MOTORISTS SHOULD NOT GO ON A TOOT OF TOOTING.

The annoyance and the danger caused by the unnecessary tooting of motor horns has been encountered in past times in Timmins. Persistent and unnecessary honking of horns causes much irritation, and in addition it is an actual menace to the safety of the public by confusing other motorists and the public. The warning sound of the horn has a definite purpose, and it should be used only when needed. To use it for "amusement" is like the idiotic idea of turning in a fire alarm "Just for fun." Chief Greer stopped the practice here some years ago by putting the law into effect. Recently there has been a tendency to forget about the lesson impressed by Chief Greer. Accordingly, it may not be amiss to re-publish the following editorial from the last issue of The Sudbury Star:—

"An Ottawa magistrate greatly to the satisfaction and comfort of the public, has fined a taxi driver who 'did unlawfully sound a horn so as to make an unreasonable noise.' There had been a wedding party, en route to the railway station, and the offending driver had sounded his horn continuously, despite the fact that a traffic policeman had ordered him to stop. The magistrate complimented the officer, convicted the driver and issued a general warning to motor car drivers who fail to exercise common sense in the matter of horns. Thus has been set a most excellent precedent. The unnecessary sounding of motor horns on streets has become a serious abuse and has been the subject of much protest. There are traffic conditions which call for the use of the horn as a signal or as a warning, and with the ever-multiplying number of cars in use the necessary minimum of noise is quite enough. The note of a motor horn is by no means musical except to the ears—probably very long ears—of road fiends, who are, unfortunately, much too numerous and active. Moreover, the needless use of the horn has a dangerous tendency, either in diminishing the effect of a warning legitimately sounded or in confusing other drivers and pedestrians. In any event the practice constitutes a nuisance, and it cannot be excused even for the purpose of a wedding send-off. Even in an age of gasoline and jazz music, —if there is such a thing as jazz music—the motor horn cannot be regarded as a satisfactory substitute for wedding bells, whose harmony, if the late Mr. Poe was not mistaken, foretells a "world of happiness." It is extremely difficult to find the promise of wedded bliss in the raucous bark of a klaxon, but, even were it otherwise, the principle of conferring the greatest good upon the greatest number would still be worthy of consideration and observance, in which event the newlyweds would have to take their chances. Seriously, the indiscriminate use of the motor horn has become a matter of public concern. The offenders, like the road hogs and the speed maniacs, are a class apart, and the majority of drivers have nothing in common with them. The majority of motorists, therefore, will be no less pleased than the pedestrian if the abuse can be checked; and the Ottawa magistrate has shown the way."

KIPLING'S LATEST POEM

The following are the main verses of the poem by Rudyard Kipling that has recently caused so much controversy:—

At the eleventh hour he came,
But his wages were the same
As ours who all day long had trod
The wine-press of the wrath of God.

Since his back had felt no load,
Virtue still in him abode;
So he swiftly made his own,
Those lost spoils we had not won.

We went home, delivered thence,
Grudging him no recompense,
Till he portioned praise or blame
To our works before he came.

Till he showed us for our good—
Deaf to mirth and blind to scorn—
How we might have best withstood
Burdens that he had not borne!

Flowered Crepe de Chine With Pleated Inset Makes This Gay Combination

One would think all the "different" ways of making combinations were exhausted, yet here is a smart inset treatment that is decidedly new.

In the first place, the material is fetching, being pale blue crepe de chine with tiny flower sprays in pink and yellow. The scallops are bound in yellow, and the one-sided inset is of yellow chiffon.

In solid colours, orchid crepe de chine with pale blue chiffon would be effective.

NEW ARMY COMMANDER FOR CANADA EAST S.A.

According to information from Toronto last week, the appointment of Lieutenant-Commander William Maxwell to take charge of the Eastern Canada division of the Salvation Army has been announced. Commander Maxwell, who is at present in London, England, has had long experience in Salvation Army work. He will arrive in Toronto either in November or December of this year, and will replace Commander Sowton, who has been given an important post in Australia with headquarters in Sydney.

The eastern area over which the new executive will take charge, extends from the Atlantic seaboard to the western extremities of the Great Lakes. Newfoundland is also included in this division. The appointment was made by General Booth, Commander-in-chief of the Salvation Army.

Commissioner Sowton was very popular in Timmins, having visited here on more than one occasion. He and Mrs. Sowton were special visitors in Timmins in June of this year on the occasion of the anniversary services here of the local S.A. Commissioner and Mrs. Sowton will be followed to their new charge with the best wishes of hosts of friends in this North Land.

The Haileyburian last week says: "John and Wm. McFarlane returned on Sunday from a prospecting trip along the transcontinental about 400 miles west of Cochrane, where they claim to have secured some good ground adjoining a recent discovery of free gold, made by a party from New Liskeard. They have great hopes that the area will prove valuable."

