Mrs. Goodkey Tells Her Experience with Pinkham's Compound

Byemoor, Alberta.—"The Change of Life was the trouble with me and I was run-down, thin, and weak and could not sleep, had a poor appetite and could not do much work. I am taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound now and I feel like a well woman. I saw it advertised in the papers and tried it and Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I have recommended it to a lot of women friends." Mrs. Wm. GOODKEY, Byemoor, Alberta.

Former Police Chief at Kirkland States Case

In an open letter to the public the ex-chief of police at Kirkland Lake, Mr. Wm. Johnston, presents his side of the case. At a recent meeting of the Teck township council, Chief Johnston and a constable, Mr. Bird, were asked to resign, the reasons given for the request being that there was not proper co-operation and harmony on the police force and the law was not being properly enforced. Reeve Carter said that three months before the chief had been told that the town must be cleaned up and the chief was empowered to secure any help necessary to this end. The town had not been cleaned up it was claimed, and while the smaller places on the back streets were prosecuted, the bigger places on the main street were allowed to run about wide open. Constable Bird in his remarks to the council meeting suggested that the chief would not prosecute cases that seemed to be clear and easy. The council seemed to agree that chief Johnston was upright and honest, but the idea was left that he had not handled the situation.

"Two mourning dresses on this bill. But we haven't lost anyone." "No, of course not, dear, but you were so sick last month." —Exchange.

In his reply, chief Johnston quotes letters written to the reeve, and left without even an answer, to show that the chief was not given additional help he asked for. He also said that the constable complaining, Officer Bird, had been insubordinate on at least two occasions, yet he was not allowed to discharge him. In concluding his letter Mr. Johnston says:—"The council's statement that I was given all the assistance I needed to enforce the law cannot be borne out. This is proved by the fact that in both instances where additional help was asked, it was refused. It will further be noted there was a lack of definiteness in the charge that the 'Main Street is wide open,' while in the case of the only definite charge, namely the accusations made by Constable Bird, were found without foundation, and there is probably just as much ground for the general statement. I did my work fearlessly and without favour. Loyalty and integrity were shown by Sergt. Shane and Constable Hughes. These two officers were willing to enforce the law at all times. I know how the town force should have been modelled and systematized. But, as chief, I was not given a free hand to adopt or define the best system for a community of this kind." The police situation in Kirkland Lake has created great interest in that town and district. It may also be noted that matters in connection with the affair have received attention all through the North. It may be that notice is also being given to the discussion in other parts of the province. In this connection it may be noted that the Kirkland Lake newspaper, The Northern News, makes it very clear and plain that it stands four-square for decency and the observance of the law, and against the idea that any ring of law-breakers should control affairs for their own profit. Holding this stand, The Northern News also appears to uphold Chief Johnston. Accordingly the tendency of people in general throughout the North will be to believe that Mr. Johnston has much to be said in his favour. Especially will this feeling be held by those who had occasion to have dealings with him in his official capacity for he always gave prompt and courteous service and showed the fine characteristics of a good official. In this North Land it is no joke to say:—"A policeman's lot is not a happy one."

URGING STABILIZING OF NEWSPRINT INDUSTRY

Province of Ontario Vitialy Interested in Remedy of Present Paper Situation.

Last week The Advance published in full the letter sent by Premier Ferguson to the newsprint companies demanding a remedy for the present unsatisfactory condition of the newsprint industry at the present time. The province is interested in the matter not only because settlers and others are suffering from the conditions obtaining but also because the province supplies the basic wealth of raw material upon which the pulp and paper industry is based. Present conditions mean a waste of these resources and a hardship to the settlers and others in whom the province is specially interested.

