LOTS OF GOOD MATERIAL HERE FOR JUNIOR HOCKEY
Prospects Look the Best for a First-class Team This Season. About 25 or 30 Promising Players to Select From
During the past few days the junior hockeyists of the town have been having a few practices, in an effort to get into condition before the opening of the hockey season. From the material available the aggregation to represent Timmins in the N. O. H. A. Junior series will be chosen, and there is certainly lots of material this year. The boys are showing up well, and the sextette that will carry the blue and gold of the Porcupine Camp to victory this year will be picked from the youngsters who get into condition, and once in shape to play hockey, stay in condition. This is about the first year in junior circles in the Camp when there has been available such a large selection of prospective comers in the junior field, and with twenty-five or thirty showing fair promise on the ice at a work-out, those in charge of the Club feel that the man who keeps fit, and can rise to, and keep the standard the people of Timmins and district are going to require of their Junior team this year, is the man who is going to "catch" a place on the sextette, which during 1926 is going to shed honour on this district, on Toronto ice, by carrying the Porcupine colours to victory.
Mr. S. G. Epplert has been appointed coach and manager of the Timmins Junior Hockey team, and it is expected that under his capable management the team will soon be whipped into shape, to try conclusions with North Bay in the exhibition engagement next Monday evening.

The new arena at Haileybury is expected to be completed early in the new year. It is being built of brick, and is being erected on the former armouries site.

Attractive Programme for "Cornish Night" Band Concert

Carols, by Male Voices, to be Special Feature at Event at Goldfields Theatre on Sunday evening, Dec. 20th, after the Church Services. Many Talented Artists to Assist on Programme.

When Mr. W. S. Johns, who is directing the preparations for the "Cornish Night" Band Concert, to be held in the Goldfields Theatre after the church services on Sunday evening, Dec. 20th, was asked this week how arrangements were progressing, his reply was:—"Well, I can show you the programme." There can be no more conclusive reply to the question, nor any clearer proof of the excellence of the concert to be given than the publication of the programme in full.
Apart from the fact that every artist on the programme is Cornish, and so the evening is truly a "Cornish Night," comment on this programme seems unnecessary. The selections are specially appropriated for the season, and all the artists are of outstanding merit. Some of them have more than local fame. The programme will undoubtedly be a genuine treat to all lovers of good music. There is interest and variety and excellence throughout. Here is the programme:—
March, "Merry and Bright," by the Timmins Citizens' Band.
Pianoforte solo, selected by Mrs. Wilkins.
Carol, "Lo, He Comes, an Infant stranger," by Male Voices—(Messrs. E. R. Street, A. Jenkins, E. Jeffery, P. Reed, A. Stevens, W. Hawkey, A. J. Snow and S. Johns).
Solo, selected by Mrs. Barrett.
Cornet Solo, "Flight of Ages," by Bandsman Carl Johns.
Solo, "Cornish Floral Song," by Mr. A. J. Snow.
Cornish Reading, "Jan and Betty's Courtship," by Mr. P. Varkar, Dome Mines.
Solo, "Star of Bethlehem," by Mr. A. Jenkin.
Selection, "Melodious Gems," by Timmins Citizens' Band.
Duet, "Larboard Watch," by Mrs. Barrett and Mr. A. J. Snow.
Instrumental duet, guitar and violin, (selected), by Mr. W. Poad and Mr. Trudgeon.
Carol, "Hail, Sacred Day," by Male Voices.
Violin Solo, selected by Mr. Wilkins.
Selection, "Sounds from England," by the Timmins Citizens' Band.
God Save the King.
Accompanist for the evening, Mrs. Wilkins.
Those who do not enjoy good music should stay away. All music-lovers will find the evening a delightful one. Collection at the door.

A heading in The Pembroke Standard last week says:—"Demand for Snuff is Fast Disappearing." It may be in Pembroke but it seems to be still, as Hec. McQuarrie says, "one of the common drinks" among the Finlanders in this district.

