NEW TIMBER POLICY DETAILED BY PREMIER

Will Mean Great Progress and Will Not Alienate a Single Acre of Pulp Land.

There were many points of special interest to the North Land in the address last week by Premier Ferguson in the Ontario Legislature in his speech upon the address from the throne.

A timber policy which alienates not an acre of pulp land and requires that every stick of pulp shall be manufactured within Ontario was announced. The Premier declared that such a policy had been the basis of contracts recently concluded in Northern Ontario whereby as large a paper industry as already exists in Quebec was assured to this province.

Referring to the Province's timber resources, Hon. Mr. Ferguson said, that surveys showed that 200,000,000 cords of pulpwood were available. He made that statement because they were constantly being told that the forest reserves were being irretrievably depleted. This cordage was not all spruce but the pulp industry was finding that it could use other woods than spruce. At present 2,500 tons of newsprint was being turned out daily and the Government had increased the dues on that so that the revenue therefrom now reached $600,000 a year. With the increased production, which in a few years would be 4,500 tons, the Government would be receiving close to $2,000,000 a year from this source alone.

To bring Ontario's pulp wood production up to that of the Province of Quebec, Hon. Mr. Ferguson said meant increasing the output to 4,600 tons daily. Sufficient limit had been advertised to make possible this output and tenders had been accepted.

"That means," the Prime Minister said, "that $80,000,000 of additional capital is to go into the North Country within the next two years. It means that 14,000 additional men are to be taken on to the North Country's payrolls. And a condition of the contracts is that every stick of the raw material must be manufactured into a finished product within Ontario."

Mr. Raney: "Into pulp or into paper?"

Mr. Ferguson: "Into paper. Everything which is necessary in order that the original pulpwood may be delivered to the newspapers ready for use must be done within the Province."

The Prime Minister further stated features of the Government's policy. Not one single area had been sold. The Government had not disposed of the limits it had advertised, but had contracted to furnish so many cords of wood annually from them to meet the requirements of the industries which were tendering. The contracts were for a 21-year period, renewable twice for ten years each time, and reforestation was a feature of the policy also.

CABINET MINISTER THINKS AMUSEMENT TAX ALL RIGHT.

Recently there has been more or less organized effort to secure the repeal of the Provincial Amusement Tax, and many different arguments have been advanced to secure this end. One of the chief points usually emphasized is the burden of the tax upon churches and charities. The other side of the question is given by a correspondent writing from Toronto to The Advance. This correspondent says:—

"In conversation with your correspondent on Friday, Hon. W. H. Price, provincial treasurer, cleared up some popular misapprehension respecting administration of the amusement tax. The fact is that it has worked out decidedly to the advantage of churches and charities. The regulation permitting exemption only where half the gross receipts of an entertainment go to religious, charitable, educational or community purposes has really had the effect of allowing something to be obtained for these objects. Where all or nearly all the receipts of an entertainment go to talent and for other expenses, the department considers it only fair to collect the tax. "Now that we have it running," the minister said, "the churches as a whole, and charitable and fraternal organizations are behind the department, because they realize that for the first time they are sure of getting something. When this government came in one of the things we found all over the country was that there was no provision that enabled the charity to get an adequate amount from an entertainment. The hall-owner, the talent employed, the business organizations, got paid and the charities sometimes got nothing. At the same time, the government lost the tax."

Q—"Why do they call it the shingle bob?"
A—"Because it's close to wood."

SAID TO BE PLACER MINING NOW ON KAMISCOTIA RIVER

A local man who recently returned from a trip up the Kamiscotia River says he does not know anything about any placer mining going on there as reported last week. This prospector says that there may be such work in progress, but he does not know of it. "If there is such activity," he said, "I missed it, that's all." He believes strongly, however, in the great mining possibilities of the Kamiscotia area, and is sure that in the comparatively near future there will be big news from the district. American capital has been interested in some of the promising Kamiscotia properties and big things are expected this summer. This week or next a party from the United States is expected to visit the district, and after that much activity is expected.

There was a report last week that placer had been found in the Kamiscotia River and that the course of the river had been turned at one point so as to get at the bed for the placer there. No confirmation of this report has been received and this particular prospector who is well posted on the Kamiscotia area is inclined to take the report with considerable reserve. Many old-time prospectors with experience in placer mining are inclined to the opinion that conditions and the contour of the country are against the probability of successful placer mining in this North Land. They agree that gold may be found in streams or almost any place else in this district, but think that practical placer mining is altogether unlikely. However, as to this time will tell. Those with placer claims in Denton and other townships southwest of this area are equally sure that they have the world by the tail.