One remedy suggested by the newsprint companies, or rather, by some of them, appears to be worse than the disease. This is the idea of an embargo on all pulpwood. With such an embargo in force the settlers would have to take any price offered by the Canadian mills or be unable to sell pulpwood. The settlers are the only ones who would be effected by any such embargo as proposed as there is already an embargo on all pulpwood from Crown lands. When the Government with all the facts before it permits export of pulpwood from Crown lands to United States mills it may be taken for granted that there is good reason for giving the permission. The settlers generally desire the embargo kept off, not because they prefer to sell to U.S. mills, but because they desire to have the United States buyers able to come here so that prices may not be kept too low. When the matter of difference in freight is considered, the Canadian mills have a very decided advantage in the price they can afford to pay for pulpwood. The remedy for the present conditions should not be applied at the expense of the settler.

The questions of the present conditions in the newsprint industry were ably dealt with last week in an editorial article in The Toronto Mail and Empire. The Mail and Empire says:—

"The unsatisfactory situation in which the newsprint industry of this country now finds itself is not one the newspaper press might be expected to deplore. Whatever other interests suffer by the low price of white paper the press is an immediate gainer. A continued demoralization of the market for the output of a Canadian industry that ranks second in productive capacity would be bad for wage earners, investors and all whose trade in any considerable degree depends upon activity therein, and in the long run could not but have unfavourable reaction upon industry, that of the daily and periodical press must be carried on on business lines, and whatever lowers the cost of their production is naturally acceptable to publishers. But there is no other kind of enterprise that is so benevolent to industry in general as that carried on by the newspaper press. Newspapers, of course, must have regard to their own interests, but the most influential of them are not of such short-sighted selfishness as to wish to make their gain at the loss of a great body of producers. The newspapers had good reason to protest against the extreme prices maintained for newsprint in wartime and later. All they ask is a fair deal. They desire to see the newsprint industry, as every other Canadian industry, prosper.

"The producers of newsprint found no difficulty in co-operating to hold up the newspaper publishers some years ago. Why cannot they to-day agree

FORMER TIMMINS YOUNG MAN STARS AT OSHAWA

The many friends in town of Bill Arundell, former hockey player with the Timmins team will be interested in the group of three hockey players whose pictures were prominently published in The Toronto Mail and Empire last week. The three players were Dad Drinkle, Bill Arundell and Les Boneham. "Three Young Hockey Stars with Oshawa Shamrocks," was the heading used by The Mail and Empire with the following caption of comment:—

"Oshawa Shamrocks, with a rebuilt and young team, made a most creditable showing in the O.H.A. junior series last winter, and with the majority of the players still eligible and improved by the experience gained, Harold Luke, Harry Lecky and Jimmy McFayden are confident that they have a line-up that will go a long way in the race for the John Ross Robertson Cup. The Shamrocks who will play their home games at Whitty this season, have their first engagement in the S.P.A. junior series at the Arena Gardens scheduled for to-morrow night with University of Toronto Schools as their opponents. Drinkle, Arundell and Boneham are three of the outstanding forwards in the Oshawa squad."

DEPUTY ATTORNEY-GENERAL FYLES DEFENCE IN CASE.

Deputy Attorney-General Edward Bayly, K.C., has filed a statement of the defence in the case for $500.00 damages brought by W. J. Thompson, a mine manager, against Provincial Officer T. Holdcroft, of Cobalt. The case arises from the arrest of Thompson on a charge of being drunk. The case was dismissed in police court, though the magistrate called the attention of the accused to the fact that his attitude towards the officer was such as to bring the trouble upon him. Thompson in his present action alleges false arrest and malicious prosecution. The present proceedings were instituted through Thompson's lawyer, and the papers in the case were forwarded to the Attorney-General's department at Toronto. The Deputy Attorney-General, through the Crown Attorney for Temiskaming, Mr. F. L. Smiley, has duly filed the statement of defense as noted. It is understood that the case will likely be heard at the December sittings of the District Court.

We don't suppose for one minute that he is so crude as to measure foot prints with a yard stick or estimate his possible revenue with a broom handle. Perhaps he knows his business thoroughly. Yet for a man who says he must work in secret to secure results he appears to have rushed into Toronto ringing a cow bell.
