CANADA

CROWN of her young Vancouver,
Crest of her old Quebec.
ATLANTIC and fair Pacific,
Sweeping her keel and deck.
NORTHWARD her stores of treasure,
Southward her land untold;
Anation here in the building
Teeming with silver and gold.
DAWN of a greater Dominion,
Than ever the world has known
AND Canada—for all Canadians,
This land we call our own.

Ray O'Neill believes with his whole heart that the welfare of every part of Canada depends upon the intelligent good-will and co-operation of every unit within the borders of this Dominion.
