South Porcupine Lost Game
Friday Night to Kitchener

At One Time Porcupine Boys Had O.H.A. Senior Champions Two Goals Down. Brilliant Exhibition of Hockey by Both Teams Final Score was 3 to 2.

Both A. E. Moyses & Co. and Homer L. Gibson & Co. had their big new offices packed to the doors with scores unable to find room on Friday evening to hear the excellent running reports of the first match between the Porcupine hockey team and the Kitchener team, the champions of the O.H.A. All the hockey fans in Timmins followed the reports of the game with the closest interest, and all were cheering for the Porcupine boys who covered themselves with glory by the brilliant game put up. The Porcupine boys had played the previous Friday, again on Monday, then on Wednesday, and then once more last Friday evening,—all gruelling games,—but the South End lads gave a wonderful account of themselves, though they had to face a practically fresh team in the men from the Brewery Town. All the newspapers speak well of the Porcupine team, and the following report of the Friday night match as it appeared in The Toronto Globe will be of special interest:—

South Porcupine looked good enough against Kitchener seniors at Arena Gardens last night to have walked off with a victory, but the luck of the game decreed otherwise, and the laurels went to the O.H.A. senior champions by a 3 to 2 count. It was a small score for a game that provided both teams with numerous golden opportunities to beat the goalkeepers, and even when Kitchener scored what proved to be the deciding counter after fourteen minutes to play in the last period, the Northerners did not appear to be beaten. They kept on storming the Kitchener net until the final bell halted their efforts, and they battled merrily for the tying counter that failed to come.

This afternoon the teams meet again, and Kitchener's one-goal advantage may not prove much of a handicap to the men from the mining country. They were not outplayed last night, except for a few moments in the second period, when the O.H.A. champions, smarting under a 2 to 0 score against them, opened up a frantic attack and equalized the count in less than a minute. South Porcupine's hard-earned lead disappeared in the twinkling of an eye, so to speak, and the Northerners were unable to forge ahead again, although they had plenty of scoring chances.

Although on the night's play Kitchener may have had a slight edge, the O.H.A. champions were given no breathing spaces. They were forced to extend themselves through every period by the fast pace that South Porcupine set, and it was only the experience of the more seasoned Kitchener team that spelled the difference in the score.

Most of the scoring was done in the second period. The first period was goalless, although Kitchener gave Thornton in the opposition net a busy time and enabled him to show about as good a performance of goalminding as has been seen here this season. The bumping defence of the Northerners was split wide open several times by the Kitchener attack, but the tricky forwards of the O.H.A. titleholders could not beat the goalkeeper when they were right in on top of him.

In the second period the North Country lads went out and showed their best hockey. They outplayed the Greenshirts in the first ten minutes of the session and ran in a couple of goals. They appeared headed for a victory, when, like a flash, the Greenshirts changed the whole complexion of the game with two quick tallies.

From then on it was a nip-and-tuck battle. In the final period Jemmett twice missed the open net when he was right through the Kitchener defence for a clean shot on Berner. Kitchener also ruined a couple of good scoring chances when only the goalkeeper barred the way to a tally. It remained Walter Molson to net the goal that supplied the margin of victory when he and Cammie Seagram broke away and Molson split the South Porcupine defence to sail through and give Thornton a shot that the goalkeeper had little or no chance to stop.

The game dazzled with sparkling hockey. Team play was attempted at all times by both sextets and the play was wide open for the most part with thrilling end-to-end rushes that only culminated with a marvellous stop by the net guardian or a bullet-like drive that missed the goal by inches. Kitchener appeared to have scored in first period when Roth bore in on Thornton and pelted him with a high shot. The puck struck the goal post and bounced only a few feet in front of the goal-mouth. The fans waited for the red light to flash, as the shot was so quick and the play so obscured by the swarm of players around the goal that it looked as though Roth's shot had entered the net. But the goal judge ruled otherwise, and the referee called for a face-off to the side of the net. There was no protest from the Kitchener players, and this stilled the murmur from the fans, who thought the Greenshirts were being deprived of a well-earned counter.

In view of Kitchener's success in piercing the South Porcupine defence in the first period the Northerners sudden spurt to the front in the early part of the second period was a surprise. The defence tightened up and held the Kitchener attackers out while the N.O.H.A. team's forwards cut loose such a determined attack on the O.H.A. champions' citadel that the Greenshirts were kept well occupied trying to check the storm of rushes. The first goal of the game came after three minutes of play, when McHutcheon took Jemmett's pass and drilled a shot from right wing that found the corner of the net, when Berner's outstretched arm failed to stop it. This success stimulated the Northerners to further efforts. In five minutes more they increased their lead to two, when Gagnon whisked the rubber into the net after a scramble in front of the Kitchener goal.

It was Kitchener's turn to take the offensive then. The O.H.A. champions really showed some fine hockey in the next few minutes. They put on speed, and the veteran George Karges dashed down the ice with the pick and teammates flanking him. He waltzed right through the defence and carried the puck right in on Thornton and picked a clear opening to score in 40 seconds after South Porcupine had tallied last.

From the face-off, Seagram got the puck, lost it at the South Porcupine defence, but it came out to centre ice again, and the husky defence man was uncovered as he packed a fast, low drive that ended in the goal. Fifty-three seconds of play had evened the game again after being two goals down.

