FIRE AND EXPLOSION TAKE LIFE OF ELK LAKE TRAPPER

Last week The Advance made brief reference to the sad death of Charles Henderson, a trapper living near Elk Lake. The following more detailed account of the tragedy is given by The Halleybury last week:—

"Charles Henderson, aged 62, who lived alone in the Elk Lake district, lost his life in a fire which destroyed the cabin on Thursday evening last. There were no witnesses to the tragedy and only by reconstructing the scene could the police and coroner, who investigated, form any conclusions as to how it occurred. Henderson had lived in the cabin for some time and was engaged in trapping and doing assessment work at various properties. He was well known in the district. The scene of the tragedy is about two miles from the Wigwag mine and is near the Gowganda road. The flames of the cabin were seen from the mine and Provincial Constable Dickson of Gowganda, and Coroner Dr. G. Crann investigated and decided that no inquest was necessary. Only parts of the unfortunate man's body could be found and it was concluded that he had attempted to start his fire with gasoline. His remains were lying near the doorway and the stove in the cabin was blown to pieces. The fire was seen just at dusk and it was thought that Henderson had just returned from his day's work and was about to prepare his supper. His tracks could be plainly seen in the snow where he had returned to the house. The circumstances of the fatality were reported to the Provincial Police headquarters at Cobalt at the end of the week."

STATISTICS OF GIRLS' GAME

(From Concordia (Kansas) Blade)

Even after we had spent a bewildering evening watching a girls' basketball game, we were still unable to discover the object of the contest. Following the play of one particular bright star, we made note of her activities during the course of the game:

1. Fixed her hair 32 times
2. Attempted to stuff middy into bloomers 397 times.
3. Pulled up stockings 131 times.
4. Jumped up and down, waved her arms and screamed at short intervals.

Regarding Financing of Grimston-Porcupine

The Northern Miner last week says: "Digby Grimston, the president of Grimston Porcupine Gold Mines, Limited, states in an interview that at the present time the company is trying to obtain sufficient finances through the sale of treasury stock to proceed with the development of the property. He indicates that the programme to be followed will include shaft sinking on the veins exposed during the work last year, especially the high grade discovery, and the installation of a small plant for that purpose. Plant would include a two-stamp Tremaine mill. "We hold the opinion," he adds, "that by treating the high grade we will be able to meet a large proportion of our operating expenses. While we have not, as yet secured enough funds to carry out this programme, we are negotiating at the present time to accomplish that end, and should we meet with success we will lose no time in getting under way." The claims of the company which were the scene of last year's operations are in Garrison township, Lightning river area, in the Harker section."

FUNERAL OF THE LATE S. C. SIMPSON AT LOCHWINNOCH

A despatch last week from North Bay says:—

"Friends and relatives gathered in large numbers Sunday afternoon, Mar. 31st, to pay homage to Samuel C. Simpson whose funeral was held from the home of his sister, Mrs. John Normand, Lochwinnoch, to the Goshen cemetery. The late Mr. Simpson met a tragic death on Wednesday morning of last week about four miles north of Cochrane on the James Bay extension of the T. and N. O. railway when he was crushed between two gasoline speeders. The body arrived at Glasgow station on Saturday morning and was conveyed to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Normand. Mr. Simpson was born in McNab township in 1895, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Simpson. On Sept. 23, 1925, he married Miss Marion Connery, of Lochwinnoch, and moved to Cochrane where he was employed as lineman on the T. and N. O. railway. Surviving him are his wife, one son, three brothers, George Simpson, supervisor of the Telephone and Telegraph lines of the T. and N. O. railway, North Bay; Henry and James Simpson, McNab township, Renfrew county; and two sisters, Mrs. John Normand, Lochwinnoch, Ont., and Margaret Simpson, Utica, N. Y. Renfrew Lodge, A. F. and A. M. No. 122, of which the deceased was a member conducted service at the house and grave. The funeral service was conducted by Rev. D. M. Kerr, Lochwinnoch and Rev. D. M. McCurdy, Braeside. The pall-bearers were: Morris Storie, Arthur Storie, Lindsay Storie, James F. Mayhew, N. E. Lindsay and Robert McGregor."

WHILE NURSING A BROKEN LEG

A remarkable testimony for Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

"A few months ago I had the misfortune to be knocked down by an automobile, my leg was broken and whole system badly shaken," writes a citizen of Toronto, Canada. "Having lived a very active life before, when forced to still constipation soon made its appearance. Drugs and medicines proved useless, and I could not obtain relief until I tried Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. The difference was noticeable almost at once, and from then on, during my entire convalescence, ALL-BRAN kept me in perfect condition. Though I am now over 60 years of age, my physician tells me that I have made the recovery of a 25-year-old man."

Many people who suffer from inactivity during the enforced inactivity following illness, or while engaged in sedentary work and study, would find rapid and permanent relief in the regular use of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to conquer constipation. Eat not less than two tablespoonfuls every morning, and that amount at every meal if the case is chronic. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is delicious with honey and milk or cream. Sold at all grocers.

Made in London, Canada.

