PLAY THE GAME!

The spirit that ventured murder in the dynamiting of Lord Athelstan's residence near Montreal is but the logical extension and development of the spirit that prompted the tearing down of Lieut. Munroe's recruiting sign in Timmins. Those who encourage or excuse the senseless selfishness and the foolish fanaticism that lead now to petty disorders and muttered words of half-treason should know that they foster an evil spirit that in the end will grow to rampant riot and to open traitorism, if unchecked. It is the great duty to-day of every man loyal to his country, to himself and to humanity, to frown upon even the slightest evidence of that spirit that leads to nothing but evil. Men must "play the game."

Selfishness and ignorance are the two forces that make for disloyalty and disorder, and no man can say where the one ends and the other begins. Ignorance breeds selfishness and on the other hand, selfishness in its very essence is ignorance. To take the selfish viewpoint that one man or a body of men can shoulder all the duties and responsibilities and sacrifices onto other is to show ignorance of the vital facts of life. Selfishness breeds selfishness, and no man can live to himself alone, because in greater or lesser degree every man depends upon his neighbor for safety and support. It is this ignorance—the ignorance that is selfishness or this selfishness that is ignorance, that has fostered opposition to voluntary enlistment in the world's battle for civilization. It is the same ignorance, or the same selfishness, that now breeds opposition to Conscription. It is the same spirit that foolishly seeks by threats and treasors to escape the common duty. The utter folly of their attitude is emphasized by the fact that if selfish power and brutal force were to be the accepted standards they would be inevitably crushed by the weight of the Soldiers who have come back and the brothers, sons, the fathers, the wives, the mothers and the daughters of those who have died or now face death in the great common cause.

Every honest man to-day should make it his particular duty to discourage and discountenance the foolish little treasors and the idle words of disloyalty and disorder, that, unless curbed and checked, will grow to proportions of evil that will curse all.

The Englehart Courier tells of the arrest of an escaped prisoner from Kapuskasing Camp. "A very large percentage of the male population of the town," says The Courier, "turned out Monday night to arrest two escaped German prisoners from the internment camp at Kapuskasing. Word was received about six o'clock that they were supposed to be stealing a ride down on a freight train, which would arrive here about 8 o'clock. Men turned out by the score armed (secretly) with cow-guns and auto-arms of the law. When the train pulled in one of the men was found in a coal car and Prov. Constable Jack Wilson took him into custody. The other man had gotten off at Bourkas, according to the story of the prisoner. The man arrested gave his name as Walter Nowak, and said he was from Buffalo and that he had been working at the camp. He is being held in the local jail awaiting instructions from the proper authorities.

TEST CASE REGARDING THE TEAMING BY-LAW

Case Against Ex-Mayor to Determine Strength of By-law

Evidence was heard by Magistrate Atkinson on Thursday last in the case preferred against ex-Mayor W. H. Wilson for teaming without a license in the town of Timmins. Acting Chief Sally explained that the case was not pressed with the purpose of securing a fine, but simply to test the validity of the by-law, and find whether in such cases the license fee could be collected.

The first witnesses called were Mr. Jules Timmins and Mr. Webb of the Hollinger, who explained that some years ago the Hollinger had sold all its teams to Mr. Wilson with the understanding that he should do all their teaming at a certain specified rate. The Hollinger never advertised for tenders for contracts for teaming. Mr. Hagan had done same teaming once this year for the mine, but that was only because Mr. Wilson could not supply another team at the moment. The mine had the call on all his teams if necessary. They usually averaged 6 or 7 a day.

Mr. Wilson's evidence was to the effect that he bought the teams on the understanding that he would get all the work. The call was for not less than five teams a day, and as many more as needed. The agreement was a verbal one. He had done teaming work in town last year, but he had a teaming license then. He had refused town work this year. He did no other work in Timmins, but he did teaming in Tisdale, having a license there. To Acting Chief Sally he admitted that he did some work with a team in town, but it was simply to help out in a friendly way. Mr. Wilson said he had opposed the license when he was in the Council as he considered the rate prohibitive and tending to create a monopoly.

Acting Chief Sally asked for an adjournment to allow Town Solicitor Mahon to make argument on the case.

Judgment was reserved in the case for a week.

Y. B. Club. During the evening Mrs. Forbes gave an interesting address on the Red Cross work being done in her home town, and Mrs. Humphrey also gave a most interesting talk on "Travelling in Egypt." PARENT FINED FOR BOYS' DELINQUENCY

"I'll give Them $14 Worth of Teaching Now," said the Father

The boys who took the collection of goods from the store next to the Old Empire Theatre recently, were before Magistrate Atkinson on Thursday last. Mr. R. LeHeup, Agent of the Children's Aid Society, attended court for the case, and assisted in discovering the inwardness of the trouble. Some of the lads concerned had been in trouble so often that the police were a little discouraged as to the efficacy of letting them escape each time. The Magistrate and Mr. LeHeup, however, both had faith in the boys if they had special care and attention, and to stir this special attitude in the homes and pay for the losses incurred by the delinquency of the boys, the Magistrate imposed a fine and costs, amounting to $14.75 on the father of the larger boys. The smaller lads were believed to have simply gone in with these bigger boys, who in turn were perhaps dragged into the trouble by a couple of still older boys who will appear before the Magistrate next week. All the boys concerned seemed to be very bright little fellows, with nothing worse about them than the too much love of mischief and too much ill-directed energy. With strict and thoughtful home control, they will all likely turn out first-class, and as the law permits the fining of parents for the delinquency of boys in such cases, it will be worth while for the parents to give the boys particular attention. In dealing with the case, the Magistrate suggested that it might help if the Council would appoint a probation officer to look after lads who show a tendency to get in wrong paths.
