As an indication of an early spring this year the first flock of geese flying north was reported from Owen Sound last week. This is several weeks earlier than usual. An Owen Sound resident also reports several green frogs hopping along over the snow. And still Owen Sound voted in favour of the O.T.A.

North Bay music teachers have put on a rather unusual competition for musical students under 16 years of age. Two prizes are offered, but there is no entry fee and few rules. The contest is to determine which of the young people can give the best rendition of the National Anthem without the musical score. After the entries are completed the entrants will be given two weeks in which to practice the music.
