

Winter Winds Will Not Chap

Campana's Italian Balm prevents chapping of the hands and face in winter time. The cold wind evaporates the natural moisture of the skin, leaving it dry and shrunken. Campana's Italian Balm replaces this natural moisture. All druggists and departmental stores sell it. A special sample bottle mailed on receipt of 5c.

ANNUAL A.S.D. DANCE ON FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 5TH

Annual Skating Party Held Last Night and Pleasant Evening Enjoyed by all.

Though the attendance was not as large as usual, at the regular weekly dance of the A.S.D. Club held last night an enjoyable time was spent by those present. The special for the evening was the Annual skating party of the club the members gathering at the Timmins Rink, and spending until ten o'clock in skating, after which all proceeded to the new Oddfellows' hall on Spruce street, north, where the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing. Only one special was held a Paul Jones, J. K. Kennedy acting as director for the very enjoyable number. Miss Mary Boyd looked after the serving of the refreshments, always a popular part of the programme at A.S.D. dances. The A.S.D. orchestra, consisting of Ted Whaley, violin, Ormston, piano; Morrison, saxophone and Holland, drums, gave their best in music.

In the interval after the serving of refreshments, the Club president, C. G. Pirie, announced that the A. S. D. had been invited as a Club to the Second Sleepless Night, being held this evening in the High School, South Porcupine, by the Bachelor's Insomnia Club. He also announced the schedule for the remainder of the month of January, next Wednesday to be the usual dance and the following week it is the intention to hold a Ski Party, followed by a dance in the Clubrooms. Announcement was also made in regard to the Annual Dance of the A.S.D., this event to be held in the Masonic Hall, the music to be provided by the Club orchestra; and all members desirous of inviting friends to this event are requested to have names turned in by the 27th of January when all lists will be closed. Interesting Facts About Temiskaming, Chiminis, Etc.

How New Liskeard Came to Hold Its Present Name. Once Was Changed to Thornloe. Still Mystery as to Why the Mountain Was Named Chiminis. Thought to Have Once Been a Volcano.

A recent paragraph in The Advance has called forth a number of very interesting facts about some place names in this district. The paragraph in this paper was as follows:—"A couple of weeks ago The Advance asked The New Liskeard Speaker to explain why Chiminis Mountain was so named. The Speaker having said that Chiminis Station on the T. & N. O. was named after the mountain. But all the reply The Speaker gives is: "Ask us something easy!" yet The Speaker has answered harder questions than that about the mountain's name."

To this The New Liskeard Speaker makes most interesting reply giving much valuable historical date. The Speaker still is unable to state why the mountain was called "Chiminis," but the Liskeard paper comes pretty close perhaps, to telling why the mountain was in the first place, or how it came, suggesting that it was of volcanic origin. In giving the origin of the mountain, instead of the origin of the name The Speaker has done well, but still The Advance thirsts for knowledge as to why Chiminis Mountain was so named. If anybody asked the T. & N. O. why they named the station at the Quebec border on the Rouyn line "Chiminis" the railway folks have the apt reply "After the mountain, of course!" "And why was the mountain so named?" The Speaker was asked. "Oh, after the volcano!" is the reply indicated. Now, why in the name of Honourable William Lyon Mackenzie King, ex-M. P., was the volcano called Chiminis?

However, here is the article in full from The Speaker, for which The Advance returns sincere thanks not only for its own sake but for the sake of all interested in historical data regarding this North Land:—"Honest, there is nothing within reason The Speaker would not do to please The Advance, and after reading the above paragraph we decided, if it were at all possible, to give the information asked for. Luckily, we consulted one of our townsmen who is keenly interested in geology, Mr. Thomas McCamus, and learned that he and the late Prof. Miller were in the neighborhood of the mountain to which reference is made, in 1906. It was pointed out to Mr. McCamus as Mount Chiminis. We were shown a photo of the mountain taken by our townsman, Mr. James E. Thompson, at Beaver House Lake, 30 miles distant, and from this photo one would imagine that there was a fine plateau on top of the mountain, but Mr. McCamus thinks there is a small lake there. Some believe that this mountain was once a volcano, and that after many years when eruption ceased and the crater was filled with debris, a lake was formed. We make these suggestions merely from what is said by those who have been at the top of the mountain which, Prof. Miller said, was seven hundred feet high. Photos taken at close range, we were told, show that the mountain resembles in appearance a large, neatly built stack of hay. The best view of the mountain is from the east arm of Larder Lake. It is about three miles from the boundary and well within the Province of Quebec. What makes its appearance so striking, perhaps is because it arises out of a comparatively level country, as we judge by the photograph.

