

LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR ENTHUSIASTIC re NORTH

Gives Kiwanis Eloquent Description Of North Land's Resources as Seen in Recent Tour.

The recent tour of the North Land by the Lieutenant-Governor of the Province is already having a beneficial effect. His Honour is evidently following the request of many here to "spread the truth about the North and its resources." In this connection the following despatch last week from Toronto is of special interest to this North Land:—

In connection with the large Kiwanis Convention held last week in Toronto, His Honour, the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Coekshutt gave a luncheon at Government House to one hundred of the more prominent delegates who are the leading men in their towns and cities throughout the United States, among them being ex-Senator Beveridge, the Indiana scholar and orator; Governor Barnett and a number of United States press men. The hospitalities of Government House having been warmly acknowledged by the President and a toast to His Honour's health having been enthusiastically honored, the Lieutenant Governor in reply devoted the most of his eloquent address to the great resources and possibilities of the Northland of Ontario, which he recently toured. He gave much information to the American visitors of the vastness of the country lying to the north which he said was practically an unknown territory, not only to the business men of the United States, but even to the great majority of the people living in southern Ontario. It was no exaggeration for him to say that the great North held within its bounds a promise of great things but great as they were would in the near future, be realized to the advantage of the Dominion of Canada and of Canada's neighbors to the south. He desired to direct the attention of such a representative gathering of Americans including business and professional men, to the resources and possibilities lying not far from their border. Northern Ontario had the greatest newsprint pulp mill on the Continent, sending out twenty-eight cargoes per day, to supply the wants of six or seven of the greatest newspapers in the United States and the supply of pulpwood for this purpose was very great indeed.

In Northern Ontario was also the largest gold mine in the world—a mine representing many millions of dollars in investments on which dividends were being paid; the workings of which had already reached a depth of from fourteen hundred to fifteen hundred feet, with forty-five miles of tunnelling, through rich gold bearing ore. This was, however, but one of very many mines of gold, silver, copper and nickel which enriched the North, not to speak of the iron, other ores and the hundreds of prospects in prospect of being brought to the paying stage of operation.

The possibilities in water power were incalculable and would control the development of traction, heating and manufacturing processes on a scale scarcely dreamed of at the present day, but perhaps the most striking thing of all to the visitor to the North, was the rapid advance in agricultural development. The forest was rapidly giving way to the farm and where but two or three years ago, there was but bush and almost impenetrable forests, were now fields with a rich variety of crops. The agricultural belts were capable of maintaining a goodly population of sturdy yeomen in comfort and content, besides supplying the mills, mines and factories, which were bound to occupy the mineral ranges and water courses of the country. And besides all this the large territory to the North of the transcontinental line of railway was being penetrated by a line to the tidal waters of James Bay to afford an outlet for trade navigation by a great northern port. From Toronto at the extreme south of the Province of Ontario, to Moose Factory at the North, one would soon be able to travel within our own Province from the fresh water of the great lakes to the sea. The stage of prophesying had been passed in all this, for a substantial fulfillment in tangible results already taken place insuring a most prosperous future. He commended a study of these resources to his guests and asked them to let their people know that waiting a sane, moderate and careful expenditure of capital, were resources which would yield, if not the glittering fortune of an el dorado, at least sound and substantial returns.

The Kiwanians present were deeply interested in His Honour's description of the Northland and at the close of the function many made enquiries for statistics and literature that would further enlighten them on the subject.

ONTARIO TEACHERS AGAIN TO TOUR NORTH THIS YEAR

It is understood that a representative party of teachers from Old Ontario will tour the North Land this summer under the auspices of the Ontario Educational Association and the Department of Education. Similar parties, under the same auspices, have visited the North Land for the past two years, in each case having Timmins as a point of call. This year it is understood that this Camp will again be visited. The visit will be likely around the last of August. The teachers from Old Ontario visiting here in previous years were delighted with the tour and surprised as well as pleased with what they saw and learned. They were especially impressed with the evident resources of the country and the apparent progress and modern activity here. No doubt these visits are well worth while in the way of helping to spread correct ideas of this North Land.

Lake Shore Mines at Kirkland Lake has declared a two per cent. dividend, payable on August 15th.

Jobs Depend on the Safety of the Forests

DON'T

- DON'T take any chances with fire in Ontario's forests.
- DON'T throw away cigarette or cigar butts, pipe "heels" or burnt matches until you are dead sure they are out.
- DON'T neglect to drown out your fire with lots of water.
- DON'T build your camp fire against a rotten log or stump; nor on windy points; nor near moss patches; nor at the base of a tree.
- Build it in a former fireplace, or on a flat rock, or on a spot cleared down to the true soil below, or by the edge of the water.
- DON'T forget that the upper layer of ground in the forest consists of partially rotted wood which will burn.

RIVER DRIVERS, shanty men, pulp loggers, and all men who work in the lumber woods, on the river or at the mill—get this: Your job depends on keeping forest fires from burning up the bush.

Every time you leave a camp fire or a smudge burning you are taking chances on a forest fire that will do you out of a job. Every time you throw away a burning match or a cigarette, or drop the "heel" of your pipe on the ground, you are taking a chance. In summer time, moss, dead wood, dry leaves or the regular wood-fibre soil of the forest are all ready to burn. Millions of feet of timber and pulp are being burnt up that way every year.

Ontario's forests are not growing fast enough to keep up. Forest fires will do you out of a job if they keep on a few years more. Watch yourself.
