Timmins News in Brief

Mr. Homer L. Gibson spent the week-end in the Camp.

Mr. D. Ostrasser was a visitor to Toronto last week.

Mrs. E. L. Longmore and baby returned on Friday from visit to friends in the south.

The members of the D.Y.B. Club drove up to Mrs. A. R. Globe's on Monday evening and spent a very pleasant time. The work taken in was 6 pairs of socks and 1 shirt. The next meeting will be held at Mrs. J. P. McLaughlin's.

The sympathy of all will go out to Mr. P. McCormick in the recent bereavement he suffered in the death of his wife. Mrs. McCormick died some weeks ago in the East, and was buried at her old home in Almonte on Feb. 19th.

Previous to leaving for overseas, Pte. J. R. Andrews, formerly with Reamsbottom & Edwards, visited friends last week in South Porcupine. Pte. Andrews was recently married to Miss Etta May Ostrum, of Dunraven, Que., and his bride accompanied him on his visit to the Camp.

On Thursday last Mr. Walter Turner, Master Mechanic at the Porcupine Crown, was presented with a handsome watch as a mark of esteem from his fellow workers. The machinery men, the staff and others were present on the occasion, and Mr. Louis Duscharme made the presentation to Mr. Turner, who is very popular and much esteemed.

Nearly all the smaller moving picture houses in Canada have been complaining about the loss entailed upon them by the "Heatless Monday." They claim that when they have only a change of pictures every second night, they have to pay for the two day's use of the films even though they only use them the one night and get only the one night's returns. The moving picture house in Haileybury has overcome this apparent difficulty in original and patriotic way. In observing Monday as a heatless day and keeping the theatre closed that day and evening, the Haileybury show saves the whole cost of the picture by not running a show on Tuesday evenings. By this plan two heatless days are observed with the minimum of loss to the theatre. Many of the better class of films cost enough to make two nights' showing necessary for a profit, and the Haileybury theatre triumphs over this difficulty by not ordering pictures for either Mondays or Tuesdays, but keeping closed both nights. A certain amount of amusement is desirable, perhaps even necessary in a country like this, but four days a week will allow practically all to be cheered and livened by the popular movies. If the movies continued growing and extending in popularity it is likely a prohibition movement would soon be headed against them by Jimmy Simpson, W. J. Bryan and Rev. Ben Spence. God Save the King!

"Who will buy a tag for Toby?" The police are asking this question at present, because they are starting out to round-up and destroy all tagless dogs, and yet they know they dare not destroy "Toby" even if he has no tag. Toby is a privileged character, yet he should be tagged, just for appearance's sake. Still no one owns him, though he is everybody's dog. He has been in town nearly as long as there has been a town. A cheerful dog, of a breed all his own, he can sit up and pray better than most parsons on anniversary Sunday, and can eat more than even the "Red Glutton" at the Monday anniversary supper. Toby frequents the restaurants and hotels at meal time. He makes a point of getting a meal a day at the Goldfields and then he spreads his patronage. A stranger would be safe enough in following Toby, for Toby almost invariably would take him to the best eating house. In proper turn Toby has tried the Club, Fat's, the Paris and Boston Cafe. Lately he has been experimenting with the new Queen's Hotel. If Toby sticks there the crowd is bound to follow, for Toby is an undisputed judge of good eating. "I only want a whole lot," says Toby, "but I do want that lot good." With his round, sleek body, his short legs, his tail long and ever waving cheerfully in greeting, Toby is the friendliest dog on earth to human beings, but a fiend to fight his kind. He is a walking lesson, and a moral. Clever, cheerful, good-hearted, democratic and friendly, Toby is no pulling pacifist. If anybody does not know Toby, here is his description: He looks like a large well-bred hound dog, boiled down small and peppered with bull dog. Will anybody buy Toby's tag?

Grand Master C. H. Mann, of the L.O.O.F., Hamilton, is making a tour of the North Land and will visit South Porcupine on Saturday evening, Mar. 23rd.

Mr. Secord Robinson, for a long time one of the popular employees of J. P. McLaughlin's store, left this week for the West where he intends to take up farming. He will be much missed in many circles here.

