JOS. CLOUTHIER BADLY BURNED IN ACCIDENT

Gasoline Spilled on Motor Causes Fire. Two Men Burned in Saving Boat

Mr. Jos. Clouthier is in the hospital suffering from severe burns sustained some days ago in an accident on the river. Mrs. Worthington was taking a load of groceries up the river when her outboard motor stalled. Mr. Clouthier with his usual kindness offered to haul her up the river. He tied the canoe on behind his own boat, but just as he started the canoe upset, dumping the goods into the river. Mr. Clouthier and the man with him soon righted the canoe, and decided to transfer the outboard motor to their own boat. They then tied up the canoe close to the boat. Mr. Clouthier passed over the outboard motor to the other man in the boat. In passing it over the motor in the Clouthier boat some of the gasoline dripped from the outboard motor and the result was a sheet of flame shooting all over the boat. Mr. Clouthier bravely faced the flames and started up his boat and brought it to shore so that Mrs. Worthington and his man might not be endangered. Mrs. Worthington was safely landed without injury, but the man stayed with Mr. Clouthier to fight the flames on the boat. They got the fire out but not before they were both rather badly burned. Mr. Clouthier suffered particularly, his injuries from the flames being especially serious. Both men had to jump into the river to quench the fire on their clothes. Mr. Clouthier had to be taken to the hospital, where, however, he is making excellent progress to recovery.

SIX CALLS IN SIX DAYS FOR FIRE DEPARTMENT

In the past six days the Timmins Fire Dept. had six calls, none of the fires turning out in the least serious. This happy result, of course, was due in part at least to the prompt responses and the good work of the department. Most of the fires were simply chimney blazes. The following is a list of the fires with the dates and other particulars:—

- Nov. 3rd, 9.10 p.m., telephone call, 104 Elm street, north, chimney fire. No damage.
- Nov. 4th, 8.25 a.m., call from Box 65, fire at 14 Ogden avenue, chimney fire, no damage.
- Nov. 5th, 8.20 a.m., telephone call, 155 Elm street south, small fire caused from overheated stove, loss about $15.
- Nov. 5th, 11.15 a.m., 51 Maple street, north, small fire caused by overheated pipes in thimble, loss $25.00, extinguished by chemical.
- Nov. 6th, 10.30 a.m., telephone call to 159 Elm street, north, chimney fire, no damage.
- Nov. 7th, 11.00 a.m., telephone call, 7 Spruce street, north, overheated furnace pipes, no damage.

COLONEL WORTHINGTON PASSED AWAY ON MONDAY

One of Early Residents of the Porcupine and Forceful Personality Called by Death

William Wallace Worthington, a well-known old-time resident of the Porcupine district, passed away at the St. Mary's hospital, Timmins, on Monday of this week, Nov. 5th, after a last illness of only a few days. He had enjoyed fine health and vigour until a year or so ago when he had the misfortune to break his hip in a fall. This injury kept him in hospital in Toronto for several months and left him more or less weakened from his former strength. After his recovery from this accident, he appeared to recapture some of his old-time health and strength, but some days ago he was taken ill and it was found necessary to remove him to the hospital where despite all skill and care and the fine physique and endurance of the man himself, he succumbed on Monday.

With the passing of Mr. Worthington, the North Land loses a colourful figure in its development. He had a fine home up the river some miles and his residence was known widely for its home comforts and touches of art and its generous hospitality. The original Worthington home had all home-like touches and was on extended scale. Novel among its furnishings were the stained glass windows. This home was destroyed by fire in 1923, being later rebuilt.

William Wallace Worthington was born in Baltimore, Maryland, in 1853. In his youth he joined the home guards in his native state and made rapid advance in military life, soon being gazetted as a captain. It was from his military connection and his soldier-like bearing that he came to be universally known as Colonel Worthington, which was the invariable way of naming him in this North. In 1888 Col. Worthington came to Toronto where he resided for about 15 years. To Toronto he brought his string of thoroughbred race horses which he had raced throughout the United States. In Toronto and other Canadian cities his noted horses won a certain degree of success. In the early days of the Porcupine camp, before the railway reached here, Col. Worthington came here and settled about seven miles up the river from Timmins. There he had a farm, a sawmill and lumber business and other industries and at one time was a large employer of labour. He suffered considerable ill-luck from fires and other causes but maintained his plucky hopeful spirit to the end. In 1925 his lumber mill plant was wiped out by fire. He was widely known all through the North on account of his business ventures and his interest in horse racing and all other forms of good sport. He was a regular attendant at the Woodbine races at Toronto in recent years, on occasion even rising from a sick bed to attend the events. He was also interested largely in mining claims in the district. In 1909 he staked out a group of 25 claims in Ogden township, being one of the first stakers in that locality.

He is survived by a widow and two married daughters, Mrs. T. Lee, of Richmond, Va., and Mrs. Albert Woolley, of Baltimore, Md. To these and to the other friends and relatives the sympathy of all will be extended. The body was shipped this week to Baltimore, Md., for interment there.

WHY HE FAILED

A Belgian student was relating his experience in studying the English language. "When I discovered that if I was quick I was fast," he said, "and that if I was tied I was fast, if I spent too freely I was fast, and that not to eat was to fast, I was discouraged. But when I came across the sentence, 'The first one won one one-dollar prize,' I gave up trying learn English!"

A beary-eyed man entered a savings bank and hurried to the teller's window. "Lemme have two cases right away," he said, pushing two fifty-dollar bills through the grating.

"What do you mean? Two cases of what?" replied the teller.

"Hanged if I know what name you give it, but I saw a sign outside that said 'four per cent' and I'll drink whatever it is."

"Mother," said the little boy, "These new trousers are too tight; they're tighter'n my own skin."
"Now, my boy, you know that isn't so."
"It is too. I can sit down in my skin, but I can't sit down in these pants!"
