GLADIOLI FROM NORTH LAND SURPRISE CITY FOLK

Many of the folks living on "Main Street," in Toronto and other southern cities, have a wrong idea of the North Land. They imagine the North as a land of snow and ice and wolves in winter and blackflies and bears in the summer, with an occasional hole in the ground from which gold or silver or nickel may be dug by the hardy inhabitants. To this type of Main Street folk who imagine that North Bay is the gateway to a wilderness of wolves, and Indians who have never heard of the O.T.A., it is difficult to give any fair impression of the progress and modern development of the North. The fact that others who stray up here yell "Let's boost," doesn't help matters much. When the blind lead the blind the ditches are liable to fill up and overflow. Fortunately, however, the North Land has its host of boosters—good citizens who boost by action and effort, instead of contenting themselves with some silly, irritating catch-ery. Every once in a while the good work of these boosters is evidenced, and folks elsewhere get a new idea of the North Land. Here is a current example from The Toronto Globe. The Globe says:—"Visitors to the Horticultural Building at the Exhibition this week have had a surprise in the fine display of gladioli from Northern Ontario. These were grown as a hobby by C. A. Byam of New Liskeard, and when it is remembered that this is 350 miles north of Toronto, in a region too often, in the minds of the public, considered as paying little attention to floriculture, the surprise is greater. These flowers are marked by variety and unusual richness of color and by strength of stalk."

Thanks to Mr. Byam, the Main Street folks will now know that there is some favourable weather "up North," and that the whole thought of the people is not confined to gold, silver, strikes, lumber, hockey and breaking the O.T.A.

From all reports, it would have been another surprise to The Globe and to The Globe's readers, if the recent Horticultural Show at Haileybury had been viewed. The display of flowers at that event would have done credit to any town of double the size in the South of this Province. If The Globe and the Main Street folks could view the Flower Town of Iroquois Falls, with its wonderful bower of beauty,—the Civic Centre,—its array of well-kept lawns and flower decked homes, the idea of gladioli grown here would never hereafter be startling. Even in Timmins (destroyed last year by forest fires that originated, and ended, in the pulp masses of the outside newspapers) there are flower displays that would delight the eye of all lovers of flowers. Timmins also has had very creditable horticultural shows in years past, and will have others still better. Nearly five hundred miles north of cities like Toronto and Hamilton, the towns of the North, like Timmins, Iroquois Falls, Cochrane, South Porcupine, Schumacher, Connaught and so on, are striving to make the most and the best of life. And thanks to the wonders of this country, they are doing very well thank you!

INTEREST SHOWN HERE BY TRIPLEX SHAREHOLDERS

Mr. A. R. Smith, of Worcester, Mass., was in the Camp last week on business connected with shareholders of the Triplex Mine. Mr. Smith was here as the representative of a number of the shareholders of the Triplex who are resident in Worcester and who are materially interested in the Triplex not only from the money viewpoint, but also from the standpoint of believing that the Triplex has the makings of a mine of importance. It is the idea of this group of shareholders that the Triplex can be placed on a good footing and with proper attention and management will make a success. This group of shareholders are hopeful that in a short time all the handicaps that have prevented development will shortly be passed and the property go forward then to a marked degree of success.

BREAKING IT GENTLY

Casey was killed by a cave-in in the tunnel he was helping to dig. Hennessey was sent with instructions to break the news gently to Mrs. Casey.

Hennessey stepped up to the front door of Casey's residence and, when it was opened, the following conversation took place:

"Does the Widow Casey live here?"

"My name is Mrs. Casey, but I'm not a widow."

"Ye are that," said Hennessey, "wait till you see what they are bringing up the street on a stretcher."

BARBAROUS

For true barbarism you will have to go far to get one better than the paper-hanger's answer to the minister, when asked on what day he could paper the manse.

"Well, sir," he said, "you see I'm rather busy now. I hung Mrs. Smith yesterday; I'm hanging one of your elders to-day; but if it convenient, I'll drop around and hang you on Wednesday."
