ONE WAY TO HALT BRITISH INVESTMENTS IN MINES

Loss in Shares After What Appeared to be Official Recommendation of Property.

Last week The Advance received a copy of The Financial News, London, England, containing one reason why British capital hesitates about investing in Canadian mines. The Financial News takes up the question of Stadacona Rouyn Mines, recommended by the journal, "Quebec," (apparently the official organ of the Agent-General for the Province of Quebec). The recommendation was made when the Stadacona issue was "still procurable at the comparatively low price of around 45 cents a share." Then the shares tumbled down to 28 cents about the end of March.

"Attention has been attracted of late," says The Financial News, "to the pushing of Canadian securities, and strong cautions have been issued from responsible quarters in Canada counselling British investors to make use of official resources of information before investing their money. Under these conditions, it seemed natural to enquire whether or not these laudatory references to the mine in question in an official publication did or did not imply that the venture in question had an official or semi-official recommendation."

Following this idea The Financial News wrote to the High Commissioner for Canada, who replied that neither his office nor the Canadian Government were responsible for any editorial in the Journal, "Quebec." The reply from the Agent-General for Quebec was to the effect that the articles about Stadacona mines were not of an editorial nature, but simply "reproductions,"—whatever that may mean. Commenting on the reply from the Agent-General, The Financial News says, "There is not, we venture to say, anything in the presentation of the articles in the journal, "Quebec," to show that they are "reproductions" and not editorial matter. In view of the very high authority which must attach to any sort of official or semi-official statement of prospects in connection with a mine by the provincial Government, we believe that it would be better that it should be made more clear that matter of the sort in question is reproduced, and not given under editorial authority."

In a letter sent to The Advance, The Financial News says:—"It is difficult to see how the Agent-General for Quebec can repudiate for his journal, "Quebec," which is published from his office, editorial responsibility for the puffing of Stadacona shares in its columns. On page 19 in the January issue of "Quebec," an article, in the course of which a report from the engineer Mr. J. P. Norrie to the directors is quoted, continues:—

