Hon. John A. Walker, Well-Known in Porcupine in Early Days, Now in Nova Scotia Cabinet.

Old-timers of the Porcupine will remember John A. Walker, who was in this camp in its very early days. He was then a prospector and later was secretary of the Miners' Union here. He was in that post at the time of the strike of 1912, the headquarters of the union for the district being at South Porcupine then, this being before the town of Timmins had attained any particular growth.

Another fiery cross was burned at the south end of Cobalt last week, about eleven o'clock one evening. The burning of the cross was supposed to be done by the K. K. K. It attracted a large crowd of spectators.

Among those from Timmins listed as being at Pembroke for the close of the Old Boys' Reunion were Mrs. F. J. Kehoe, Mrs. Wm. Davis, Mrs. P. Murphy, Mr. Pat Andrews and Mrs. Brownlee.

PORCUPINE PROSPECTOR NOW MINISTER OF CROWN

Hon. John A. Walker, Well-Known in Porcupine in Early Days, Now in Nova Scotia Cabinet.

Old-timers of the Porcupine will remember John A. Walker, who was in this camp in its very early days. He was then a prospector and later was secretary of the Miners' Union here. He was in that post at the time of the strike of 1912, the headquarters of the union for the district being at South Porcupine then, this being before the town of Timmins had attained any particular growth. Old-timers speak of John A. Walker with the highest respect, and so will be pleased to know that he has gone far in advancement since the early days of Porcupine. The last issue of The Toronto Saturday Night publishes a fine half-tone picture of Mr. Walker, now the Hon. John A. Walker, Under the picture, The Saturday Night says: "Hon. John A. Walker, M.A., LL.B., Minister of Natural Resources and Provincial Development for Nova Scotia, who is performing a great progressive service for his province. Mr. Walker is a native of Cape Breton, of Highland Scottish descent. During the early days of the Porcupine gold rush he was a prospector in Northern Ontario, and was also for a short time attached to the Ontario School of Mines. He is now a lawyer and one of the representatives in the legislature of Halifax City and County."

In an article on the Maritime Provinces Hector Charlesworth, editor of The Toronto Saturday Night, in the same issue also says:—"I have never seen Cornwall, but as our car descended the boulder-strewn roadway to Herring Cove, the spectacle brought back to me countless books about Cornwall I have read and countless paintings of its coast that I have seen. Here were little stone walls flanking wind-blown door-yards. Here, in a miniature canyon, a tiny estuary whose brown waters form a shelter for the fishing boats. Hon. J. A. Walker who was my companion, explained to me, when I asked how it was that a settlement had been established in such barren and rocky surroundings, that this little estuary was really the basis of Herring Cove's life, for it affords safe haven for the fishing boats in a sense that more hospitable areas along the coast of Halifax county do not."

The end of the flapper's prayer:—"and O Lord, if I am in an accident let me have on my prettiest underwear."

Johnnie: "What's the difference between Scotsmen and Englishmen, Faither?"

Faither: "I dimma ken, Laddie, bit they've never been the same since Bannockburn." —Exchange.

Minister: "Is there anything you would like to know before you pass away?"

Donald: "Aye, Minister, there's twa things I'd like tae ken. Hoo did you get into that collar, and hoo dae they get gies boots into lemonade bottles?" —Exchange.

Johnnie (at home lessons): "Whit wey is Aberdeen no' the capital o' Scotland, Faither?"

Faither: "Just because there's no' enough capital in it, laddie." —Exchange.
