IMMORTALIZING THE NEWS-PAPERS OF THE NORTH.

The gentleman who writes the column, "An Eye to Everything," for The Sudbury Star, was evidently overcome by Fergie's new liquor policy and writes the following:—

"At Renfrew in the South, news darts forth like mercury and spread to Pembroke is duly observed, and standardized. Appearing at North Bay like a nugget and experiencing the radiating influence of the Sudbury Star, despatches undergo an exposition at Little Current, after which they are recorded at Gore Bay, simultaneously being announced as plain news at Sault Ste. Marie and ending up in the starry regions there as well. Farther westward at Port Arthur and Fort William, despatches are chronicled and journaled, respectively, and at Kenora enter the bowels of the earth, only to be mined and examined. Striking a snag, the news darts southward to Fort Frances and comes out once a week with all the Father Times. Meanwhile in Cobalt, occurrences are newswid abroad again and on reaching Haileybury are hailed and buried, strangely enough, they are again spoken at New Liskeard and at Timmins are advanced eastward to Iroquois Falls from where they are hustled northward to Cochrane. Here they are posted and newswid abroad to citizens, wolves and other wild life in the hinterlands."

It will be noted that in the above paragraph the names of the newspapers of the various towns are more or less indicated. It is a hard world—this North country.

MR. D. R. McDONALD TO GO TO ROYAL FAIR AT TORONTO

Mr. D. R. McDonald leaves on Nov. 14th for Toronto to exhibit his prize poultry at the Royal Winter Fair in that city. Mr. McDonald this year has one of the finest collections of Rhode Island Reds and expects to win some prizes at the Royal Fair, despite the fact that this show attracts the best from all over the continent. Those who have seen Mr. McDonald's birds this year say that they will not likely be beaten by anything in the poultry line in their class. He will also exhibit at Ottawa and Guelph. He will be away about six weeks.

BLUEBERRY CROP VALUABLE IN THE NORTH COUNTRY

The chief fruit crop of this North Land is the luscious blueberry, a fruit that suits the taste of a majority of people. From all parts of the North Land immense quantities of this fruit are shipped to Southern cities and towns. In the Porcupine district the blueberry grows as well as in other sections of the North, but the shipments from here are not material nor any notable percentage of the crops, on account of the distance for shipment and also because there is a large home market. The crop, here, however, is a valuable one, and would so appear if there were any means of making any approximate estimate. In the Sudbury district, there are large shipments each day throughout the season. The following from The Sudbury Star last week gives a striking idea of the value of the crop. The Star says:—

"Shipment of blueberries from the Sudbury district to city markets during the past season is estimated at 60,000 baskets, which at the prevailing prices of $1.10 and $1.25 per basket paid to pickers, would place the value of the crop between $650,000 and $750,000. These figures are gathered from the transportation companies and will be a revelation to many. The chief points of shipment on the Canadian Pacific lines were Sudbury, Massey, Verner, Cluter and Coniston, but shipments extended to Cartier on the West, Mattawa, on the East and from a few points South. A total of 41,297 baskets, making up a tonnage of 289,079 lbs., were handled by the C. P. Express. The Canadian National lines estimate their shipments from the Sudbury district at about 20,000 baskets. Of these, three cars of an average of 1,500 baskets to the car, were shipped from Sudbury by freight, by a Detroit firm who had their own buyers in the district for some time."

CLAIMS MAY NOW BE STAKED ON LAKE SAVANT SHORE.

Some weeks ago The Advance referred to the fact that under an order-in-council passed in 1919, the beds and shores of Lake Savant and other lakes in the same district were withdrawn from staking. It was pointed out that this would make illegal the staking of some of the islands, as the required shore allowance would leave nothing to stake. Announcement was made last week, however, by Mr. T. W. Gibson, Deputy Minister of Mines, that the order-in-council referred to had been withdrawn and the beds and shores of Lakes Savant, St. Joseph, Kashiawegama and Sandy may now be staked out under the ordinary provisions of the Mining Act.

TEN YEARS OF O.T.A. SHOW ACT TO BE UNDESIRABLE

In the last issue of The Sudbury Star appears the following comment on the Ontario Temperance Act and its enforcement, or otherwise:—

"The stubbornness of the advocates of the Ontario Temperance Act passes all understanding. In the face of ten years of fruitless endeavour to enforce the unenforceable law, in the face of increasing drinking among the young people of the Province, of scores of death from poison alcohol, of murders of enforcement officers, persecution of innocent people, enrichment of the predatory bootleggers, graft and corruption untold, they still quite seriously affirm that the Ontario Temperance Act is practical and prohibition a success. The thousand and one evidences of its manifest and miserable failure lessen their belief in its benefits not in the least. In their blind and fanatical worship of the O.T.A. shibboleth they either ignore or fail to see its evil results. We sometimes wonder if the prohibitionists are as much concerned with the social and economic welfare of the province as they claim. If they really wanted to reduce the evils of drink they would surely see that they are on the wrong track altogether. The fundamental fault of prohibition is this—that as soon as people are forbidden to do something which they see no very good reason for refraining from, they are going to do it in spite of everything, and all the laws and elaborate systems of enforcement in the world will not stop them. That's the way humans are constituted. And so the O.T.A. is being violated, not merely here and there, but all over the province, and on such a scale as to make it non-effective. When the people of Ontario were told that they mustn't drink, large numbers of them got good and mad, and decided to go right ahead and drink as much as they pleased. The result is apparent everywhere. Those who earnestly desire to see the liquor traffic safely controlled, and the evils attendant upon drink reduced to a minimum—they cannot be abolished altogether—readily realize the necessity for getting rid of the Ontario Temperance Act, as in its ten years of operation it has certainly not proved satisfactory, to say the least. People who cannot be coerced can be reasoned with. A campaign of education, warning people of the dangers of immoderate consumption of alcoholic beverages, would do far more in ten years than prohibition has done. Drunkenness was on the decrease for years before prohibition came into effect and set back the cause of temperance. Persuasion accomplishes more than compulsion. Sane people do not claim that a system of government control will entirely eliminate drunkenness. They do claim, however, that conditions under the proposed system would be far better than at present. They certainly could not be worse."

How do you eat wheat?
You must eat some wheat each day—it is your "staff of life"—but how do you eat it? It should be the whole wheat, not just the starchy center of the wheat berry which we call "white flour." The mineral salts and vitamins so necessary to health and normal growth are in six outer coats of the wheat berry. They are all in SHREDDED WHEAT and in a digestible form. Each shred is baked crisp and brown. No one has ever been able to improve or even approach our shredding process for making the whole wheat grain palatable and digestible. Eat it with milk or as a hot porridge made by cooking the biscuits in water or milk. Great for youngsters when toasted and served with butter.