"But to come back to the question submitted, Why was this mountain called Chiminis (pronounced as though spelled shiminy)? We do not know, but we might be permitted to offer the suggestion that it was because of its resemblance of the National Policy chimneys we heard so much about in 1878.

"When we made our first visit to Northern Ontario, thirty-one years ago last August, what we now call "Temiskaming" was spelled "Temiscamingue." This meant amongst the Indians, "temis," deep, and "mingue," water.

"Two years later Capt. Jones, the literary man of the Lusden Steamboat Line—and formerly a printer—got out a very attractive illustrated folder containing photographic views of various pretty spots on the lake and in the glens. In this folder Capt. Jones changed the spelling from its original to "Temiskaming." In Ontario this spelling has been followed, and is the official spelling and should be followed in legal documents. In the Ontario act constituting this part of Nipissing into an electoral district, the new constituency is spelled "Temiskaming." But, in the spelling of this electoral district for the Dominion we find an "i" substituted for an "e" thus: "Timiskaming." School teachers should make a note of what we have said, because it is confusing to children as well as to older people to see Temiskaming spelled "Timiskaming" on the Dominion maps.

"In the spelling of Temiskaming in the charter of the T. & H. B. Mining Co. the letter "e" is substituted for the letter "k" thus "Temiscaming," but this is not official.

"The naming of New Liskeard also might be told in this connection, although the story is very familiar to many of us.

"Originally, all the land belonged to an Indian Chief named Wabis, and even yet, sometimes a descendant of Chief Wabis puts up a claim to the Ontario Government for possession of the town. Mr. William Murray bought all the land from Chief Wabis, and sold the south side to a company of about six men from the town of Huntsville. One of the leaders of the company was Mr. George Paget an Englishman. The naming of the then embryo town was left to him, and he named it for his native English town, "Liskeard."

"After a post office had been established here for some time, the Post Office Department gave out notice that there was another "Liskeard" in Ontario, and asked the people here to select another name. At this particular time—shall we say, psychological moment, His Lordship, Bishop Thornloe, made his first visit here and some of his friends at once suggested that the town be named in his honor; and in "no time" a petition was sent to Ottawa and the name was changed from "Liskeard" to "Thornloe."

"Really, this is a nice name, and many of us would have been satisfied had there been no more said about it. But it did not satisfy the Huntsville Company, and later a public meeting was held when neither of these names were favored, the name "Carsanna," receiving the majority of votes. However, the opponents would not stand for what they called "canned salmon," and a visit to Toronto by Mr. John Armstrong and a talk with the Provincial Secretary ended all further squabbling, and the name ever since has been "New Liskeard;" and it is a good young town, (reference, the Police Magistrate), and is on the map to stay.

DALZELL'S FIRST SALE PROVING BIG SUCCESS

The sale started on Saturday at W. Dalzell's is proving a success from the standpoint alike of the store and the public. The latter are securing values in high-grade goods, and the store is reducing its stocks materially to make room for the new spring goods as planned. This is the first sale ever put on by Mr. Dalzell in Timmins and it is proving particularly popular. The sale will continue only to the evening of Jan. 26th.

BANQUET TENDERED TO DR. MCDUGALL AT NORTH BAY

Last week the citizens of North Bay tendered a complimentary banquet to Dr. J. B. McDougall, Assistant Chief Inspector of Public Schools for Ontario, who recently moved from North Bay to Toronto to reside. Dr. McDougall was presented with a handsome travelling bag by Mayor D. Barker on behalf of the citizens of North Bay. Very many appreciative words were spoken by those giving addresses relative to the excellent services rendered by Dr. McDougall to the North Land and to the cause of education in general. In his reply, Dr. McDougall took occasion to warn the North Land in particular and Ontario in general against design upon the resources of this country's fiscal system. In the afternoon Dr. McDougall was present at the naming of the new school on Brooks street, North Bay, which will now be known as the Dr. J. B. McDougall School.

Keep your ambition to yourself. Don't talk about it; otherwise your energy may be dissipated in conversation instead of action.