Recalling Incidents of Fifty-seven Years Ago

The observation of the fifty-seventh anniversary of the founding of The Toronto Mail & Empire is not unduly emphasized by the newspaper itself last week, though the fact is that the one reference made to the event by the Mail and Empire would tempt readers to wish that the paper had extended on the article or given others along the same line. The article in question after detailing the interesting circumstances in connection with the founding of the paper, proceeded to recall some items from the initial issues. The article is worth reproduction in full, so here it is as given by The Mail and Empire:—

"Fifty-seven years ago to-day The Mail and Empire was born in Confederation. It was not The Mail and Empire then; it was only The Mail. On Feb. 6, 1895, through the acquisition of The Empire it assumed its present name. On Feb. 16, 1869, Sir John A. Macdonald in a letter to Senator, afterwards Sir David Macpherson, said: "I have long thought that a good paper of Liberal-Conservative cast was greatly required in Toronto." The thought fathered The Mail. Not at once, for it was difficult to organize an enterprise requiring technical skill and large capital. It was not until March 30, 1872, that the first copy of The Mail appeared.

"It was an extraordinarily large edition. Six sheets was consumed in announcing its policy, spreading the news of the day and portraying its tiny, unattractive advertisements. It was printed on the Wharfedale. Perhaps it should be said "by the Wharfedale," for any press with such a splendid name must have had a personal hand in the business.

"The Wharfedale, in fact, was such a magnificent creation that it could not be contained in the building at the southeast corner of the present site of The Mail and Empire building. It had to be housed in a special structure in the garden. In those days, gardens existed at King and Bay street. The latest news was carried then as now. The announcement of the closing of the Ballymate post office because the salary of $10 a year as postmaster did not attract potential incumbents received front page prominence. Guelph complained of a chicken thief. Cannington had a "good brass band which gave a good concert last week." Brantford must have been enjoying prosperity, because residents were faced with a serious housing shortage.

"Some malicious person had painted huge crosses on the doors of the Wesleyan Methodist and Presbyterian churches. It was detailed. Under Canadian briefs was told the sad death of a tavernkeeper at Houghton who died "after thrice tasting his own preparation of whiskey." And that before the days of prohibition. Mr. John Bowby, second concession, Woodbridge, had a cow "which lately gave birth to four calves at one birth. The cow is four years old and has seven calves." And volume production was not a motto as yet.

"As a front page advertisement the Royal Lyceum, Toronto, announced the first showing in Toronto of Inshavogue to be followed by The Artful Dodger. Patrons were assured of appropriate costumes, scenery, tableaux, etc.

"In the left, or first, column of the front page was carried a daily meteorological report and forecast. To read this one had to turn the page cross-wise.

"The motto of the first Mail, streaming across the front page, declared "Not local purposes, not local prejudices ought to guide, but the general good." The manifesto under the name of Thomas C. Patterson, the first manager, upheld this motto, declaring that The Mail would "do justice to new ideas and the irresistible force of progress."

DEATH OF JAS. C. REDPATH WELL KNOWN IN THE NORTH

Widely Known and Popular Business Man of New Liskeard Passes Away. One of the Originals of Horne Syndicate

The New Liskeard Speaker last week makes the following reference to the death of Mr. James C. Redpath, well known to many in this town and district, and highly regarded by all who knew him:—

"New Liskeard friends were greatly shocked when the word reached town that James C. Redpath, former New Liskeard resident, had passed away in Toronto on Thursday last, the immediate cause of death being pneumonia. The late Mr. Redpath and his family had been residents of New Liskeard for many years past, where he carried on a very successful jewelry business. He was born at Newcastle-on-Tyne, England, and came to Canada some twenty-five years ago. The family were very highly respected in the community and general regret was expressed when they decided to leave town and reside in Toronto.

"The deceased was one of the originals in connection with the staking of the Horne Mine, now more prominently known as Noranda. The late Mr. Redpath was a Mason and a Noble of the Rameses Temple of the Mystic Shrine. He is survived by his wife and two daughters, Mrs. R. V. Shave, and Miss Olive Redpath, of Toronto. To the bereaved ones go the sympathy of a very large circle of intimate friends.

"The funeral was held Saturday March 30th, burial at Prospect Cemetery, Toronto, service under auspices of Harmony Lodge A. F. and A. M. M. and Rameses Temple A. A. O. M. S. followed by the beautiful service of the Anglican Church, Rev. D. R. Dewdney of St. Chad's Church, officiating.

"Bearers: H. Brown, J. Moran, Chas. Soady, J. Nelson, T. E. Armstrong, Dr. H. Hessian.

"A great number of friends from the North and many from Toronto were present to pay their last sad offices of respect.

"Floral offerings were received from the following: Rameses Temple of the Mystic Shrine; Temiskaming Lodge A. F. & A. M.; Temiskaming Preceptory, Halleybury; I. O. O. F., New Liskeard; Royal Arch Chapter, New Liskeard; Oakwood Club, Toronto.

WHY SO MANY SMITHS?

("Peter Simple" in Morning Post)

I am interested in the query put forth by Mr. John Smith, who wants to know why "Smith" is the commonest name in England. Of course we all know that it is the commonest in the pages of the London directory, and the telephone book asserts the fact beyond dispute. But why? In former days there were many blacksmiths no doubt, not to speak of whitesmiths, but they surely did not at any time easily outnumber every other single trade. Why should the Smiths have increased to such an extent? Perhaps it is a case of the survival of the fittest. The smith was usually "a mighty man, with large and sinewy hands," and his healthy progeny may have survived where others failed in the struggle for life. At any rate that is a comforting thought for the Smiths.

Verla; Miss Jeanette McRae; Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Sharp; Mrs. Gold and Emma; Mr. and Mrs. James Taylor and family; Mrs. Hain and Mrs. Legris; Mr. and Mrs. T. Moseley-Williams; Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Ritchie and family; Mr. and Mrs. Sumbler.

"Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Rice and family, Halleybury; Mr. McGill, Hamilton."