The Timmins Hockey Team intend to play at New Liskeard on Friday and at Cobalt on Saturday of this week. Good hockey is practically assured as the towns to be visited have skilled teams. It is likely that return matches to be held here will also be arranged for.

Saturday evening's train did not arrive at Timmins until Sunday afternoon,—just about fourteen hours late. The delay, for a wonder, was not blamed on the war, but on the snow. Last week Timmins had practically only two mails. Yet they wonder why people get a little irritated when there is talk of "further curtailing the train service."

"I have a whole army of drunks outside to back me up," said a man in Fat's Cafe Saturday evening. "Right out there," he pointed with his fist, and his arm went right on through the window glass of the front side window. The man perhaps thought he had a glass too much, for he refused to pay for any more glass. Then Constable Greer arrived and there was a marathon first and then a Johnston and Sharkey bout, and then the cell doors changed. It cost Charlie $25.70 to repair the damage on Monday. The pane-full incident will be continued before Magistrate Atkinson on Thursday.

Mr. James Simpson, of the Trades and Labour Council, delivered an address in Timmins on Sunday evening on the "War Aims of the Workers in the Old Country." An Italian Labor leader also spoke, both in English and in Italian. At the close of the meeting a man, supposed to be a Russian, wanted to read a lengthy paper on what seemed to be chiefly an advocacy of a four-hour day. "Better get a six hour day before talking about a four-hour one," was Mr. Simpson's advice. Mr. Simpson is making a speechifying tour of the North Land again. Monday evening he spoke at Schumacher, Tuesday evening at So. Porcupine and Wednesday evening at Iroquois Falls.

Councillor Pierce's contention some time ago that second hand stores helped to continue the evil of petty thieving by providing a place of ready sale was more or less endorsed by the theft case last week before the police court here. The young Frenchman charged with the theft of a $17.00 watch had sold it in a second-hand store for $3.00. In any event those buying second-hand goods should be specially careful and a little regulation of their business by the authorities will not be amiss. Recently there has been too much petty thieving and an active effort is being made to stamp it out. The second-hand stores may help in this by increased carefulness and watchfulness.

FIRE DESTROYS TWO SCHUMACHER BUILDINGS.

On Friday afternoon last fire broke out in the Chinese restaurant and before it was checked that building and an adjoining one were destroyed. J. R. Todd's store was in danger, but escaped material damage. The restaurant was owned by the proprietor of the Canadian Club, Timmins. The Timmins Fire Brigade was phoned for, but could not well leave town unless the need were very serious indeed, and the Schumacher brigade was able to handle the situation without serious danger.

SHACK USED FOR OIL HOUSE BURNED AT HOLLINGER

Some excitement was caused in town on Friday evening when the fire whistle at the Hollinger blew the alarm. The Timmins Brigade hithed up in short order and waited ready for a call should the fire prove beyond the control of the Hollinger brigade. The reflection could be plainly seen in town though the burning building itself could not be discerned. It proved, however, to be a fire of no particular importance. It started in a shack used as an oil house. This shack is situated near the Central Shaft. Just what caused the blaze is not known. Part of the Timmins brigade, including all of the Department employed at the Hollinger, made their way over at once to the mine, and the Hollinger brigade soon had the fire controlled. No particular damage was done.

CURE FOR CONCEPT.

Go to the graveyards, boastful man, And look about you there and see The restful slumber couches of The many men who used to be. Go read their names and contemplate The greatness of the dead and gone. What they were once behold, and note This busy world keeps going on.

In the countless tombs today there sleep The greatest heroes of their days, The giants of their time, who led Their fellows safe through troubled ways. Go read their names and then reflect, As you their records gaze upon, Though all these men have passed away This busy world keeps going on. Let tombstones teach you humbleness, If nothing else about you will; Gaze on these silent arms of death, Grim tributes to men's worth and skill. Then think if you are more than they, Those countless thousands to your one; Do you not see that when you die The world will still keep moving on? —Detroit Press Press.

Care should be taken in the selection of good seed potatoes for the coming season. Some of the crop failures last year were due to the use of poor seed. It is also desirable that there should be some uniformity in the variety of potatoes planted.
