"PAINT UP" CAMPAIGN OF VALUE AS WELL AS BEAUTY

Keeping Up Appearances in Premises Proves Good Economy. Visitors Impressed by Appearance of Buildings.

The Maritime Merchant says:— A friend said to us recently that he had to take his hat off to the paint manufacturers for the way in which they have "put over" the paint habit on the people. His reference, of course was to the "save the surface" campaign, which he regarded as a great advertising triumph. We have no wish to minimize the value of this campaign, but we think it is correct to say that it was not the only factor in bringing about the increased demand for paint.

Two other factors as well must share the credit. One, the increase in aesthetic interest which was spreading among the people when the campaign was inaugurated, so that the seed fell on prepared soil, but perhaps even more important than this, the daily increasing competition between individuals and between communities to make their immediate environment more attractive for business reasons.

In the merchandising world competition was never more keen than it is to-day. To increase his trade every merchandiser is now compelled to think of things that did not seem necessary ten or fifteen years ago. The shopping opportunities of the average person have been widened by the invention of the motor car, which has also widened the area of the average store's customer prospects. As a result, merchants have found they must do more than they formerly did to make their stores attractive and this incidentally has led to a greater use of paint.

And to-day, there is competition between places. Towns are vying with one another in an effort to make themselves attractive to the eye. In the old days it did not matter much, whether a town looked well or not, for not only was there little civic pride in this respect, but the strangers who visited a place were few in number. The order of things has completely changed in this respect. There are a hundred or more visitors to every town nowadays for every one that the place had in the days before the motor car, and it is the consciousness of this fact, very largely that induces the average citizen to grow flowers, to encourage civic improvement and to have his premises painted.

The "save the surface" campaign, of course, stressed the value of paint from a protection standpoint and no doubt this effort left its mark, but the feeling we expressed to our friend was that the chief reason why paint sales were increasing was an aesthetic one and that this was based on a growing appreciation of the delight that is found in beauty and the dollar and cents value of beauty as a help to making sales.

Mr. J. Bradette, M. P. for This Riding Replies to Urwick

Member for This Riding Deals With Slanders Against the North Land. Mr. Bradette Has Lived in This Riding for Twenty Years, and does not Believe Conditions are at all Affected.

The following letter explains itself and presents the case in very comprehensive manner:
Sir:—I have read with a great amount of amazement and must also state of resentment the utterances of Professor E. J. Urwick, of the Social Service Department, University of Toronto, when, in speaking on the 17th of last month, at the annual dinner of the Social Service of Canada, he said that a "vice wave, liquor, cards and small groups of undesirable women," has spread over Northern Ontario. Such statements are absolutely false, unwarranted and uncalled for, and I was pleased to read the rebuke of such falsehoods given by Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Premier of Ontario; Hon. W. H. Pritch, Attorney-General, and Hon. Chas. McCrear, Minister of Mines, which was timely and right to the point, and had all the more weight on account of the fact that their administrative duties and their personal knowledge of the exact conditions as existing in that section of the province under attack give them first hand information and they positively know that such conditions as pictured by Professor Urwick do not exist to-day and did not exist in the past.

As one of the pioneer citizens of that section of the province, I also want to protest against such statements as being absolutely false and unfounded. It seems strange to me that periodically some persons, professors or otherwise, spending only a few days in Northern Ontario, and naturally not having the time to study the conditions thoroughly, seem to take great pleasure in spreading statements maligning that part of the country and its population. I well remember the furore that was created, I believe by another professor, who after a very brief stay in the agricultural section, came out with the statement that the soil of the Clay Belt was not adaptable to farming developments. That statement has since been fully refuted, not only by professional agriculturalists of Kapuskasing and Monteith experimental farms, but also by the bountiful and well matured crops raised on the said soil by settlers and farmers of Northern Ontario. At other times they take a fling at our climate and the healthiness and robustness of our population take charge of answering that falsehood, and now it is an attack on the morality of its population and again such imputation is untenable.

I have lived in the Cochrane section of Northern Ontario for the last twenty years so that I know it well. I went up there as a settler and to-day as a man in business and the federal representative of Temiskaming North, I am in a position to know the conditions well, because in living the life of its people I have participated in their joys and their sorrows, their ambitions and aspirations; I have also seen their fortitude in time of calamity and stress and their courage and determination against conflagrations and the elements of nature.

No doubt the learned professor will have a holiday this summer. If so I invite him to spend four weeks with me. We will visit most of Northern Ontario. We will visit the agricultural sections of Hearst, Cochrane and Haileybury; we could also make a very interesting trip to the mining districts of Sudbury, Cobalt and Porcupine; we could spend a few days in such industrial centres as North Bay, Timmins, Iroquois Falls, Ansonville, Kapuskasing and Hearst, and I am positive that after such visits, his opinion will be entirely changed about the morals of these people.

He will find them absolutely human, full of life and energy, not a bit worse and perhaps a little better than in the rest of the country, generally temperate, most particularly since the repeal of the O. T. A., which was never over-popular. As for cards, the learned professor will find a lot of good euchre, 500 and bridge players, and he may even, if he wishes so, drop into a small or big game of "poker" or "stud" but for that matter he could find the same thing in every section of the country. As for small groups of undesirable women. I have been living in Northern Ontario for nearly a quarter of a century, and I have yet to hear of such groups and they are certainly not to be seen and any such women are given short notices of exit by our provincial and municipal police forces.

Prof. Urwick seems to have forgotten the old proverb which says: That there is always quite a little of bad in the best of us and quite a little bit of good in the worst of us. If he was looking for some notoriety he certainly saddled the wrong horse. With his wonderful imagination and no doubt with a good physique, when again he visits the North Country, if he wants to get into something spectacular, why doesn't he get into a prospector's outfit and stake out for himself a new mine, which no doubt still exists, and which may prove as profitable as the Hollinger or the McIntyre, or he could get from the Provincial Government a good 150 acre farm, possessing the best of soil and a climate fully adaptable to settlement and cultivation. There are a thousand and one ways to spend one's time usefully up here, and in the use of his energy in such a manner, would be much more befitting to his position and beneficial to the country than the inexplicable attacks that he has just made on an honest, respectable and law-abiding section of the population.

J. BRADETTE,
Ottawa, June 4, 1928.

JUDGE HEARS INTERESTING CASES AT ROUYN, QUEBEC

A despatch this week from Ottawa says that Judge Roland Miller of Hull has returned from Amos, Que. where he heard a number of cases recently for Rouyn and the general Abitibi district. George McDonald, of Rouyn, was sentenced to three months for receiving 14 diamonds, for a diamond drill, knowing the same to have been stolen. It was his first appearance in court and the diamonds are being returned. A strange feature of the case was the fact that the Crown presented the depositions of three witnesses heard six months ago in the preliminary hearing as part of the records. One of the witnesses is now in Africa, another in Australia and the third in the Yukon. Eight cases were brought up by the Quebec Liquor Commission for alleged illegal sale of liquor. One man pleaded guilty and received a month while the other seven were acquitted. Joseph Lambert was given six months for breaking into a school house at Launay, Abitibi district. Incidentally he faced two charges, one of "breaking into" the school house and the other of "breaking out," the law providing that the latter act, once he had entered is equally illegal.
