A SINCERE TRIBUTE TO THE LATE MR. D. A. DUNLAP

Canadian Mining and Financial Supplement of "Canada," Reviews His Career.

In the current issue of the Canadian Mining and Financial Supplement of "Canada," the well-known illustrated weekly published at London, England, there is an interesting sketch of the career of the late Mr. D. A. Dunlap. "Canada" says:— "A notable Canadian mining personality has been removed through the death of Mr. David Alexander Dunlap, vice-president and treasurer of the Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mines. He is the third member of the Alpha Syndicate to cross the Great Divide—having been preceded by John and Duncan McMartin. Noah and Henry Timmins remain of the group, which developed the La Rose Mine and later the Hollinger Consolidated, and in the process built up the largest group mining fortune in Canada.

"Mr. Dunlap was born in Pembroke, Ont., in 1862. His father was a lumberman, who died in the woods when his son was very young. After receiving the usual common and High School education he chose law as a vocation and studied in Barrie and Toronto, subsequently graduating at Osgoode Hall. For some years he practised at Mattawa, and it was from there he pursued his interests in mining.

"He became associated with L. H. and N. A. Timmins, also residents of Mattawa, in what afterwards became the La Rose mine. The success of this enterprise made him more of a mining operator than a barrister, and he gradually abandoned the practice of law and moved to Toronto after a few years of residence in Haileybury.

"Still in association with the Timmins brothers and the late John and Duncan McMartin, he became interested in Porcupine, and the syndicate purchased the original Hollinger properties and the Acme and Millerton mines, out of which grew the Hollinger Consolidated.

"The ideal relationship existing between the Alpha Syndicate partners, the wealth of each, was again merged in happiest augury when Noah Timmins dealt with Hollinger and established more mining truths stranger than fiction," writes Mr. Alexander Gray in the Montreal Star. "Henry Timmins was sole partner, to begin with. The Timmins Brothers magnanimously and promptly proffered fifths to the Messrs. McMartin and Dunlap. Really the only misgivings were due to the knowledge that La Rose luck might not follow the crowd in to the Hollinger-Miller-Dixon-Middleton properties at Porcupine. Fealty and fellowship prevailed. The five partners, including the estates of the deceased members of the syndicate—known as the Canadian Mining and Finance Corporation—own the greater part of the 4,920,000 Hollinger Consolidated shares, and have received most of the approximately $25,000,000 that has been distributed in dividends and bonuses—and David A. Dunlap always has been treasurer of the company, universally esteemed for his personal attributes and charming domesticity. He was "Dave" with or without his millions—a fragrant personality."

"Mr. Dunlap had many other activities outside of business. He was a trustee of the Toronto General Hospital, hon. treasurer of the Social Service Council of Ontario, hon. treasurer of the Missionary Society of the Methodist church, a member of the Board of Regents of Victoria University, a trustee of the Toronto Art Gallery, past president of the Ontario Society for the Protection of Birds. He was also a member of the National, Ontario and Engineers' Clubs, Toronto Golf Club, Rosedale Golf Club, and a number of others. A strong supporter of temperance and moral reform movements, Mr. Dunlap was a member of the original Committee of One Hundred, and of the more recent Plebiscite Committee. He was one of the founders of the Canadian Institute of Mental Hygiene."

SONG FOR CHRISTMAS

Chant me a rhyme for Christmas—
Sing me a joyful song—
And though it is filled with laughter,
Let it be pure and strong.

Sing of the hearts brimmed over
With the story of the day—
And the echo of childish voices
That will not die away.

Of the blare of tasseled bugles,
And the timeless clatter and beat
Of the drum that throbs the muster
Of squadrons of scampering feet.

And oh! let your voice fall fainter
Till blent with a minor tone
You temper your song with the beauty
Of the pity Christ hath shown.

And sing one verse for the voiceless,
And yet ere the song be done
The verse for the ears that hear not
And a verse for the sightless one.

For though it be time for singing
A merry Christmas glee,
Let a low sweet voice of pathos
Run through the melody.

—Jas. Whitcomb Riley.

According to the last issue of The New Liskeard Speaker, the recent poultry show at Englehart was "probably the poorest ever held by the Association." The entry list was small and with a few exceptions the birds were not of special outstanding merit. The Speaker understands, however, that there is a determination to change all this at the next annual Englehart Poultry Show, when it will be clearly arranged that birds of quality from out of town fanciers will not be placed on exhibition at a loss to the exhibitors, as seemed to be practically inevitable this year.

O little town of Bethlehem
How still we see thee lie!
Above thy deep and dreamless sleep
The silent stars go by:
Yet in thy dark streets shineth
The everlasting Light;
The hopes and fears of all the years
Are met in thee tonight.

Our Debt to the World

WHEN we contrast her condition with that of most foreign lands, Canada appears like a ship resting in a sheltered harbor. She is rich, happy and at peace. The very fact of Canada's good fortune makes her a debtor. She owes the debt of goodwill and kindness which Christmas revives and presses upon us as an obligation to those lands less fortunate than our own.

Over the crowded areas of Asia stalk the skeleton figures of war and famine. Over much of Africa hangs the dense pall of superstition and ignorance that have shrouded her for ages. Europe struggles with almost insoluble political and economic problems, and one Government replaces another, each in turn overcome by perplexity and despair.

Canada although she has a few troubles of her own, is a favored child among the nations, with many reasons for a grateful heart this Christmas. Let us remember our debts as we count our blessings. Let us aid all efforts to spread the light brought down from the skies two thousand years ago by One who "though rich, for man's sake became poor."