NO STAKING PERMITTED UNDER CERTAIN LAKES

Prospectors and others who are particularly interested at the present moment in the activity around the Lake Savant district would do well to note the idea advanced by one old-time prospector of this North. He says that in all cases of staking in these newer districts, it is well not only to be posted on the general regulations in regard to claims, but also to become familiar with special orders-in-council, etc., dealing with mining or prospecting rights and privileges. There was, for instance, an order-in-council passed on October 30th, 1919, and still in force, withdrawing from prospecting, staking, sale or lease, all the territory under water in Lake St. Joseph and Lake Savant, as well as for a distance of five chains around the shore lines. In Savant Lake there are a number of small islands which cannot be staked, as there would be nothing left when the shore line allowance is taken off, and no staking is allowed in the water surrounding them.

THE LATE PATRICK SCULLY OF SUDBURY, ONTARIO.

Brief reference was made last week to the death of Mr. Patrick Scully, of Sudbury, father of Mr. James Scully, of Timmins. The Sudbury Star last week had extended reference to the death, the following being part of the reference by The Star:—

"One of Sudbury's oldest and most popular citizens passed away on Sunday evening, Oct. 17th, in the person of Patrick Scully, who died at his residence on Drinkwater St., after a lengthy period of ill health. The late Mr. Scully, who was in his 66th year, was born in Mount St. Patrick, Renfrew County, and came to Sudbury about 35 years ago, when the town was in its pioneer stage. He established a barber shop on Larch street, which he conducted for many years and became one of the best known business men in Sudbury and the surrounding district. Mr. Scully was a member St. Joseph's Roman Catholic Church. His wife predeceased him in 1914, and he is survived by three sons, James, of Timmins, well known hockey player; J. P., of Espanola, prominent in Nickel Belt baseball; and Thomas of Detroit; three daughters, Mrs. M. J. Gaffney and Miss Ella Scully, of Sudbury and Miss Elizabeth Scully, of St. Joseph's Training School, Hamilton; and one brother and one sister, John and Miss Mary Scully, of Mount St. Patrick.

"The funeral was held this morning in St. Joseph's Church, the service being conducted by Rev. Father John Sullivan, of Renfrew, a nephew of the late Mr. Scully. Many friends and relatives were in attendance, while telegrams of condolence from all parts of the continent were received by the family.

"The esteem in which the deceased was held was attested to by the many beautiful floral tributes, which were received from the following: "Pillow—Friends at Espanola Hatch; Cross—Spanish River Pulp and Paper Co.; Wreaths—W. A. Mitchell, S. Blue, the Electrical Staff, Espanola; Wallace Botsford, The Family, The Staff of Hollinger Mine; Baskets—A. C. "The pall-bearers were Messrs T. Travers, R. McKinnon, John Conway, C. V. Price, A. Fournier and P. J. Scully.

"Following the service a large number of people followed the cortege to the cemetery, where burial was made.

OTTAWA JOURNAL'S OPINION OF THE LATE EUGENE DEBS

On the editorial page of The Ottawa Journal on Friday last appeared the following reference to the late Eugene Debs:—

"Debs is dead. This news when it flashed yesterday to thousands in the United States and Canada meant but little. Yet Debs in his day filled voluminous columns of newspaper space and in his own peculiar way was one of the most remarkable characters on the continent. A big-hearted socialist who wanted nothing for himself in a land of intensive capitalism where personal acquisition has been almost deified, the glaring antithesis of his character was bound to make him conspicuous.

"Debs belonged to that body of ardent social reformers who seeing the undoubted evils and injustices of society are not willing to await the necessarily slow process of social evolution. To him compromise was anathema and with a glorious disregard for self he hurled himself against the unyielding pillars of society. Three times socialist candidate for the United States Presidency, he gathered round his upopular banner over a million supporters. He did more than that. He won the respect of many more millions who, absolutely disagreeing with his social theories, paid him the homage that is accorded courage and unselfishness.

"Hating war—even just war—with the uncompromising intensity of the fanatic he served a jail term during the late struggle for opposing the draft. His conduct during his trial and subsequent imprisonment was a splendid example to his countrymen. He refused to plead his case, acknowledged the justice of his sentence, upheld the principles which made that sentence inevitable and, going to jail, strictly observed the rules of the institution in which he was confined.

"While in prison Debs spent his time in trying to help and reform his fellow prisoners. The splendid unselfishness and the intense magnetism of his nature won their love, and when he was pardoned they cheered him as he once went out to take up his hopeless fight with society. Even the most hidebound Conservative must accord to the memory of Eugene V. Debs the tribute of a life nobly lived in a mistaken cause."
