 When you buy a loaf of our raisin bread it is gone before you know it. The children will locate it and help themselves every time they experience that "gone" feeling. The adults, too, are always ready for a slice of it. To be on the safe side buy several loaves at a time. No chance of it getting stale. Make our bakery your sources of supply.

CANADA HAS HIGH PLACE IN RADIO DEVELOPMENT

To-day There are Some 400,000 Receiving Sets in Operation in the Dominion.
 The people of this part of the North will always be especially interested in radio and its progress, not only because of the number who use it as a means of pleasure, but also because the pioneer of radio in this North Land was also one of the first pioneers of modern radio in Canada.
 Canada's first use of radio was the establishment of radiotelegraph communication between stations at Belle Isle and Chateau Bay on the mainland on the north side of the Belle Isle Straits, as a substitute for a submarine cable which was continually being interrupted by icebergs.
 The stations were built by the Marconi Company. Power for the transmitter was obtained from dry batteries, and the receiving sets were of the most primitive type, using Marconi's coherer of metal filings in a glass tube as the detector.
 Since 1901, when 50 miles was a long range for a station, progress in radio has been steady. In 1902, Sir Wilfrid Laurier invited Mr. Marconi to Ottawa, and as a result a transatlantic radio-telegraph service between Canada and Great Britain was established. This service was inaugurated in 1907, and has been maintained ever since that date.
 The apparatus of the Glace Bay transatlantic station was, of course, materially altered and improved from time to time, and last year this station was discontinued and the service transferred to a Beam Station, the latest development in radio, located at Drummondville, P.Q.
 At the time of Confederation, a trip across the Atlantic was still an adventure, taking from two to three weeks. To-day the liners run with a regularity approaching that of a railroad service and a passenger, six days before the ship is due to arrive at Montreal, by means of long distance radio, is able to reserve a room with bath for a certain hour on a certain day, as a matter of routine. As the ship approaches within 500 miles of the Canadian coast, she comes within the chain of "aid to navigation" radio stations; if she is in a fog she verifies her position by means of the Direction Finders; if she desires to check her chronometer, she does so by means of the radio time signals. Every twelve hours the navigator is provided with complete weather forecasts for the area in which the ship is steaming; and he is advised of the exact location of any ice which may be in his track.
 The Great Lakes and East Coast "ship to shore" radio system consists of an intercommunicating chain of 26 stations and 6 beacons, extending

KIWANIS HEAR REPORT OF INTERNATIONAL MEETING

President and Secretary Give Interesting Review of Gathering at Memphis, Tenn.

The chief feature at the Kiwanis Club luncheon at the Empire Hotel on Monday of this week was the receiving of the reports of President Dr. Lee Honey and Secretary Jos. Weston on the International convention held at Memphis, Tennessee, this month. The president reviewed all the social and entertainment features in very effective and interesting way, and his report was both pleasing and helpful. Secretary Jos. Weston gave a very complete and comprehensive report on the business features of the convention. The secretary's report showed the greatest care and skill in its compilation. It was easy to listen to, and what is still more pleasing it will prove of special usefulness to the club in view of the helpful and suggestive information it contains.
 Among the visitors for the luncheon were Mr. Geo. Smuck, of Toronto, and Dr. Roberts, the latter being introduced by Dr. Harrison.
 Mr. V. Woodbury, chairman of the playgrounds committee, reported progress. The levelling of the grounds, the fencing, and the putting on of the chemicals to lay the dust would be ready for July 1st, he said, and the equipment would be installed immediately afterwards.
 Mr. W. O. Langdon, the Kiwanis Club representative on the committee looking after the July 1st celebration here, reported on the programme for the day. Among the items was to be a parade of motor cars in the morning, and all the school children were to march at 1 p.m., from the athletic grounds to the new community playgrounds, where there would be addresses for them by prominent citizens. The Confederation Jubilee medals for school children will also be distributed at the playgrounds.
 In connection with the recent visit here of Dr. Routley and Miss Wilkinson, Dr. Moore, who had been the Kiwanis Club representative at the meeting, said that the question of the province-wide campaign for funds for the Red Cross work had been discussed and it was decided that the time was inopportune for Timmins. Dr. Moore added that Dr. Routley will return to Timmins in September and will address the Kiwanis Club on the aims and objects of the Red Cross and what the organization has accomplished.
