firmer and more competent control, but there is reason to believe that the German people lack the true desire for better things. So long as any measure of apparent success met the efforts of the German leaders the people were in complete harmony with all the evil designs. If there is any revolt against the leaders in Germany when utter defeat can no longer be concealed, it will simply be the cunning device of the PEOPLE to make the autoerats the scapegoats for the common sins of all.

Earlier in the war there was a more general belief in the German PEOPLE, as distinguished from the autoeracy. But that faith fails fast. Once upon a time, for instance, The Toronto World argued that the German autoeracy alone was to blame, but the continued condoning by the people of all the crimes on record, and especially the attitude of German people far from the power or force of German autoeracy, has so turned the viewpoint of The World that recently it suggested that Berlin be dealt with after the manner of ancient Carthage, and "the site of the city be sown with salt."

Perhaps one of the last honest Canadian apologists for the German people, as a people, is The Toronto Star, and even the Star writes hesitatingly now. The Star suggests that the German people may be misled through their blind adherence to the virtue of obedience, and it pleads with the Germans in other lands to dissociate themselves from German devilry in Europe. "They cannot plead the necessity of obedience to authority," says The Star.

In that very plea the Star upsets its own case. Germans in the United States, in Canada, in Britain,—all over the world,—have shown how completely they are in harmony with the autoeracy,—if that autoeracy can only triumph. "You cannot mix babies and bullets," sneered the New York woman when told of the murder of the children on the Lusitania. The German abroad has seldom even attempted to question the crimes charged to his nation; he has contented himself with condoning them as necessary for the German triumph. The German abroad has not only failed to dissociate himself from the infamies of the Fatherland, but he has shown a disposition to run the same course himself, as the record of spying, conspiracy, arson, and murder in regard to munition plants and supply stores in the United States gives ample testimony.

One of the most appalling evidences of this spirit in the German abroad is given by the recent disclosure by Red Cross officials that Red Cross bandages made in New Jersey have been poisoned or treated with ground glass by German sympathizers. How can such a crime in such a place be laid to the charge of German autoeracy? The truth is that the German people, as a people have proven themselves barbarians in thought and savages at heart, and the sooner the world realizes this the better. There should be no mercy shown for the leaders, but justice also should be meted out to the people who have defended and acclaimed all crimes that brought the slightest shadow of apparent benefit.

EASTER-TIDE SERVICES AT ST. MATTHEW'S

Bishop of Diocese at Confirmation To-night. Special Music Friday. Other Services.

The Holy Week and Easter services at St. Matthew's church promise to be particularly attractive. This (Wednesday) evening, the Right Rev. J. G. Anderson, Bishop of Moosonee, will be present for the Confirmation services in the church at 7.30 p.m. The Bishop was unable to be here Sunday as expected, on account of the train service, or lack of train service, due to the storm, but he will be the more welcomed perhaps for this unavoidable delay.

On Thursday evening there will be a celebration of the Holy Communion, the preacher for the occasion being the Venerable Archdeacon Woodall, who conducted similar services here last year.

On Good Friday there will be matins at 11 a.m., and at the evening service at 8 p.m., the choir will render Sir John Stainer's famous oratorio, "The Crucifixion." The rector has secured a number of printed copies of the words of this oratorio, so that the congregation may follow the rendition of the selection with the more interest and pleasure. The choir, reinforced by some outside talent, has made splendid progress in the rendition of this difficult selection, and it is expected that, despite the natural difficulties in the way, the selection will be presented in very creditable manner. There are many solo parts in the oratorio, and there being ample talent available for these, music lovers in town are looking forward to a veritable musical feast.

On Easter Sunday there will also be special music and other special features. The services on Easter Sunday will be as follows:—8.30 a.m., Holy Communion; 11 a.m., matins and Holy Communion; 3 p.m., special children's service; 8 p.m., evensong, followed by Holy Communion.

ACREAGE OF LEADING PROPERTIES IN PORCUPINE

The Hollinger-McIntyre-Newray area of the Porcupine camp in Northern Ontario is making rapid strides at the present time, and on account of the extensive development work under way, promises to come still more to the front in the future.

The Hollinger Consolidated comprises 440 acres and has been proven to be the richest gold mine in the world. The original McIntyre which has attained a substantial production basis, has an area of 148 acres, but with the Jupiter and McIntyre Extension, which were taken over last year, the company's holding comprises a total of 388 acres at the present time, in addition to which it has an option on the adjoining 120 acres of the Plenaurum. The Newray owns 321 acres immediately to the northeast of this latter holding, and it is noteworthy that a straight line drawn through the centre of the Hollinger, McIntyre, Jupiter and Plenaurum, and then extended, would practically cut the Newray in two.
