GRAVEL AND SAND-AND PLACER

The Toronto Star has moved into a new and very beautiful building twenty-three storeys high, which is not as high as some of the stories The Star has had in its day. However, The Star can now "go up in the air" without leaving the building.

The Westminster Glee Singers who visited here last week may well be termed Ambassadors of Empire. Good music tends to friendship and understanding, and the British music they presented in such perfect way left the hearts warmer for the Old Land over the seas. As artists and as men the Westminster Glee Singers are unconsciously and without design, perhaps, doing a great work by their tours in binding together the various sections of the far-flung Empire.

There is great interest at the present moment on the probability of an extension of the T. & N. O. Railway from Timmins to Kamiskotia. The T. & N. O. Railway has expressed its willingness to commence construction as soon as reasonable assurance of traffic to warrant the expenditure is forthcoming. The Hollinger Consolidated as the leading operator in the Kamiskotia field, will have much influence in forwarding the early construction of the line. The Hollinger at present has the plans of the proposed line, and it will probably be some weeks before these can be studied and considered sufficiently to allow any definite decision in the matter. In the meantime, it might be well to consider one feature of the situation should the railway be built at an early date. That feature is the matter of a townsite at Kamiskotia. It is a well recognized fact that money expended for other than mining purposes means so much less for actual mining work. If a new townsite is created for the Kamiskotia field, it will entail the expenditure of millibns of dollars to assure the desirable degree of safety, sanitation, educational facilities and other modern requirement. There will be real estate booms, of course, but from these only a very restricted circle of people profit. At the same time the duplication of towns may be avoided by making use of the facilities here in Timmins. A few buildings, of course, will be necessary in the new field, but the general tively small outlay by using Timmins as the town for Kamisway favours such a plan as the more practical and economical for the country, and the railway is prepared to provide the necessary train service to make such a plan work conveniently and economically. Of course, until it is decided camp does not warrant a railway it will scarcely prove a built appears to be the best time to perfect plans to avoid may be turned into other channels for the development of the country.

the law in reference to mining promotions. Those who rights will be strenuously opposed. know some of the mining men concerned may well hope they will be able to clear their names from any taint of The Government has been asked by a delegation from the illegality. At the same time it would seem that no better Ontario Associated Boards of Trade to make an early survey service could be done to honest mining promotion and the of the proposed road between Timmins and Sudbury to development of the country than to have the public realize complete the belt line of roads in the North. This is anthat the Government is keeping a watchful eye to see that other step forward in the work of securing this needed and the ordinary investor has a fair run for his money. no doubt at all but that in some cases in the past inside manipulation has deprived the ordinary man of any chance in certain mining ventures. The recognition of this fact has kept much money out of the mining game. It is equally true that in the majority of cases the public receives a fair chance. This, however, is not so generally recognized. The action of the Government will help to make it generally known that in a mining venture the investor is not improporly handicapped nor can the dice be loaded against him. In cases where prosecution is commenced and the facts show that conditions have not been improperly influenced from the inside, the truth will clear the accused, while if there has been illegality or unfairness punishment may follow. The public after all is not a bad old scout and is usually satisfied with a fair run for its money. The public is entitled to such a fair deal, and the attitude of the Government to insist on this will eventually increase confidence in mining investments.

This is worth quoting:-At the Hull police court last week a man was accused of obtaining $3.75 worth of meat through I little knew his death so near. false pretences. While the case was being tried the accused For me I knew he did his best. startled the judge by saying there were three sides to every question. "Oh, I thought there were only two," commented the judge in questioning tones. "Oh no," said the accused man," there are three sides. There's my side, your side and the right side!"

The attention of The Advance has been called to a song book which the children in the public schools are being asked to purchase for use in singing classes. This song book is printed and published in a foreign country, and the first six or seven songs in it are alien patriotic numbers that would generally be considered as objectionable for general Thou, who hast journeyed on use by Canadian children. It is not the best of policy, surely Shall ever in our memories dwell to have children in this British country singing in terms of adoration of a country other than their own. In the song Throughout the coming years. book referred to there seems to be only one Canadian song, 1929. and no British ones of patriotic trend. The book is excellent as a patriotic song book for United States children and because of this is not at all suited for use in this country. surely there are Canadian publications that could take the place of this imported booklet. It not, there are assuredly IN LOVING MEMORY of my dear Solicitor for Wilson W. Butler and hosts of Old Country British song books that could be imported, if importation is necessary. The British song books would be found superior, even from the musical standpoint and the standpoint of interest. In opening the meeting called by the Department of Lands and Forests on Tuesday to discuss the proposed rules of the Mattagami Booming Company, Major Hartt explained that he represented the Government. It was a good idea to make this explanation, otherwise a stranger might have feared that he was the humourous advocate for some other When days are dark and friends are interests. Major Hartt pretended to be surprised and annoyed at the publicity given the conditions on the river as they would be if the booming company were allowed to carry out its wishes, but it is very plain, indeed, that the publicity had a material effect in inducing the calling of the meeting itself.
