LITTLE DAUGHTER OF MR. AND MRS. A. E. SIMMS DEAD

Hosts of friends here will extend sincere sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Simms, now of Widdifield, in the sad death on July 13th, of their little daughter. Mr. and Mrs. Simms were for some time resident in Timmins, Mr. Simms being telegrapher at the T. & N.O. Station here. In reference to the death The North Bay Nugget says:—"As a result of burns received about two weeks ago, little Nellie Viva Simms, baby daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Simms, of Widdifield Station, passed away at her home, there, last Sunday afternoon. The little girl, who was only one year and nine months old, was playing around the kitchen of her home on the morning of July 3. The weekly wash was in progress and, in lifting the boiler of clothes from the stove, the water splashed over, cruelly burning the child's right arm and side. The burns were very severe but hope was held out for her recovery during the first week but the shock and pain proved to much for the little one's endurance and she succumbed Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The baby was born at New Liskeard on September 24th, 1922, at the time of the big forest conflagration in the north. Her parents moved to Widdifield a short time ago, the father being employed by the T. & N.O. as station agent there. The child was singularly beautiful and well formed. Bright for her age, the little one had a host of adoring friends who will join with the grief stricken parents in their sorrow. One other child, Edward, survives."

The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon last from the home of the youngster's grandmother, Mrs. Geo. Simms, North Bay, to the Union Cemetery, Rev. E. C. Hunter conducting the services. There was an unusual profusion of floral tributes.

Blind Pigs should be careful as to whom they sell bad liquor. About a year ago a couple of young fellows struck Sudbury and making the rounds of the booze joints were just about poisoned by the horrible hooch sold them. A week or so ago they returned to Sudbury, went to the same blind pigs, after arranging revenge with the police, and the result was a couple of good cases with consequent fines for the Pigs that didn't sell good booze.

GOLF TROPHY MATCH AND SWEEPSTAKE ON SATURDAY

Messrs. J. H. Bacon and S. Wookey Tie for First Place in Sweepstake.

The best of weather favoured local golfers on Saturday, when the third round of the Golf Trophy Match was played, and a Sweepstake also held. The large turnout for the Saturday match showed the interest this year in the Annual Club Trophy competition. The following are the results of the matches for Saturday.

W. H. Wylie won from J. W. Fogg.

NATIONAL LEAGUE RULING ON PASSING A BATSMAN.

The following ruling by President Heydler to National League umpires last week may be of interest to baseball fans:—"When a pitcher, for the purpose of intentionally passing a batsman, deliberately throws four balls to the first baseman, he makes a farce of the rule and indirectly of the game. If any more attempts of this kind are made, call a balk for each throw, to first unless a runner is occupying that bag. You have full authority to do so under the rules."

TAXI DRIVER'S PRESENCE OF MIND SAVED BOY'S LIFE.

Reports in Haileybury and Cobalt newspapers give an account of the narrow escape of thirteen-year-old Tommy Blair from drowning at Haileybury dock. Evidently, a taxi driver, Joe Corriere, deserves more than passing credit for saving the lad's life. The boy had been playing at the Haileybury dock, attracted probably by an aeroplane moored there. Evidently in attempting to get a closer view of the aeroplane the lad slipped off into the water. He could not swim, and had gone down a couple of times with the chances of going down finally to his death, when Joe Corriere came along. Joe could not swim either, but he could use his head and use it quickly. He jumped from his car, grabbed a piece of timber and pushing it before him waded out in the water as far as he dared. Indeed he went out until the water was up to his neck, but he kept his feet, and also his head, and he managed to get the timber close enough for the boy to reach. He instructed the lad to grab it and hang on like grim death. Then Corriere hauled timber and boy to shore. The lad was taken home and is none the worse for his narrow escape. To make the happy ending complete, it is only necessary to hand the taxi driver a bouquet for his quick thinking and his ready action.

MR. R. LEHEUP'S BROTHER INJURED IN ODD ACCIDENT

Some days ago a brother of Mr. R. LeHeup, Inspector of the Temiskaming Children's Aid Society, met with a very serious accident, and though accounts suggest that he has a chance for recovery, he is evidently very badly injured. The Haileyburian last week made the following reference to the accident:—"While clearing some ground which he is converting into a summer colony near Amherstburg, Mr. E. J. LeHeup, brother of R. LeHeup, of Haileybury, suffered very serious injuries in a peculiar accident last week. He was pulling out trees with the aid of a tractor when one tree came over the machine and struck him, throwing him under the wheels. The tractor passed over his body, with the result that he had one arm broken in two places, several ribs fractured, one leg dislocated at the hip and his pelvic bone broken. At last accounts the injured man had a chance of recovering, although the injuries are so serious that it will take a long time. Mr. R. LeHeup left on Tuesday evening to visit his brother."

Why not every room

The thought and care necessary in the selection of building material cannot be over emphasized both from the standpoint of economy and durability. Consider your interior walls. The use of Gyproc, the solid gypsum wallboard, has proven to be the best insulator to heat and cold, and as Gyproc will not burn it adds fire protection as well.

It can be easily and cleanly applied in half the time taken for an ordinary wall. It is provided in sheets 4 to 10 feet long x 32' x 3/8" thick, making a perfect foundation for wall decoration.

Write us for particulars before you decide.
