SOUTH END MAN HAS INGROWING CONSCIENCE

Appropriated Two Slabs of Bacon in This World and Gives $10 to Save His Bacon in the next.

It is hard to believe everything one sees in the newspapers,—especially in the daily newspapers,—and more particularly things about the North Land. It is hard to believe that a man from South Porcupine would swipe two slabs of breakfast bacon. A South End man would more likely go the whole hog, or nothing. It is still harder to believe that having taken the bacon such a man would——. But, why continue. Here is the item, published under the title, "A Troublesome Conscience." If any man hesitates to believe it, we can show him the exact spot where it occurred—in The Toronto World one day last week:

An interesting sidelight on

MERCHANTS GIVING PATRIOTIC SERVICE

First They Featured "Clean-Up" and Then "Plough-Up" Weeks.

There are some merchants in Ontario who make such a feature of "Service" to the public that their energy and talents seem naturally to pass even beyond the ordinary mercantile lines in which they are interested. They put so much heart into the service of their customers that it appears to be but an inevitable step to spending time and ability in the wider service of the general public. They are more than mere merchants; they are true servants of the public, helpful citizens of their day and generation, and no one can overestimate the value of their talents to their towns. Among this type of efficient and effective business men may be mentioned Mr. L. E. Pedlow, of Renfrew, and Messrs. J. Sutcliffe & Sons, of Trenton. They may not thank The Advance for this reference to them, because both firms are the kind that are ready and willing TO PAY for their newspaper advertising. They are not looking for FREE publicity. They spend hundreds of dollars each year in newspaper advertising, because they are business men who do things on a business basis. But their public service is so noteworthy that it is within the scope of a public comment in the public interest.

Mr. Pedlow uses his store in a broad way for public service. Many incidents could be quoted in support of this statement, but the latest evidence alone may be sufficient as an illustration. Mr. Pedlow was an able leader in Renfrew County in the matter of aiding the "Patriotism and Production" movement. His business ability and keenness made him quick to see practical ways that might be used for the speeding up and assisting of greater production of food-stuffs. Naturally, he was chosen as President of the Society formed to aid in this work, and his efforts have been most helpful, according to all accounts. One of his successful plans of assistance was the granting of a two week's holiday to each man in his employ, and then with the co-operation of the staff, turning all these holidays to the service of the neighbour.

human nature is portrayed in the following letter, which is a facsimile of the one received by the president of one of the mines in the north country. Names have for obvious reasons been omitted. Enclosed was found a cheque for $10, the presence of which the letter will explain:

South Porcupine, June 24.

Dear Sir: Find enclosed the sum of $10, being payment for two slabs of breakfast bacon that were taken by me from your property in 1914. It amounted at that time to about $7, so that the three dollars will be interest, etc. Please let me know if this is satisfactory. So if you would send me a receipt if possible.

I remain, yours truly,

The recipient of the retribution money decided to hand the amount over to the Canadian Red Cross, and in doing so will request that the sender be supplied with the requested receipt. The donation will be credited to the sender."

boring farmers during the harvest season. In the district, the farmers view this as a noteworthy service and assistance.

Messrs. Sutcliffe & Sons, of Trenton, have also shown what live merchants may do in public service and for the present pressing cause of greater production. In past years, the firm had featured a "Clean-Up" Weekly giving prizes to the amount of $50 for the best kept homes in their home town. "Nature has done its full share," they said in their advertisements,—(and they paid for the advertisements)—"now let us do ours. Make Trenton—Ontario's Town Beautiful." "More Home to the House," was their motto, and there is no question but that they gave noteworthy encouragement and leadership by their efforts in making Trenton a clean, tidy, beautiful town. "Rake up; scrub up; swat the fly; clean up the back yard, the alley, the front lawn, the house, the barn, the garage, everything. Make Trenton a healthy, clean, beautiful town. It depends on INDIVIDUALS to get the collective beauty of Ontario's town beautiful," the effective advertisements said.

This year Sutcliffe & Sons were impressed with the greater call for production. They issued the posters, ran the advertisements, spent the time and money and effort in the public service as usual, but the message this year was a different one. "Clean Up Week in Trenton? Well, let us hope so," says one of the circulars. "Each citizen should have courage and pride enough for that, but the next two weeks will be Plough Up' Week. Produce! Produce! Produce!"

They announced this spring the abandonment of their former prizes for "Outside General Appearance of Trenton Homes,"—"but," they say, "the lawns which we endeavoured to encourage last year,—we'll gladly plough up this year to produce." The firm used its business knowledge and organization to provide assistance for this work of production. Knowing that in towns like Trenton one of the chief drawbacks to the cultivation of garden plots was the difficulty of getting labor for the preliminary work, they provided the public with ploughing service at practically nominal rates. The families of soldiers overseas and those who had no "man help" were given the preference. The firm also supplied a free booklet on gardening, and gave other valuable service without charge. The publicity, the energy, the ability and the interest given by the firm must assuredly have been of noteworthy value, and the story is quoted here to illustrate what live merchants can do and are doing for their towns and for their country. It is an interesting sidelight on this sort of public service that the merchants who do so much are invariably the "big advertisers,"—the men who believe in newspaper advertising especially and use it freely for their business needs. The Advance would suggest as the reason for this, that the expert business men all agree on the value of proper publicity, and the expert business men are also quick to realize that service to the public is service to themselves,—that they cannot advance their town without helping themselves, nor help themselves without aiding their town,—and that the greatest good and the greatest blessing and the greatest pleasure come from the gratified desire to Serve.

Mr. Lorne Ferguson, who has been deputy in the Lands Titles office at Haileybury for the past four years, has resigned, on account of his health, and Miss LeHeup is now the deputy.