T. & N. O. TO RUN STAGES TO ROUYN GOLD CAMP

Complete Trip From the South Will be Made in a Day, According to Present Plans

According to an announcement made last week by Chairman Geo. W. Lee, the T. & N. O. Railway will give a twenty-four hour service from Toronto and Montreal into Rouyn. This will be accomplished by means of a sleigh bus service to be inaugurated with the first good sleighing. Tickets have been printed covering transportation to the new mining camp. Some time ago it was announced that freight would be taken in from Cheminis to the camp by sleighs. Now this plan had been extended to include also a passenger service. It is understood that Mr. Walter Lyttle will operate the stage buses for the passenger service. The stages will be heated and made as comfortable as possible for the 27-mile drive.
Last week the T. & N. O. line was completed to the Quebec boundary, and at the boundary the station Cheminis was opened, with telegraph and telephone services. Mr. W. H. Kennedy is the first agent at Cheminis. Three trains a week are running to Cheminis, but it is understood that a daily service will be started very soon, with the exception of Sundays. The stages will meet each of the trains on their arrival in the evening and passengers desirous of going through the same evening to Rouyn will be accommodated by the bus service.

Many friends in this district of Mrs. Hood (formerly Miss Boyle of Timmins, where she was on the Hollinger Stores staff for some years) will be interested in the following from the last issue of The Northern News:—"Reports from Saskatoon indicate that the condition of Robert, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Hood (the former Miss Kitty Boyle) is improving."

From Winter's Bite To Summer's Glow

She slips out of New York harbor and the Statue of Liberty fades into the wintry mists behind her. It is the good ship Montroyal of the Canadian Pacific Line on her first trip of the season to the West Indies and it is midwinter with all the harshness of that time of year apparent. Icy gusts and cold snow falling into the water where ice is floating. In every way the prospect is uninviting and the passengers are below decks in the warmth of well-lighted, gay salons and cabins. A little over twenty-four hours of sailing elapses, and what a change! We are back in the good old summer time.
Small islands pass and reefs so close on either hand that a golf ball thrown from the deck might waken the dormitory of lazy gulls. In the distance there develops like a smoke pall, an immense range of mountains, and it is sunrise over a calm sea steeped in the glories of color almost beyond imagination, while the air is so warm that the lightest of summer clothing is de rigueur.
The landfall grows, as it were, and stands smiling at us. Gliding smoothly along, one feels minute, with the insignificance of a fly on a floor, gazing at a huge piece of a gilded brown color, so marked are the indentations shadowing the island's precipitous sides—all jags and points.

The little town on the island is hidden with an African shyness, among palm trees. Some fine buildings, church and government, offset the mile upon mile of negroes' wooden habitations that persist until the foothills of the island's watershed backbone; from below, so solemn in its eminence; from above, so impracticable in its crenellations, gullies and rifts. Through the craggy interior splash threading streams and frothy torrents over rocky shelves often garlanded with greenery and rare fronds.
To the north-west where the mountain turbulence subsides, the serried ranks of the sugar-cane are marshalled as far as the eye can see, and banana trees grow in the rich red loam. Ginger roots, the sprouting pineapple, and tobacco are cultivated; but the genial heat of the sun aiding and abetting native indolence, breeds theft and petty larceny. So sugar is this island's staple industry. Permission to view a sugar-mill can be obtained. Nor should the experience be missed. The bundles of sugar cane, loaded with sap, are run up an endless sliding band, to be crushed in a mangle, the stems coming out in dry shreds, the rich juices flowing away to the circulators, large drum conveyers and copper kettles that boil it. Then vases, revolving internally, whisk the juice at high velocity thus crystallizing it to the consistency seen in bowls at the breakfast table. A by-product of the process, once thrown away, now as important as its parent industry, is the well-known West Indies rum.
Down grassy slopes by the northern shore where a sea of crystal blue cleanses a strip of shining sand, bathers swim for hours, unwilling to leave the pleasant warmth of the water for the slightly cooler outside air.
Leaving New York on January 28 for the West Indies the Canadian Pacific Liner Montroyal makes fifteen ports of call before returning thirty days later. The Montroyal makes a second trip to the West Indies, taking in different ports, leaving New York March 1 and returning March 30. Shore excursions are arranged for ports where interesting sights may be taken in.