The final period found both defences presenting strong opposition to the speedy attacks of the forwards. South Porcupine did not give up, but maintained a strong three-man attack and several times appeared on the point of taking the lead again. Jemmett's two excellent chances were spoiled in his anxiety to score, while Wilf. Heller was equally inaccurate in his aim when he had only Thornton to beat from close in. The break came when Molson and Seagram caught the South Porcupine forward line behind them, and as they sailed down on the defence Molson faked a pass and skated through to have Thornton at his mercy.

The crowd was not as large as an Allan Cup fixture deserves, but the fans had plenty to enthuse over and this afternoon's game will probably attract a much larger attendance. Today's game should be a real struggle equally as good as last night's.

Spence, Jemmett and McHutcheon were the pick of the Porcupine forward line last night. Cain and Murray handed out the bumps freely, while Thornton got a real chance to show his ability. For Kitchener, Roth and Karges were the stars. Cammie Seagram and Molson did not work as hard as the first two, but they were always dangerous. Wilf. Heller and his brother Otto were used as subs, and though latter was not used much, he did not weaken the team any. Wilf. Heller was at his best and he played a fine game whenever he was called upon. Schneider drew four penalties, the last one for five minutes, but he held his end up well with Karges on the defence.

Murray was hit in the head with the puck shortly after the game began, but he returned to the ice shortly after and his playing was in no way impaired by the injury.

IN PROVINCE LAST YEAR.

In 1927 there were 198 new mining companies incorporated in the province of Ontario, this being nearly double the average number in the past fifteen years. In those fifteen years, from 1913 to 1927, both inclusive, there have been 1512 companies incorporated in Ontario in connection with mining. The number in 1927 was the largest for any single year. The next largest number was in 1919 when there were 149, with the year 1926 as a very close third, the latter year having 145 incorporations. The smallest number incorporated in any of the fifteen years was in 1918 when there were only 59, the year 1915 having an equal number. In 1925 there were only 70 mining companies incorporated.

WRECKING OF YACHT MADE SENSATIONAL EPISODE

The sensation seekers found their big sensation during the making of the Universal-Jewel "The Sensation Seekers" Lois Weber's thrilling story which has its local premier at the Goldfields theatre on Friday and Saturday of this week.

The three leading characters, Billie Dove, Huntley Gordon and Raymond Bloomer, underwent all the thrills and perils of being lost at sea in the gripping final sequence of the picture in which a beautiful private yacht was sunk without a trace.

Miss Weber, noted as a daring director, threw all motion picture precedent aside and sank the yacht at night by artificial light.

Besides the beautiful yacht which was sunk, Miss Weber used a tug boat from which the wreck was filmed.

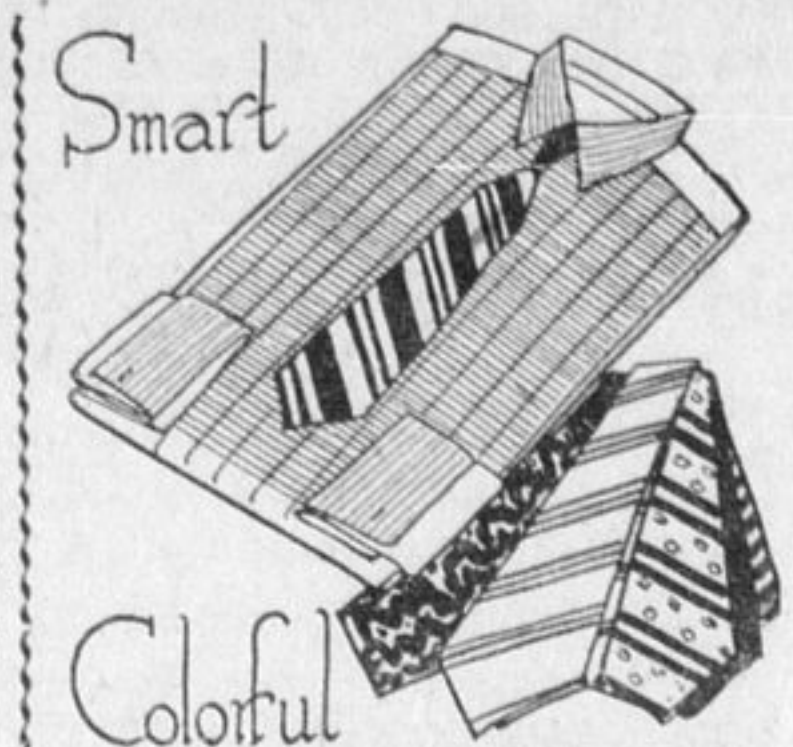

The yacht was run on a rock five miles from shore off San Pedro harbour while an immense generator and huge sun arc are played on the sinking boat while Billie Dove and Huntley Gordon leaped off to swim to safety. Had the lights failed the ship would have sunk in vain for it would have been impossible to film the wreck in the dark.

An unusually spectacular sequence for the climax was filmed which added the final touch to a perfect picture.

In the supporting cast are Peggy Montgomery, Phillips Smalley, Edith Yorke, Clarence Thompson and Nora Cecil.
