COCHRANE HERO RESCUES BOY FROM DEATH IN LAKE

In the ordinary course of business newspapers have to publish unpleasant items in regard to people on occasion, so when some good fellow does an outstanding act of bravery it seems only fair that he should get attention. There are more good people than bad, and more brave than cowardly. Because of this sometimes a good deed is hardly news, because "everybody's doing it," as the song says. However, when there are outstanding acts of courage and coolness, the newspapers should seize upon them and give them notice, so as to keep a proper mirror before life. In this connection The Advance has much pleasure in re-publishing the following from the last issue of the Cochrane Northland Post:—

"George Wingrove saved a boy from drowning in Commando Lake on Friday, November 16th. Hearing a scream and seeing a boy disappear below the surface of the icy waters, he quickly ran to the rescue. Crawling on his hands and knees along the thin ice he seized the young chap and held him for about 10 minutes until aid was brought. There was no need for the rescuing hero to call for help, for the cries and shrieks of the poor fellow who had fallen through the ice and was now nearly frozen sufficed. At length a rope was brought and the heroic rescue accomplished. We wonder how many people there are who would risk their lives to save a youngster who had fallen through a sheet of ice so thin that it would hardly be justified in being called ice. Good boy, George!"

A man, who had no real home and gave a wrong name, was given thirty days at Sudbury recently for stealing a ride on the Canadian National Railway. "I don't understand that," was his comment. "I thought that there was public ownership of railways in this country." He should be glad; he not only got a ride for nothing, but he was also given free hotel service for a month.

ALLEGED THAT "REDS" ARE INTIMIDATING OTHERS

Sudbury Pastor Claims That Communists Have Organized Efforts of Disloyalty

The article published in the Finnish newspaper, Vapaus, at Sudbury last week which resulted in the arrest of Aaro Vaara, the editor, on a charge of publishing seditious fable against His Majesty King George and His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, appears to have aroused much indignation and resentment in Sudbury and district and, in fact, throughout the whole North Land. The general feeling is that those of alien birth have been used so well and allowed so much liberty that their attitude is particularly mean and contemptible. With the King lying at death's door and all the people anxious as to his recovery, as they have undoubtedly been during the past few weeks, the interjection at this time of what is at best a vulgar and cowardly and unjustified trade, has left the people in a mood that suggests that while liberty will no doubt remain license will be removed from those without the heart or the head to use it decently. At Sudbury investigation and consideration is being given at present to some of the activities of the Finnish "Reds." There is question as to whether these "Reds" with their communistic disloyalty to church and state are in the majority or not. They claim they are. They are reported as boasting that they have 4000 in Sudbury and district right now, with more gathering there, and that they will soon have the upper hand in the community. In any event, it must be admitted, that they more or less control the majority of the Finnish people in that community. They use a policy of intimidation and a sort of mixed persecution and ostracism to force other Finns into line. This is what Sudbury should see now is over-come.

Rev. T. D. Jones, director of Anglo-Saxon work for the United Church in Sudbury district, has told in press interviews during the past few days how he has encountered underhand tactics from the Red element in his endeavours to further church work in his territory. He says that threats and intimidation have been used to force Finnish people away from his church. "There are schools in the Sudbury area I am informed," says Rev. Mr. Jones, where the children have been told by their parents that they must not sing the National Anthem." One school teacher told him:—"The people from here would not use anything that is run or looked after by the church, for they are of strong Red sympathy. Even the children are organized into the Pioneer Society and the papers I have seen are bitter against God, teachers and imperialism. The people can't speak English, some can say a few words, but that is all. But they are well supplied with Red newspapers in their own language. Rev. Mr. Jones personally had a clash with the Finnish Reds in the case of a funeral. They asked to be allowed to take part in the service and he agreed if they would promise not to insert any of their disloyal or treasonable stuff into their part of the service. They promised faithfully, but broke their word and insisted on singing the "Red Flag" song. He became incensed at their meanness and faithlessness, and forcibly closed their books and told them he was prepared to fight rather than allow them to proceed.

Another incident showing the plan of slander and lies by which they attempt to achieve their ends was related by Rev. Mr. Jones. A Finnish missionary was sent by the church to Kirkland Lake, and shortly after his arrival, Rev. Mr. Jones states that the Kirkland Lake correspondent of the Vapaus wrote in an item saying that a newcomer had arrived in town to conduct a disorderly house and to sell liquor, adding that he was connected with one of the missions. "Of course, it was absolutely a lie," the pastor continued, "but unfortunately the missionary did not know his rights under the British law to take action, and the matter was not referred to me until some time had passed. Had I been aware at the time, I would have acted myself."

Mr. Jones says that Finns attending the church are spied upon by the Reds. "Whenever we hold a meeting, one of the Reds will attend and spy on the people, reporting their names to the Red zealots who resort to overt measures," he says. The Reds constantly essay to prey on the fears of the people, he explains. "I have told my people to pay no attention, and find that the best means of combatting them is to defy them." He believes that the Reds can be routed if openly assailed. "After all, I don't believe," said he, "that half of the Finnish immigrants in the district are Reds; it is the Reds who make all the hullabaloo, while their compatriots who are loyal to the country are saying nothing."

Double Wedding at Baptist Parsonage

The Baptist parsonage, Timmins, was the scene of a double wedding on Saturday afternoon of last week, Dec. 15th, at 2.30 o'clock, when Miss Mabel Harwood was united in marriage to Mr. Thomas J. Pigeon, and Miss Myrtle Olive Harward was wedded to Mr. Samuel E. Weicher. The double ceremony was solemnized by Rev. M. R. Hall, in the presence of the mother of the brides and witnesses. Both couples purpose to reside in Timmins, where all their friends will extend best wishes for their happiness.

CUBS STILL LEAD BY ONE POINT IN TOWN LEAGUE

Wolves and Tigers Put up Fiercest Battle of Last Week's Bowling

The Cubs still lead by one point over the Lions in Ostrasser bowling League. The Wolves and the Tigers put up the fiercest battle of the night, each winning two points. The Wolves won two games out of three, but the Tigers won the first game by a sufficient number of pins to beat the Wolves in the total. The Lions took three points from the Buffaloes, and the league leaders took three from the Hounds.

The Foxes and Wildcats, not having enough men to bowl, forfeit the game, thus losing four points apiece. Now that Christmas is near at hand, the bowling games have been postponed till the New Year. The first game in the New Year will take place on Wednesday, Jan. 9th, 1929.

Only four men are on the honour roll for last week:—A. Tomkinson, 684; E. L. Reid, 671; A. Sauve, 640; and H. Garner, 617.

It is noted in the correspondence from all the communities of the North Land that few, if any, places have escaped the influenza. Fortunately, the type is a very mild one, though it has certainly been widespread.

The next meeting of the town council will be held on Friday afternoon of this week, Dec. 21st, commencing at 8 o'clock. On account of the regular date falling on Christmas Eve, it was decided at the meeting of council last week to hold the session on Friday (tomorrow).
