MORE RECOGNITION FOR THE WEALTH OF NORTH

Toronto Newspaper Refers to the Record of the Hollinger, McIntyre, Etc.

The following from a recent issue of The Toronto Telegram speaks for itself. The Telegram says:

"The statement made by Manager Brigham, of the Hollinger Mine, at the banquet of the Ontario Mining Association at Schumacher, is one of the most important made since gold mining started in the north. Those who know the vigorous head of the Hollinger and have run against his impenetrable reticence where Hollinger affairs are concerned, will appreciate the value of this statement made before the assembled heads of the greatest mines of Porcupine, Cobalt, Kirkland Lake and Sudbury. A statement given in such manner is not idle talk, but cold fact.

"The statement that the Hollinger was worth $150,000 a foot and that careful testing had shown no reason to expect a lessening of that value for at least 3,000 feet, makes the Hollinger ore content worth at least $450,000,000, the greatest gold mine in the world. Canada owns that distinction and it is time that there was more general recognition of this great northern mining field. Too much stress cannot be laid upon this statement of Manager Brigham's, made in such a positive way, and yet made in a conservative way. When the mine is worked out to a depth of 3,000 feet it may be that, if working at further depth proves practicable a further great addition may be made to the Hollinger ore content. Beyond a doubt the continuity at depth of north Ontario gold deposits is proved.

"Not less important was the dictum, so to speak, of Manager Brigham, when he added that there was reason to believe that the working of other properties in the vicinity under proper financing results. The statement is an answer to the question that many people have been asking themselves. Is it possible that the Hollinger, McIntyre and Dome picked the only plums in the district and that all the others are washouts? As one prominent mining man pointed out, the majority of properties in Porcupine closed down are idle through lack of finances or mishandling.

"Take the McIntyre, for instance, one of the richest properties now operating. It is a matter of common knowledge that it was a case of nip-and-tuck for many years with the McIntyre before it could see over the hill. The McIntyre had nothing sensational for a long period of its development to lead to the conviction that it would one day turn into a great producer. Had Manager Ennis and his associates not had faith and held on with bulldog determination the McIntyre today might well have been in the category of failures with its shaft full of water and a desolate shaft house looming bare against the horizon. Faith and grit pulled it through, and saved it from this fate. The words of Manager Brigham, and the fact that the Porcupine and Kirkland Lake producers all show immeasurably richer values at greater depth, is an encouragement which is leading many of the idle mines to bestir themselves into new activity."

ARGYLE HOTEL BURNED DOWN AT IROQUOIS FALLS

The following is from the current issue of The Broke Hustler:—
 Monday evening of this week about 7.30 fire was discovered in the Argyle. The fire had such headway that it was impossible to save the building and the structure is a total loss. The fire started in the northwest corner, but the cause is unknown. There were eighteen people in the building at the time, with twelve others rooming there. All lost clothing, etc., though the Chautauqua people who were staying at the Argyle were able to save most of their effects. The heaviest losers among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Gray, just out from Scotland, who lost about $1000.00 worth of clothing, furniture, etc. Jack Perry was asleep in the building when the fire started and could not get down the stairway on account of the flames. He crawled through the window and hung from the sill. Before the ladder could be gotten up to assist him he dropped, striking his back against the front steps. The medical men are of the opinion that he escaped without serious injury. One of the community houses, No. 355 was promptly requisitioned to take care of all the Argyle guests, and it will be used in the meantime as the annex to the Iroquois Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Jeffrey and Miss Toner left this week for a visit to points in New Brunswick and in the Ottawa district. They will be away for two or three months.
