CHIBOUGAMAU PROSPECTORS DRILL CORE SENSATIONAL

The log of the No. 5 diamond drill core secured on Chibougamau Prospectors, Ltd., is among the most impressive ever disclosed on any new mining enterprise in this country. Commencing at 252 feet in depth, the assaying of the core was done in sections averaging a little over two feet.

The first 12 assays, averaging 30 inches each, assayed as follows: $4.71, $9.22, $7.10, $17.77, $3.22, $10.23, $19.88, $27.65, $8.63, $5.60, $7.51, $10.44. This made up a total of 30 feet averaging $10.71 per ton.

The next 11 assays were sensational these also representing an average over more than two feet each: $21.84, $17.48, $19.20, $24.20, $15.89, $25.16, $20.68, $65.12, $25.10, $34.64 and $38.02.

This was followed by eight assays which also ran high: $8.10, $5.40, $16.20, $1.05, $4.44, $35.15, $67.78, $77.18, and a final section of five feet running low. The results obtained come as an outstanding reward to those who financed the enterprise and maintained faith against all earlier obstacles.—Toronto Mail and Empire.

RINTA-NOHKA TO BE TRIED AGAIN AT THE NEXT ASSIZES

Jury Could Not Agree on a Verdict in the Case of the South Porcupine Finlander Accused of the Murder of Julius Niemi

Reports from Cochrane on Friday night were to the effect that the jury in the case of Rinta-Nohka, the Finlander charged with murder of Julius Niemi at South Porcupine last fall, had returned with the statement to the judge that they could not agree on a verdict in the case. The jurors were discharged and the case was traversed to the next court.

The trial last week of Rinta-Nohka was reported as follows last week by the staff reporter of the North Bay Nugget:— After deliberating for four hours in the case of Pertelli Rinta-Nohka, charged with the murder of Julius Niemi, the assizes jury at 3.30 Friday afternoon returned with a verdict of "not guilty," but Mr. Justice Wright immediately ordered them back to the jury room to reconsider their verdict, remarking: "I do not propose to accept that verdict."

With the hearing of evidence in the case concluded, the jury retired at noon to consider its verdict. They returned for direction on four points during their deliberations. They were told by Mr. Justice Wright that the alleged crime was committed shortly after ten o'clock, and that the accused was arrested when in bed at 10.45. They also wanted to know the width of the wound on the victim's temple, but were told that this point was immaterial. When they asked if the constable who made the arrest had found any blood stains on the accused's clothing, they were advised that no evidence "one way or another," had been submitted in that regard. Lastly, the jurors enquired as to whether persons might be incriminated, but were advised that this question did not arise in the case.

Rinta-Nohka was charged with the slaying of Julius Niemi, another Finn, in what appears to have been a drunken brawl at South Porcupine on the night of November 11 last. The possibility that a verdict of manslaughter might be returned, instead of the more serious crime, was mentioned during the addresses of the judge and counsel, if it were felt that the accused was responsible for the killing, but was under the influence of liquor at the time.

Four witnesses were called by the crown, but only one of these, Eino Kupilan had actually seen the alleged scuffle. Paava Suppala had come along later and he said he had seen Niemi, the victim, lying on the sidewalk. He had helped Kupilan put Niemi in the automobile which was to take him to the hospital and then the witness had gone to bed, he told Mr. Cunningham. Answering Mr. Kester, Kupilan said there was what he called "a poor wire fence around the teachers' residence" but he told the crown prosecutor he had not seen any projecting wire or nail in it. Both Rinta-Nohka and Niemi had been intoxicated when he saw them. Mrs. Mary Walli, who keeps the boarding house where the prisoner stayed, told the court she had tried to coax the accused to go to his bed, but he went out. Later Kupilan and Seppala had brought their partner (Niemi) to her door, but she had told them to take him to the hospital. She had warned Rinta-Nohka not to touch a pair of scissors she had left on a table, but that was for no particular reason. She told Mr. Kester that although the men she had seen earlier in the evening, and had included Niemi and the accused had been talking among themselves, she had heard no harsh words spoke.

The accused, taking the stand on his own behalf, said there had been considerable drinking during the evening and that he, personally, had been "severely drunk." One suggestion had been to get some drinks "so, as to be in a more cheerful mood," at a dance that was being held. He did not want to wrestle with Kupilan, as the crown witness had suggested, he said.

DEATH OF FATHER OF MR. D. B. CURTIS AT BARRIE LAST MONTH

Some weeks ago The Advance made brief reference to the death of Mr. Jas. Curtis, Barrie, father of Mr. D. B. Curtis, of Timmins, and Hamilton. The following reference to the death is from last week's issue of The Barrie Examiner:— "An esteemed resident of Barrie passed away on Sunday, March 31, in the person of Jas. Curtis, Owen St., in his 75th year. A native of Ireland he came to Canada with his parents when a child, the family settling in Peel County. While a young man deceased joined the staff of the Singer Sewing Machine Co. and for many years was stationed at Georgetown, where his funeral took place on Tuesday of last week. In 1887 the late Mr. Curtis married Miss Rose McConville of Stratsville, who survives him, as does a daughter, Mrs. Geo. Sparr of Toronto, and a son, Duncan B. Curtis of Hamilton. Deceased was a devout Roman Catholic and a member of the Holy Name Society."

