As we write, the phone has rung three times in about as many minutes to tell us the glad tidings that Andy Taylor is found. Lost in the Manitoba woods since June 28th, two wires came to his family last evening that he was found alive and in good condition. The whole town is rejoicing with Mrs. Taylor and family. The telegrams came, one from F. Coleman by whom he was employed when lost, the other from the searchers. Both reiterated the fact that his health was good. He was found Monday, August 13th, but particulars are not yet to hand as to just where he was found. After the finding of a note over forty miles east of the original district searched, dated July 26th, search was resumed with renewed hope further east. Then two Indians came out with the story of finding notes written on birch bark by Andy Taylor and fastened to a tree at an old abandoned Hudson Bay fort. It also looked as though he had constructed a raft and the potatoes growing in an old patch there had been disturbed, the Indians thought later than August 1st. Hope ran high, yet the time had been so long that many were dubious. His wife had never quite given up hope, always saying that Andy could take care of himself as long as he was not hurt. Then as their youngest daughter, Annabelle's, birthday drew to a close came the glad message, over which the whole camp is rejoicing.

The Tisdale township council met on Monday evening with Reeve Gallagher and councillors Hawkins and Williams present. There was quite a delegation of Birch St. North residents re a water supply for that part. After some half dozen of his neighbours had asked for water one man stated that he had too much water, but that it was on the land out in front of his property. It seems that carters drawing black muck for the gardens of Timmins have left a large cavity there which has filled with water and is a menace to the public. One child was nearly drowned last week. The engineer was asked to see about the draining of this hole and preventing more being made. The water problem for the houses may be solved by a service tap. C. Jueckeb, fire chief of Schumacher, was present re 50 feet of hose with which the township had been billed. He claimed that this was merely sent as a sample, that later the department had purchase 300 feet of similar hose from the same firm. A letter asking for roads in the northern part of Tisdale was not considered favourably as this part is too sparsely settled to warrant that expense. Several charity cases were reported, one a very needy one from Balsam St. N. is to be investigated by Chief McLinnis who is trying to locate the deserting father. In another case it was considered there were members of the family quite able to earn a living even if one member were incapacitated. Re a cheaper rate for street lights it was not considered economy to put in more lights to eat up the difference in price of electricity and there is to be further correspondence with the Power Co. There was again some correspondence re rock or no rock in Schumacher water connections. Permission was granted for the extension of the front of lots in Schumacher where the new sidewalks are being built but the engineer warned them that plenty of room would be required for the plough for winter. There was correspondence from Cobalt council re the meeting of the Municipal Association in Toronto on August 30th at which Reeve C. V. Gallagher of Tisdale is booked to speak. Further arrangements about this will be made later. Leo Mascioli's tender for the construction of cement sidewalks in Schumacher was accepted.

Under the terms of the insurance contract all General Motors employees of three months' services are eligible to participate in the insurance programme, while new employees and those of less than three months' standing automatically become eligible as soon as the waiting period has elapsed. Individual employees will have $2,000 of life insurance and benefits of $15.00 a week during absence from work owing to illness or accidents happening off the job. Occupational accidents will continue to be covered by workman's compensation.

The insurance will be issued without medical examination—a condition that permits the insuring of many employees who are unable to obtain individual protection because of physical impairment—and the contribution toward the cost will be the same for all employees, regardless of age. The amount the individual worker will pay will be less than 5 cents a day, from one-ninth to one-third of the cost of similar protection if applied for individually. This low cost is made possible by the fact the General Motors will pay a substantial part of the premium.

A feature of the insurance contract is the total and permanent disability clause that provides for the payment of the life insurance to the policy holder if he becomes totally and permanently disabled. Such payment is made in forty equal monthly installments. In the event of such disability the employee would first draw his temporary disability benefits. Thus the combined benefits would cover a period of three years—and seven months.

When commenting on the insurance programme, Mr. Brown pointed out that it is but one of a number of plans for mutual benefit that General Motors and its employees have undertaken co-operatively. He quoted some remarks made by Mr. Sloan in connection with the signing of the application: "The success that General Motors has enjoyed," said Mr. Sloan, "naturally cannot be attributed to any single influence, but on the contrary has resulted from the combined efforts of many. However, the fact the General Motors has prospered proportionately even more than any other industrial enterprise can be attributed almost entirely, I believe, to the increased effectiveness of its employer—employee relationship."
