FALLS HOCKEY PRACTICE SHOWS SOO MUST GO SOME

The following is from this week's issue of The Broke Hustler, Iroquois Falls' own newspaper:—

Hockey fans got their first chance to see the players who will represent Iroquois Falls against the Soo, in action Tuesday night, when a large sized crowd journeyed to the rink to see Coach Alex. Currie put the boys through their paces. For the first practice of the year, a real hot pace was kept up for the better part of an hour, the players taking a five minute rest to get their second wind.

The real fan realizes that it is too early to make any real predictions as regards who's who, but one and all left the rink with a very good impression of the talent, and the keynote of their talk was optimism. Coach Currie expressed himself as being well satisfied with the material, and says that with team play, they need not be afraid of any amateur team. Currie expressed the conviction that team play is absolutely necessary in a hockey team, and that a mediocre squad playing combination and combining in other respects will beat any team of all-stars, condition, of course being one of the essentials.

Scoop Thistlethwaite was tickled to death with the showing of the boys in their initial bow, and one could hardly talk business to him for hours next day. To endeavor to say that a certain player showed up better than anyone else would be unfair, as sometimes a man takes longer to get into condition and strike his stride than the other fellow, but once he does round into shape, then he shows his real worth. Others desire to take matters easy for the first couple of practices in order not to strain muscles, or taking any chances of injury because they are not able to stand it at first, whereas such worries do not bother them when they finally round into form.

Coach Currie kept twelve men going full speed as long as they were able to stand the pace. One lineup consisted of Byrne, goal; Dunfield and Roos, defence; Bellefeuille, Flaker and Gariepy, forwards. Opposed to this sextette were Renaud, goal; Fournier and Boucher, defence; Fahey, Chirooski and Lafrance, forwards. Gauthier and Graham also had a chance to show their wares. Dunfield and Bellefeuille were perhaps outstanding. Bryne and Renaud both stopped many hot ones, while the defences broke up many a well-meant rush.

The players will get in a lot of practice within the next ten days or two weeks. Whoever makes the senior team will have to play the game for all there is in it, because there are practically two men for every position.

The ice was in splendid condition, but every man was willing to quit as Coach Currie said the word.

Gariepy has a wicked shot from left wing, but appeared a little unsteady on his feet. Practice will enable him to find his ice legs.

Ken Dunfield's stick handling singled him out for a lot of favorable comment.

Leo Lafrance should have a good season this winter. He has grown considerably, and put on weight.

Fournier and Boucher were driving some wicked ones at Bryne.

Bellefeuille showed a lot of speed and was perhaps the fastest man on the ice.

Jack Roos found the rink a little too small for his long stride, but will get accustomed.

The boys felt better after a shower and brisk rub.

Gariepy looked at times like Didier Pitre when the Flying Frenchman was in his prime.

Nice bits of combination were shown at times by the White Shirts.

Joe Chirooski did a lot of back checking, but couldn't locate the net.