Daniel Gagnon, the 14-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Gagnon, North Bay, died last week from a shot from a 22 rifle with which he was playing. He was twirling the gun around when it discharged, the shot entering his left temple. He only lived a few hours after the accident.

ONTARIO'S GOLD OUTPUT INCREASED IN MARCH, 1929

Production from Gold Mines Greater Than Previous Months. Porcupine Shows Gain Over February Production

Returns received by the Ontario Department of Mines from the gold mines of the Province for March were higher than those of either January or February, and well above the average monthly output for 1928. Referring to areas, the Porcupine camp during March showed a gain above the short month of February, but was lower than January, while the Kirkland Lake area reported a steady increase each month. ABOUT ONE OF THE HOLLINGER CLAIMS FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

Under the heading "The North Country of Yesterday," The North Bay Nugget last week reproduced the following item from its files of April 9th, 1914:— "The remarkable development of the Acme Gold Mines of Timmins is largely accountable for the determination to proceed with the expansion of the power system by the Canadian Mining and Finance Corporation. In one spot near the McIntyre line there is a good width of ore all of which can be worked at a good profit. And this only one of the many good ore bodies located on the private property of the Timmins, McMartin, Dunlap syndicate."

JURY'S VERDICT EXONERATES CLERGYMAN AT COCHRANE

Rev. W. B. Williston Found Not Guilty of Serious Charge and at Once Discharged by Judge

At the assizes on Wednesday afternoon the jury brought in a verdict of not guilty in the case of Rev. W. B. Williston, rector of Holy Trinity Pro-Cathedral at Cochrane, on the charge of a serious offence against a young girl. The jury was out only forty minutes before returning with the verdict, and the presiding judge, Mr. Justice Wright, at once discharged the accused clergyman, who left the court freed of the offence. Bishop Anderson, of the Diocese of Moosonee, who had consistently refused to believe the charge from the time it was first brought against the clergyman, was among the first to congratulate the freed man, and the two of them left the court together.

Rev. Mr. Williston was defended by Arthur Slaght, K.C., who said in addressing the jury that "there was not a particle of corroboration of the story told by the two main infant witnesses of the crown." He pointed out that the testimony of the children had varied in importance and details. In referring to their story Mr. Slaght is quoted as calling it "the grotesque and terribly diseased story that had come from the lips of these two unfortunate children." He considered the story of the younger child as trumped up and put together very badly. In his charge to the jury A. B. Cunningham, K.C., crown prosecutor thought that in considering the apparent inconsistencies of the stories by the little girls the jurors must consider their ages. He suggested that there was corroboration in the fact that the story told by the older girl in Rouyn corresponded largely with that related by the other child in Cochrane. The judge in commenting on the marked differences in the evidence of the girls said that it was for the jury to determine whether in view of the contradiction of testimony there was the element of truth in establishing the main charge, and also whether the mental calibre of the girls was such that they could fabricate the stories told. The judge also asked what motive would induce the girls to give evidence such as had been presented.

The case for the prosecution rested chiefly on the evidence of two girls, one aged ten and the other twelve years. The older of the two, it was alleged, had been assaulted by the accused. The girls varied materially in their stories. One said the offence had occurred one afternoon late in June in the basement of the church. The other said it was the following morning. Both said they were at the church at the time of the offence, but the one girl said that she was alone with the accused at the time of the offence, while the other girl alleged that she was also present in the room at the time. They differed also in the amount of money they alleged that had been given them, one placing the amount at ten cents and the other asserting it was a quarter each.

Rev. Mr. Williston denied any impropriety of any kind. He said that he had found it necessary to reprimand the girls on June 4th in the basement of the church, but he denied that they were in the basement of the church with him at any subsequent time. The older girl denied that she was reprimanded by the clergyman, but one of the ladies of the church, who was present at the time, confirmed this part of Mr. Williston's evidence. Bishop Anderson described the accused as a man of thoroughly good character and earnestness, while F. C. Ivy, mayor of Cochrane, also gave character evidence speaking in highest terms of the rector. The girls, called in reply at the close of the case, claimed that they had been in the basement of the church with the rector on more than one occasion after the date he mentioned. Sgt. Gardner and other police officials also gave evidence in the case. The girl's mother told Mr. Slaght she had known nothing of the matter until Sgt. Gardner had called at her home in Rouyn. The girl said that she had not told about the alleged offence because she had been told not to by the accused. She said that the first that had been said about it by her was when

Sergt. Gardner and Provincial Officer John Page had interviewed her at Rouyn in the presence of her mother. After considering the evidence the jury returned the verdict of not guilty, and the judge freed the accused man of the charge. There was only the one charge against the accused, and the jury's verdict freed the clergyman of this accusation.

MR. KENNEDY STILL SAYS HE SAYS WHAT HE DID SAY

The New Liskeard Speaker last week says:—"Unfortunately we have mislaid the Porcupine Advance which contained a letter from a Matheson farmer, criticising the statement made by Mr. Kennedy, M.P.P., viz.: That 'every farmer in my constituency has a road.' Up to the present, Mr. Kennedy assures us, his statement has not been disputed. But he says he has enough on his hands to look after the roads of Temiskaming without having to become responsible for the state of the roads in South and North Cochrane."

The Marter correspondent of The New Liskeard Speaker last week says:—"William Hounslow had an awful surprise last week. He had kept two geese and a gander all winter and as we say he had an awful surprise last week. THE GANDER LAID AN EGG. What do you think of that for general purpose birds?"