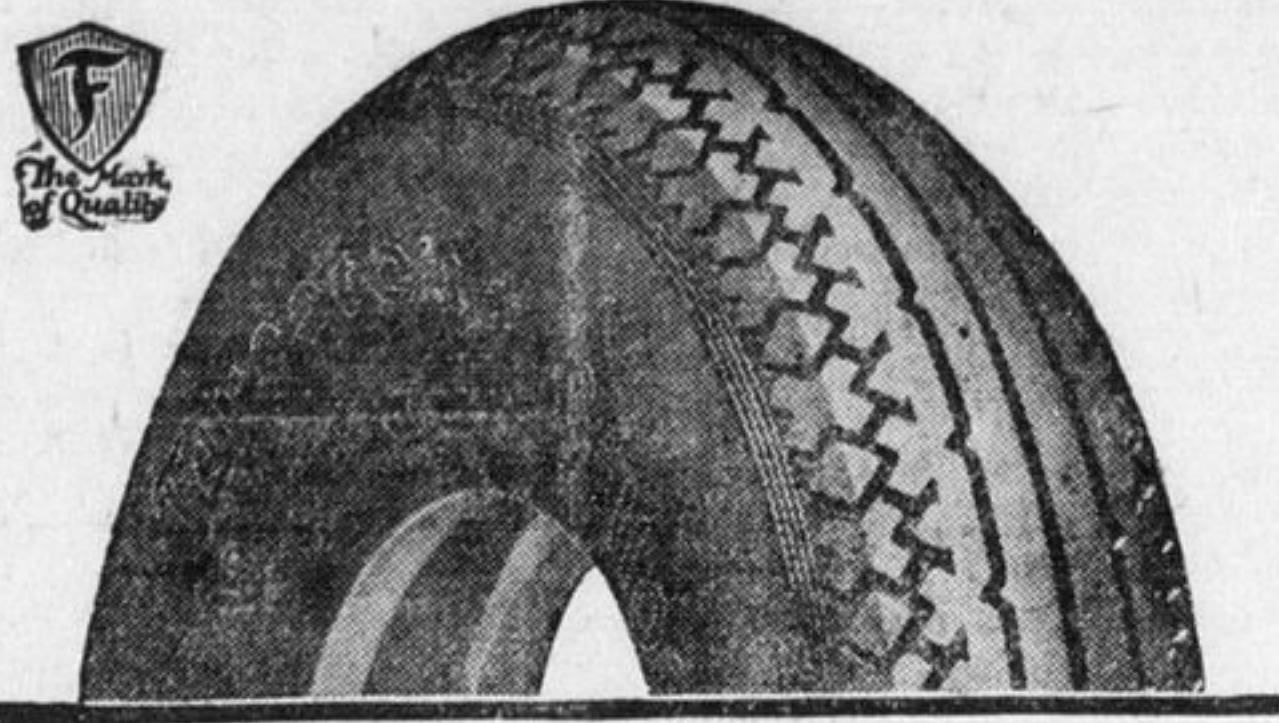

"When we first introduced Stadacona, we called attention to the fact that this ably managed enterprise, having as its President Mr. C. E. Taschereau, brother of Quebec's eminent Premier, owned approximately 10,000 acres of the choicest mineralized territory in the Rouyn fields, and that these property groups are so situated as to have distinct possibilities of carrying the extensions of the known ore zones that already had been proved on several of the more important mines and properties in this district. The field exploratory work now under way on the Stadacona holdings rapidly is proving the correctness of our viewpoint, and like wise is enhancing the speculative possibilities inherent in this attractive issue, which is still procurable at the comparatively low price of around 45 cents a share."

It may be said by some thoughtless person that all this has happened in connection with Quebec, and so Ontario need not worry. Unfortunately Ontario will be classed with Quebec in this matter, and all Canadian ventures will suffer. It would appear that something should be done to remove any wrong impressions and to restore confidence in Canadian mining

SYNDICATE RUNNING FIRE SALE HAS LEFT TIMMINS

The Continental Salvage Co., who were in charge of the disposal of the stocks after the fire at Meyers', Rinn Bros. and Pierce's stores, have wound up their business in Timmins.

To The Advance last week, Messrs. Breslau, Greenberg and Goldstein gave Timmins great praise as a coming city of importance and as a town that greatly appreciated values. Mr. Breslau, who has had a wide experience in selling fire and bankrupt stocks, claimed that Timmins was the best town he has met to readily and steadily respond to the values offered. He asked The Advance to express his thanks to the community for the support given in making the disposal of the stocks a possibility.

It is much easier to be critical than to be correct.

A man has paid too much for achievement if the time employed in arriving at success has robbed him of the opportunity to enjoy his family.

ANNUAL DANCE ON MONDAY OF THE RAMBLERS' CLUB

Very Pleasing and Successful Event. Well Attended. Decorations and Music Worthy of Special Note

About one hundred couples were present on Easter Monday evening at the Masonic Hall here for the third Annual Dance of the Ramblers Club, and an enjoyable evening was spent by those attending this event.

An excellent programme of dances was provided for the evening's entertainment. Mr. W. H. Wilson, president of the club, announcing the various dances. One of the specials that made a great hit during the evening was a lucky number fox-trot. Miss Alice McPherson and Dr. A. C. Ross holding the lucky number and winning the prize. Another feature dance was the balloon dance; there was a mad scramble to release the balloons which were strung across the hall. The remainder of the programme consisted of the usual fox-trots and waltzes, and a number of moonlight waltzes. The best of good music for the dancing was provided by Tommy Stephens' orchestra, the musicians responding to the insistent demands for repetitions of the more popular numbers in a manner which was a large contribution to the success of the evening.

An excellent luncheon was served during the evening by the ladies of the club assisted by the gentlemen members. The Masonic hall was artistically decorated for the event, the club colours of blue and white being very much in evidence, and a large banner across one end of the hall bore the Club's name.

The third annual dance of the Ramblers' Club ended about three o'clock, Tuesday morning, one and all voting it an outstanding success.

The meeting of the club to be held this coming Monday night will be the usual weekly dance.

GOLFERS STARTED THE SEASON LAST WEEK-END

Many Enthusiastic Devotees of the Royal Game Enjoyed Themselves Last Week, Commencing on Friday.

Enthusiastic golfers, tempted by the glorious weather on Good Friday dug their clubs out of the mothballs and all day these adventurous souls could be seen on the local links "hitting the pill" and getting in some preliminary practice for the coming season.

Saturday afternoon another fair quota of the members took a try at the famous old Scottish game, and the real summer weather on Easter Sunday again prompted the more enthusiastic devotees of the game to get a little bit of extra practice.

The links are in good condition, the only wet spot on the whole course being on number one fairway. Work was started on Saturday at clearing the greens, and it is expected that with the present splendid weather continuing, the course will be in a lot better shape than it ever has been before, by May first.

The report of the annual meeting is found elsewhere in this issue, having been held Wednesday evening.
